

ROBBER SECURES MARRIAGE PAYROLL

Lone Bandit Gags Messenger and Special Guard on Train and Gets $59,725

Augusta, Ga., June 30.—The semi-monthly payroll for the United States Marines at Paris Island, amounting to $59,725, shipped from Atlanta, via the Georgia railroad and via the Charleston and Western Carolina Railway out of Augusta to Port Royal, was stolen by a lone robber shortly after the train left this city at 2:15 p. m. today.

The robber, a small man, sharp featured, partly masked, entered the express car within the city limits just as the train had left the passenger station. At the point of a pistol, he made Express Messenger E. R. Derrick blind and gag W. M. Roberts, special guard assisting Derrick, by jamming the gag for into Roberts' throat with a pistol. The robber then bound and gagged Derrick, afterwards chloroforming both men.

At Lover's Lane, about 2 miles from the city, according to the police, who say they have established the fact by indisputable evidence, a large safe, containing the payroll, and a smaller one, containing the regular express shipment, were thrown from the train and there is evidence that they were carried away from this point in an automobile.

The robber remained on the train until the Savannah river, a mile from Lover's Lane, had been crossed, where at a point just beyond the river, he left the express car. He was tracked during the day to the Georgia side and to a point where he reached the highway between Augusta and Savannah, having ferried over the river to the Georgia side six miles below the railroad on which the robbery occurred. The local expressmen have not disclosed the contents of the smaller safe. Roberts was the messenger who brought the payroll from Atlanta.

Great Brotherly Re-Union Features Nomination Day

hard at the newspapers of San Francisco which published the story of the divorce of ten years ago, and a burst of cheers answered his thrust.

Then Chairman Robinson recognized W. Bourke Cockran, of New York, to nominate Governor Smith. As he came to the platform the delegates greeted him as an old friend. They cheered and called expectantly to him, knowing of old his power as an orator.

Cockran rose to form. Again they were not disappointed. The New Yorker struck a note from the front that found a quick answer. Cockran poured unstinted admiration of President Wilson, pointing dramatically to the great illuminated portrait of the President overlooking the convention. Nearly every word and gesture brought cheers and shouts from the floor and the New York delegation going with American flags and much cheering.

Eight hours after the convention came to order and at the close of the session that fairly beggared description for color and sound and unusual features, Representative Flood, of Virginia, moved a recess and with one last terrific roar of "aye" the tired delegates began streaming out to await the battle on the platform tomorrow.

Platform Up Today.

The business of placing candidates in nomination will be resumed where it was left off today with the prospect that the name of John W. Davis, ambassador to Great Britain, will be the only one presented. The platform committee, the convention leaders hope, will be ready to report at that time, and the convention can then dispose of the platform and proceed to balloting for presidential nominee possibly tomorrow night or Friday. Many of the friends of Ambassador Davis felt that the presentation of his name tomorrow before a convention, refreshed by a night's rest, instead of at the fatigues of a hard day, gave him an important advantage.

SENATOR HARDING SOUNDS KEY NOTE

Says Campaign Will Be Based On Appeal To Restore Party Government

Washington, June 30.—The Republican presidential campaign will be based "on an appeal to restore party government as a constitutional substitute for personal government," Senator Harding, the party presidential candidate, announced today after a conference with Calvin Coolidge, his running mate, and National Chairman Will H. Hays.

At the same time Governor Coolidge in a formal statement declared that there must be "a return of public opinion toward a self control by the people, toward a great and overmastering desire to observe the law."

Harding's statement.

Senator Harding's statement said: "Governor Coolidge breakfasted with me this morning and we have agreed that we will base the campaign on an appeal to restore party government as a constitutional substitute for personal government.

"The governor and I have each served as lieutenant-governor in our States, and we both have learned from experience how possible it is for a second official in a State to be a helpful part in a party administration. I think the vice president should be more than a mere substitute in waiting. In re-establishing co-ordination between the executive offices and the Senate, the vice president can and ought to play a big part, and I have been telling Governor Coolidge how much I wish him to be not only a participant in the campaign, but how much I wish him to be a helpful part of a Republican administration. The country needs the counsel and the becoming participation in government of such men as Governor Coolidge."

Coolidge's statement.

Governor Coolidge's statement follows: "I am here to co-operate with my associate. We have many problems ahead. Many men have many remedies. The best remedy is the observance of the constitution and the laws, not their enforcement, mind you. I am not now speaking of that. Of course the government will enforce the laws. That is far from enough. There must be a return of public opinion toward a great and overmastering desire to observe the law. When that is done the other problems will fall away, there will be peace, prosperity and progress."

CENTERS OF INTEREST IN NORTH DAKOTA PRIMARY

Non-Partisan League Endeavoring To Continue Control of Republicans

Fargo, N. D., June 30.—Indications of a close contest for the Republican gubernatorial nomination were evident in first returns from today's state-wide primary election in North Dakota, with chief interest centered on the efforts of the non-Partisan League to continue its control of Republican nominations.

