

PARTY MAJORITY SLOWLY CLIMBING

Believed That Final Tabulation Will Carry Lead Over 80,000

AMENDMENTS MAY GO BEYOND 100,000 MARK

Results in Fourteenth Senatorial District Still In Doubt, With Republicans Leading By Slight Majority; Stanley County Switches to Republican Column By 300

Official tabulations of the vote cast in Tuesday's election which began trickling in yesterday indicate that the Democratic party majority will go beyond the 80,000 mark by the time the whole State is heard from, and that the majority in favor of the constitutional amendments will probably reach the 125,000 mark.

Estimates based on early and unofficial counts have proved wholly inadequate. Everywhere there was a record vote cast, and everywhere all former Democratic majorities were wiped out and in their stead new figures established in their places. The women vote has lifted the majority, but even without it, it appears that the heaviest male vote in history has been cast.

Interest centers now chiefly upon the total vote cast in the State by both parties. It is generally expected that the final tabulation will show a vote of half a million or more. Many counties have reported the doubling of the vote of the last Presidential election, and the entire State has come very nearly to the same figure.

The Republican column with a majority of 2,850. Merkleburg stands at the top of the Democratic list with a majority of nearly 8,000, with Wake second with 5,000 and a little over for the State and county tickets. Many counties have reported as high as 4,000 majorities for the dominant party.

Fourteenth in Doubt. The Fourteenth district in which Sampson occupies a place is still in doubt with the two Republican Senators leading by a majority of 22 votes. Johnston county has a precinct still to hear from, and it is believed that a majority for Groves and Williams will be forthcoming from that township.

In the relatively few counties carried by the Republicans, the majorities are scant. Mitchell county returned 2,000 and Henderson 1,500, but no others went past the 600 mark. Wherever Republicans claim a plurality, their claims are based on very scanty margins.

STEDMAN ESTIMATES HIS MAJORITY AT OVER 7,000

Greensboro, Nov. 4.—Maj. Chas. M. Stedman, re-elected to Congress from the Fifth district over his Republican opponent, William D. Merritt, in Tuesday's election, estimates his majority as nearly 7,000 votes. This estimate is based on returns from all the counties in the district and is regarded as conservative.

Hammer received 3,343 to 1,998 for Cox his majority being 2,345. Constitutional amendment number one received 2,328 votes to 235, a majority of 2,093. MEN OF FINANCE RUN ON SCHEDULE

New York Traffic Officer Says He Sets Watch By Their Arrivals

New York Evening Post. You can talk of lands "neath azure skies. Of the North where snowflakes fall, But buddy 'o' mine just fast your eye: On Broadway's crowd at Wall.

Beneath the hurried exterior that marks lower Broadway there is a compelling note of human interest. Every street corner of the famous thoroughfare has its "story," and that "story" can be found in the remarks of traffic policemen that direct the maze of seemingly endless vehicles in the way they should go.

When you have hastened along the street leading to the Battery and the wide, open spaces of the lower bay and the sea, have you realized that you were seen by a bluecoat who carefully noted, perhaps unconsciously, your appearance and demeanor?

With a look you are analyzed and placed categorically, then dismissed. You are a banker, broker, lawyer, ad infinitum, and if you cross the street you are helped across in a way that insures your safety for a time at least, from ambulances or the city morgue.

Perhaps the most interesting director of traffic among the many who occupy niches of prominence along Broadway is that blue-coated guardian of the public peace who is stationed at the corner of Broadway and Wall Street—that street which holds the keys to the gates of America's wealth.

Greet Prominent Figures.

He it is who exchanges greetings every morning with the most prominent figures in the financial world; he it is who sends them speeding down Broadway to the Stock Exchange and clears the way for the great business of the day.

For years this patrolman, assigned to Traffic Squad A, has been stationed at this post directly opposite Trinity church. Does he look at the clock to see the time or does he wait to hear the bells toll out their message of the hour? He does not; he knows what time it is by the appearance of millionaires in their automobiles.

Millionaires, he says, are "far more democratic" than are junior clerks and stock runners who pass him every hour in the day.

"Do you heard I could tell the time by the people who pass?" he inquired of a representative of the Evening Post in answer to a question. "Well, you are right; I can. There's nothing mysterious about that and I'll tell you why. Millionaires, men of finance, and prominent men in public life are set in their ways. They have regularity and routine in their lives. Each day is plotted out before it actually comes. Every hour, every minute, is accounted for. So what more natural than they should select a certain time for coming down and getting to work in the morning?

