

DETECTIVES STILL BATTLE FOR CLUE

Jealousy or Vengeance Believed To Have Been Motive For Elwell Murder

New York, June 14.—Jealousy over a woman or vengeance for heavy losses sustained at cards, which, if either, furnished the motive for the murder here last Friday of Joseph B. Elwell, wealthy turfman and "whist wizard."

The police tonight were fluctuating between these theories in their efforts to solve a crime which they admitted was the most baffling they had encountered in years.

Clues point to the woman theory, according to the majority of the detectives working on the case. They claimed this theory was strengthened today when it was learned that Marie Larron, Elwell's housekeeper, had found in the bedroom of his home, when he was shot, a woman's silk undergarment, whose name is being withheld pending her examination.

Conviction that the husband of this woman, an ex-army man, killed the "whist expert," is expressed by some detectives. The size of the bullet and the fact that it had a steel jacket apparently indicate that a government automatic pistol was used, they said. A forty-five is too large a weapon for popular civilian use, they explained, and the steel jacket indicated that the bullet was fired from an automatic.

On the other hand the police were reluctant to discard the theory that a gambler, "broken," at what by an international authority on the game, may have done the shooting. They sought to trace the source of a report that such a gambler had threatened to kill Elwell, and in continuing today, examination of society women, sporting men and prominent figures in New York's financial district, where Elwell occupied a broker's office, devoted most of their questions to "big play" in which he had engaged.

Some witnesses described to the police games in which the sky literally was the limit, games in which Elwell had matched wits—and considerable resources of his own—against the still greater resources of financiers with an international reputation.

On the other hand, stories of Elwell's "killings," once estimated by his wife, from whom he was separated, as high as thirty thousand dollars one evening, were contradicted by Wilbur C. Whitehead, associated with the banking firm of E. N. Breitung and Company.

Whitehead, an intimate friend of Elwell's, who himself is considered an authority on bridge, spent much of the day at the district attorney's office. He described the dead man as an "enthusiastic loser," rather than a big winner.

KENNEDY HOME WINS GAME

Dover, June 14.—In the hardest fought game of the season the Kennedy Home of Kingston went down in defeat at the hands of the Dover "Bear Cats" to the tune of 7 to 6. It appeared that the visitors had the game strangled away on ice until the final inning, when, with three men on base, Civils pashed one over the right field fence scoring four runs. This was the beginning of a battling rally.

LAST EXERCISES HELD BY SENIORS

(Continued From Page One.) Through his firmness, his gentleness, his common sense and feeling of humor, he has brought us almost to the point where the honor system administrators themselves are wailing.

Annual Oratorical Contest. After a short recess the meeting was turned over to President Chase for the oratorical contest for the Willie P. Mangum medal. The four seniors who spoke were John P. Washburn of Lenoir, on "The Progress of the University Towards an Ideal," Thomas J. Brawley of Gastonia on "The University and the State," Columbus A. Hoyle of Fallston on "Another Step Toward Our Democratic Ideal," and Folger L. Townsend of Bessemer City on "Americanism of Traditional Isolation or of Twentieth Century Progress."

The winner will not be announced until Wednesday, but the hero of the contest was unquestionably C. A. Hoyle. In the midst of his oration, a stirring defense of the League of Nations, he lost track of his set speech. Hesitating a minute or two, he had to sit down without finishing. During the succeeding speech he went over to President Chase and asked permission to repeat his oration.

"I am sure this audience will listen willingly to a man who refuses to admit himself defeated," said President Chase to the crowd in Gerrard Hall. And Young Hoyle began his speech again, went straight through to the end, and finished in a whirlwind of applause.

"I think two victories have been won on this platform this morning," said President Chase.

WARREN CONFIDENT OF PARTY SUCCESS

Democratic Chairman Says G. O. P. Tactics Have Awakened Distrust

Democratic State Chairman Thomas D. Warren, who was in Raleigh yesterday on legal business, announced that the Democratic campaign in this State would open about August 1. He is now looking around for a suitable suite of offices for use as headquarters.

Mr. Warren was optimistic about the outlook. The Republicans have awakened widespread distrust it appears to him. The fact that a Republican Senator was indicted on the charge of buying an election, convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary was a terrible black eye for the Republicans, said Mr. Warren, and when on top of that there came out the scandal of the Wood and Lowden campaign funds the situation was about as bad as it could be for them in the judgment of the State chairman, but, said he, it was made worse still by the nomination of a weak and colorless candidate and the adoption of a straddling platform. The errors of the opposition party would operate powerfully in behalf of the Democracy. Mr. Warren declared. But he felt also that the record of the Democracy in Congress and in the Presidency and cabinet positions had been such as to command the support of the people on its own merits.

Mr. Warren was asked his views as to the outlook in the State and as to whether progressive legislation enacted by the legislature of 1919 would cause the Democrats to lose any seats in the General Assembly. He said he believed the people at the polls would ratify the work of the legislature and that the Democratic majority in the House and Senate would be more apt to be larger than to be smaller.

Mr. Warren, with many other North Carolina delegates to the Democratic National convention will leave here Sunday for San Francisco.