While the first dozen precincts to report gave William Langer, endorsed by the Republican faction affiliated with the old or "regular" voters, a three to one lead over Gov. Lynn Frazier, the Non-Partisan League candidate, in the gubernatorial contest, these returns were from towns where it was expected Langer would show his greatest strength.

In addition to the gubernatorial contest, great interest centers in the race for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, with A. J. Gronna, incumbent, the candidate for the Langer Republicans, opposed by Dr. E. F. Ladd, president of the North Dakota Agricultural College, who is the non-partisan candidate and Colonel Frank White, former governor, who is supported by a "service men's" committee.

When the polls closed at 9 o'clock tonight it was believed by political leaders that the vote cast had exceeded that of any previous Republican primary.

SAYS SIGNATURE ON SECOND WILL GENUINE

Carvalho Submits Deposition In King Will Case, In Which Means Is Involved

Chicago, June 30.—Gavin N. Carvalho, New York handwriting expert, identified the signatures on the alleged second will of James C. King, millionaire lumberman, as genuine in a deposition read to the court today.

Mrs. Mary Melvin, sister of the late Mrs. King, and Gustav B. Means, Mrs. King's attorney, who was tried and acquitted to having murdered her client at Concord, N. C., are fighting to have the second will, leaving the lumberman's estate to his wife, probated. The first will, which the probate court held legal, leaves the bulk of the estate to found a home for aged men.

Carvalho, in his deposition, testified that he had been called before Assistant District Attorney John T. Doelling, of New York, and questioned regarding his connection with the case. Doelling, he said, wanted to read his report on the validity of the signatures on the second will and "was very anxious that I change my views on the case."

Means is suing Doelling and the Northern Trust Company of Chicago, trustee of the estate under the first will, for damages in connection with his arrest and trial for Mrs. King's murder.

DURHAM POLICE STRIKE FAILS TO MATERIALIZE

Strike Stated For Tonight Failed to Materialize

Durham, June 30.—Durham's police strike slated for tonight failed to materialize. The early morning squad starting at midnight and scheduled to lead the walkout, hesitated some minutes past the customary hour and went to work, after a conference with A. A. Sorrell, chairman of the commission. The chairman told the policemen that there was practically no hope for their demand of an increase of $5 per month being allowed by the city.

REPORTER FINDS EVERYBODY ASLEEP AT HOME OF McADOO

Huntington, L. I., June 30.—A reporter reached the McAdoo home shortly after word was received that the former Secretary of the Treasury had been the subject of tumultuous demonstration in the auditorium at San Francisco. All was quiet around the grounds while the house itself was in darkness.

A watchman appeared and admitted the reporter to the grounds. At the front door a maid answered the bell, and converted to take a note to Mr. McAdoo's room. It told of the nominating speech and asked: "Will you accept the nomination?"

She soon returned with the information that all members of the family were asleep and that she would not awaken them.

Employees at the McAdoo home said from what they could observe Mr. McAdoo had received no information from the convention hall and that he apparently was unaware that his friends had placed his name before the convention.

Over and over the old tune was played and sung. Standard after standard joined the march. The thing was contagious. Other old favorites came tumbling down in quick succession. "Rosie O'Grady," "The Bowery," "After the Ball" and a dozen other old timers. The tide of humanity jangling the aisles was swaying the stepping in rhythm to the music. Every one was singing. Long forgotten words came back to mind. Palmer banners, Cox hat bands and tokens of other candidates were mingled in the throng without regard to the affiliation. It seemed as though the whole convention had gone singing mad. Men and women, old and young, they surged along laughing and singing the old songs until ever the State standard had joined in the grotesque line that bobbed and nodded like a lot of marionettes above the shoving, singing and laughing crowd on the floor.

Sheer exhaustion apparently finally brought the wholly spontaneous scene to a close. Gradually the cheering subsided and the convention went back to nominating speeches.

Jenkins Starts Another.

It did not know itself, however, for the delegates had hardly settled into their seats when Dr. Burris Jenkins of Kansas City, in one of the shortest conventional speeches on record and with the ringing denunciation for those who said "W. G. McAdoo would not accept a nomination," placed the former secretary's name before the convention.

"I had intended to make an address presenting the name of a candidate to this convention," said Jenkins, "but on account of the insistent and persistent requests from his friends that his name should not be presented in a speech, I have decided not to do so, but I am sure from the spirit manifested in my own delegation and in this convention that we shall draft him for the service of the nation.

"We know that if so drafted he will accept the nomination and any rumors of telegrams supposed to have been received by me or anybody else now or in the future, denying that he would accept the nomination are falsehoods perpetrated by the enemies of our party. I place in nomination William G. McAdoo."

Pandemonium Breaks Out.

For the fourth time pandemonium broke loose. Cheers and shouts swept up from the hall and down from the galleries. Delegates were on their feet again, waving and cheering again.
