five were reported dead.

The only passenger in the lifeboat picked up by the Lake Superior was J. J. Schultz, New Orleans. The identity of the four rescued by the Sanoil has not been established.

Capt. Charles Johnson of New Orleans, master of the Speedwell, was not in the party aboard the Lake Superior. Passengers other than Schultz were Helen Davis, Emily Mydett, John Mores and Mrs. E. A. Richardson, all of New Orleans. As the wireless message received yesterday from the Sanoil stated two women and three men were dead, it is evident that one of those named as passengers could have been saved.

The Sanoil will arrive soon at Hampton Roads at which time the names of the four rescued by the vessel will be escued by the vessel will be obtanied. In the meantime ecorts to account for two persons have been unnecessful. The little steamer of only 904 gross tons, sailed from Belize August 25 with a cargo of mahogany logs for the Otis Manufacturing Company, of New Orleans. She ran into the tropical hurricane then raging in the Yucatan channel and sent out distres signals. The vessel was last sighted the following Tueday by Captain Burgeister of the American steamship Saramacca. Her wireless seemed to be working badly at that time. The vessel was owned by the Speedwell Navigation Company, of Wilmington Del., and had been used for the past eight years in the mahogany trade. No passengers were taken from New Orleans but it was the suctom of the charterers to accept passengers from Belize.

When the people gained a glimpse of the cort of Russianized despotism and autocratic defiance of the public that can naturally be expected to follow a reactionary victory at the polls."

After a conference with Governor Cox, Mr. Roosevelt, in an interwiew stated that he found increased interest in the lengue during his campaigning of the last ten days.

The President characterized as "absolutely false" assertions that Article Ten of the League covenant would make it possible for other nations to lead the United States into war.