"Of 'em all, I think George Baker, Sr., of the First National Bank, gets down before the others. He always arrives rain or shine between 9:15 and 9:30. This despite the fact that he is eighty-two years old. He goes down to 82 Broadway.

John D. Jr. Passer, grasping the reporter's arm as a black taxi cab sped by, "Here's the man," he said, "John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and his wife. Wonder where his car is! He always drives his own car himself.

"He gets down at 10:30 every morning; goes to 26 Broadway. Leaves his office about 5 o'clock every evening. "Nope, we don't ever see John D. himself any more. The only other Rockefeller we see is William, who motors down in an electric brougham. "He was down here yesterday.

"J. P. Morgan doesn't come down to work as early now as he formally did. He generally arrives at 11 o'clock, his car stopping in front of Trinity church. He gets out there and walks down himself. Seems to like to walk down this old street, somehow. His son, Junius, gets down here earlier, though.

Here the patrolman's comments were interrupted by the driver of a limousine who violated the ordinance which forbids a driver of a vehicle to overtake and pass a surfer car when stopped.

"Hey you!" he shouted. "Do you want to kill somebody?" A blue touque adorned with red flowers, made its appearance from the side of the automobile and a pretty mouth pouted at the officer's tone.

"Oh, go ahead, go ahead!" he said, and turning to the Evening Post reporter, inquired helplessly: "What the dickens can you do with 'em? They give you the Pickford stare when you call 'em, and tell you what makes they feel driving while you are stationary, a fine, fine, strong man are and how toned at this particular corner."

Gay Arrives At 10. "Let's see, where was I? He went on. "Well, sir, Albert H. Gay generally arrives down here at 10 o'clock. Since he's come back from Europe he's been down even earlier of mornings. He's over in 71 Broadway. Russell Sage had that building put.

"Once in a great while now we see Recorder Goff. The Judge does not look so well these days; he's a fine man. "Then there's one of my bosses, Edmund A. Guggenheimer, Special Deputy Police Commissioner. He goes to 120 Broadway, and is another early arriver.

"John M. Shaw, also a Deputy Commissioner, is up at 115 Broadway, and he generally gets down around 9:45. About 10 he goes down to the Stock Exchange.

TO CUT WAGES OF SAW MILL LABOR IN SOUTH

Georgia-Florida Association to Reduce Day Wage to $2.50; Poor Demand

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 4.—At a meeting of the Georgia-Florida Saw Mill Association, comprising the biggest operators in the two states, held here today, it was decided that beginning November 8, the wages for common labor in the mills of members of the association would be cut to $2.50 a day, and that wages for other classes of work in the mills would be cut proportionately. This represents a wage cut of approximately 25 per cent.

The operators gave out a statement to the effect that the lumber market had fallen off to such an extent that it was a case of either cutting wages or shutting down. It was stated that saw mills throughout the yellow pine section are either shutting down or cutting wages as a retrenchment.

Club Women Want Censorship For Immoral Movies

lution as the several organizations endorse, and which will thus possess the added strength of union in any attempt to pass measures backed by the women of the State.

The morning session of the council was given over to report sent from Federation officials and to discussion of the work of the several departments, and the formation of future plans. Of special interest in the report of the treasurer, Mrs. E. R. Land, was the part relating to the Sallie Southall Cotton Loan fund by means of which the Federation has already been able to send 35 girls to college and which is now in a state to offer assurance of continued usefulness.

Miss Nellie Roberson, of Chapel Hill, chairman of the bureau of information, gave a report of the work of the bureau and called for suggestions from members as to the program of study to be prepared next year. The plans for conversation, under Mrs. W. P. Whitmore, of Hendersonville, embrace a forestry bill to be presented to the legislature and the recommendation of the planting of memorial trees along permanent highways.

Strong Health Program.

The health program of which Mrs. L. E. McBrayer has charge and which is endorsed by the Federation recommends a strong fight against tuberculosis, the promotion of child welfare in North Carolina and a systematic attempt on the part of the clubs to prevent and cure venereal diseases. The needs of the library extension department were presented by Miss Mary Palmer of Raleigh, director of the North Carolina Library Commission. Miss Palmer urged that "As books are the power behind club work," the Federation aid library extension by establishing libraries in those counties which at present have none.

It was decided by the council to send a telegram of interest and pledged cooperation to the State Federation of Parent-Teachers associations in session today at Greensboro.

Condemn Modern Dances.

