

Raleigh Women Take Hand In City Precinct Meetings

Dr. Carroll takes the view that the practice of former times of allowing men who are within a few months of their majority a voice in the party councils is sufficient precedent for allowing women on the eve of being granted suffrage the same privilege.

Male members of the party were astounded but not altogether unpleasantly when the women appeared at the meetings. The women put to shame for all time the ancient saw about the inability of their sex to keep a secret.

Women will undoubtedly attend the county convention as delegates and their status as such will be definitely established. Some party leaders would gladly welcome them, but are a little fearful of the regularity of receiving them until the Amendment is ratified.

Resolutions were passed in both precincts of the second Ward calling upon the county convention to endorse the Governor's stand for consideration and passage of the Nineteenth Amendment in July.

One of the precincts where the women made a special hit by their unexpected appearance, and were given a particularly enthusiastic reception was the second precinct second ward, voting at the Person Street Pharmacy.

vention. There, as elsewhere, the women outnumbered the men. Mr. W. W. Willson offered the resolution making the Democratic men and women of the precinct delegates to the county convention.

Among the women at this precinct meeting were Miss Elsie Riddick, president of the Raleigh Equal Suffrage League, Mrs. C. C. Blalock, Mrs. Perdue, Mrs. J. S. Cox, Mrs. L. A. Shirley, Mrs. Walter Dent, Mrs. Creekmore, Mrs. J. J. Bowen, and Miss Ruth Lee, and Miss Nannie Lee.

When the question of electing precinct committeemen came up it was decided on motion of J. W. Bailey, Judge J. Crawford Biggs and other leaders in the precinct, all Democrats of the precinct, men and women, were authorized to attend the county convention as delegates.

BILL TO FILL PLACES OF DISABLED JUSTICES

Washington, March 27.—The President would be authorized by a bill introduced today by Representative Brand Democrat, Georgia, to appoint judges of the circuit court of appeals as temporary substitutes on the supreme court for justices disqualified from deciding cases before the court.

Mr. Brand told the House that the necessity for such a law was demonstrated in the recent steel corporation case, which was decided against the Government by less than a majority of the court. Two justices were disqualified, and three dissented from the majority opinion agreed to by the remaining four.

WILSON PEOPLE OBJECT TO SELLING COURTHOUSE

Wilson, March 27.—When the proposition was first made to sell the Wilson county court house site that the space might be used for commercial purposes the scheme met with opposition from all classes of citizens, and especially from the Wilson Women's Club and kindred organizations, and from women in the country who feel that to move the court house from its present site and take from them the only resting place—the court house green, the only remembrance of a park in the city—and compel them to stand on the street corners and on the curbing when they come to Wilson to do their trading.

Through the local paper the proposition to sell has been thoroughly aired out and if the matter should come to a show-down at an election called to get the sentiment of the taxpayers, it is the general opinion that the scheme will be snuffed under.

Get Rid of Your Fat. Thousands of others have gotten rid of their WITHOUT DIETING OR EXERCISING often at the rate of over a pound a day and WITHOUT PAYMENT until reduction has taken place. DR. R. NEWMAN. 335 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Desk C-61

Conspicuous nose pores How to reduce them. Complexions otherwise flawless are often ruined by conspicuous nose pores. The pores of the face are not as fine as on other parts of the body. On the nose especially, there are more fat glands than elsewhere and there is more activity of the pores. These pores, if not properly stimulated and kept free from dirt, clog up and become enlarged. To reduce enlarged nose pores: Wring a soft cloth from very hot water, lather it with Woodbury's Facial Soap, then hold it to your face. When the heat has expanded the pores, rub in very gently a fresh lather of Woodbury's. Repeat this hot water and lather application several times, stopping at once if your nose feels sensitive. Then finish by rubbing the nose for thirty seconds with a piece of ice.

Notice the improvement the very first treatment makes—a promise of what the steady use of Woodbury's Facial Soap will do. But do not expect to change completely in a week a condition resulting from long continued exposure and neglect. Use this treatment persistently. It will gradually reduce the enlarged pores and make them inconspicuous. Get a cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap and begin tonight the treatment your skin needs. You will find Woodbury's on sale at any drug store or toilet goods counter in the United States or Canada. A 25 cent cake will last a month or six weeks. A perfectly good man will do an awful fool thing. You have done it, yourself, and you ought to know. Once upon a time (in fact, just a few months ago), there was a very profitable general supply business being operated by a corporation composed of two mighty good men. The junior member got himself a wife and a tidy sum of money, at one lick. So, knowing that he would never again be able to boss anything or body after business hours, he wanted to get in a position where he could dictate the course of things for a few hours during the day. Besides, the sole ownership of the business meant double income to him. One night while the two partners were down at the office, running over some routine matters, Jim up and says: "Jack, what will you take for your stock in the company?" Without seriously considering the question or its real import, Jack replied: "I don't want to sell, but I would take one seventy five." You can't imagine his surprise when Jim grabbed a check and filled it out for a thousand dollars and handed it to Jack with the words, "You've sold out!" Thus ends the first chapter. And here is the sequel: The transaction put into Jack's hands a lot of good securities and other properties, amounting to some $40,000, and cash of the same amount. But it put Jack out of a job. He has been out for a month or two, and he wants to get back into harness. He will invest from ten to twenty-five thousand dollars in a good going business that will give him a responsible position. And we are free to say that he can stand and discharge responsibilities. He has been doing it to a considerable degree since he was seventeen, when he began with one hundred dollars. He is now around thirty, and is worth around seventy-five thousand dollars in liquid assets, besides a good many thousands of sundries. He is an expert cotton grader. He is equally good at office details and management, and knows the buying and selling of merchandise. Excellent judge of men. He wants an interest in a good business—preferably jobbing—and take a responsible position which carries a reasonable salary. Location must be a good-size town with good school advantages. He will not consider starting a new business. He can stand any amount of investigation. If your proposition will stand the same, tell us about it. Refer to Case-87.