Discussion was waged in the late evening meeting of the council when Mrs. Henry Perry, of Henderson, chairman of social services made a vehement plea that the Federation stand behind the censorship of movies and the modification of present dances. The assembled women denounced the degeneracy of the times and saw in the movie and the unregulated public dance two of the greatest sources of social evil. Various stringent remedies were suggested in solution of these "problems of the new era." The council was unanimously behind the movie censorship bill, modeled on the excellent one now in operation in the State of Pennsylvania which is being drafted by Mrs. Palmer Jerman, and which will be presented to the next legislature. It was also decided to request a member of the board of censorship of Pennsylvania to come to North Carolina and lecture in a number of cities.

But the Federation hopes to find the most successful remedy in the institution of a general system of wholesome recreation, in which it may have the co-operation of the existing welfare agencies in North Carolina.

The session of the Federation council will be concluded tomorrow by a short business meeting in the morning, following which the members are invited to attend the meeting of the seventh district N. C. F. W. U. at Middleburg.

MANUFACTURE OF COTTON REDUCED

Central European Countries Need Raw Cotton and Fuel; Consul Makes Report

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—Lock of raw cotton and fuel is greatly reducing cotton manufacturing in central European countries, according to a report on the cotton situation at the Department of Commerce from Consul Howard W. Adams, at Berlin. Spinners and textile mills in Germany, Austria, Czechoslovakia, and Yugoslavia, the consul said, are working only from 20 to 30 per cent of their full capacity.

Because of the unfavorable rate of exchange of the currency of these countries against the American dollar, the consul explained the spinners and textile mills can afford to buy raw cotton only when they are able simultaneously to market the converted goods for export.

Consignments of raw cotton stored in the warehouses at Bremen, Hamburg and Eisenberg, Bohemia, were bought by dealers before the drop in the price of cotton in the United States, Consul Adams declared, and the prices now being asked the consumers renders it practically impossible for the mills to buy the cotton. Lower wages existing in Germany, Austria and Czechoslovakia, he added, are not sufficient to permit the manufacture of the stored cotton for export to compete with countries whose mills are using cotton bought recently.

During the period between August 1, 1919 and July 31, 1920, Consul Adams reported, the cotton consumed by German spinning mills comprised 255,277 bales of American, 73,709 bales of Indian, 14,467 bales of Egyptian and 49,758 bales of miscellaneous. The American cotton used, he said, was on an average of the grade of fully middling or higher. At the end of July 1920, 5,230,906 were in operation.

Election Passes Quietly.

Warsaw, Nov. 4.—Election day passed here quietly. Some little excitement was occasioned about 9 o'clock Tuesday night by a negro jostling too roughly through a crowd of white men, but the remainder of the night passed without event.

Voting began as soon as the polls opened in the morning, men and women voting together. Of the latter, one woman, Mrs. Bettie Swinson, seventy-eight years old, alert and active, was perhaps the oldest, while young girls, just twenty-one, were also in the crowd. Very few women voted the Republican ticket. There were in all about seven Democratic votes cast to one Republican.

STUDENTS BREAK UP CELEBRATION

Republican Parade in Chapel Hill Meets Defiant Democratic Band

Chapel Hill, Nov. 4.—A Republican victory parade from Carrboro headed by Luceo Lloyd, defeated member of the lower house, which marched through the streets of Chapel Hill tonight, met with a defiant welcome from hundreds of University students who tried to drown out the Republican band with cheers for Cox and jeers for the Republicans and a few poorly aimed eggs, most of which found a resting place in the big bass horn.

Headed by a group of Republicans on horseback, a score of automobiles loaded to the running boards with citizens of Carrboro, many of them with blackened faces, disguised clothing and some with female garments on, swept into town and headed down Franklin street. The band struck up a tune and the Republicans broke into cheers, "Hurrah for Harding" and "Cox is dead" was their battle cry.

Hundreds of students poured out of the dormitories and lined the sidewalks, answering cheer for cheer. The parade went through town, doubled, and came back. By this time five hundred students were lined up and the remarks grew more personal. Some one cut loose with an apple core and a few eggs were thrown without much damage except to tempers.

When the parade halted in the middle of the town the students swarmed around the automobiles cheering and yelling. The Republicans, many of them by this time pretty mad, began to make threats and the situation looked equally ugly. Luceo Lloyd, who had been sitting high on the band wagon, a natural target for anything that might come, wanted the band to play "The Star Spangled Banner" and they their parades out of town, and with a yell for Harding from the parade and a hair raising "Split Carolina for Cox" from the students on the sidewalks, the hottest political night Chapel Hill has seen in many a day ended a drawn battle. Carrboro, which is the railroad station for Chapel Hill, about one mile from town, has always been strongly Republican and the citizens have rejoiced nightly since the election.
