Game Devoid of Thrills Goes To State By Score of 8 To 6; Far For Participation In Municipal Primary

In a long drawn out affair, marred by erratic fielding on the part of both teams, State won from Elon yesterday afternoon 8 to 6, and although the State never once threatened to overthe Techs in the early tunings.

The chilly wind that swept the playing field slowed up the work of the players, and caused the 500-odd spec-haddle in the sunshing down the third base line.

As an exhibition of the national pactime, the game, for the most part, failed to thrill. State started the scoring in the first isning. After two men had been retired. Norwood walked, and Johnson drove the run across with a long double to center. Two more were added in the third. Kirkpatrick was rafe on Newman's error, and Norwood and Johnson followed with singles. An error, a stolen base, two doubles and a error, a stolen base, two doubles and a error, a stolen oase, we doubles and a single accounted for three runs in the lifth, and the final markers for the Techs were chalked up in the seventh on singles by Castellos and Bedfearn and Newman's second certly missie. Blen counted first in the fourth on Brown's two-base hit and Redfearn's error. A walk, three hits, and an error sent over two more in the sixth, and the visitors added a trie of counters in the eighth on hits by Brown and Underwood, a base on balls, and Castelloe's error.

Cartis, pitching his first full college game, made a good impression. He allowed seven hits, walked three, and fanned ten. Hartsell's new infield combination worked nicely. Redfearn kicked one at shortstop, but he is creditable with four anitate tra of them he. ted with four assists, two of them be ing hard chances.

INSPECT SERVICE COMPANY TONIGHT

The formal inspection of the Service The formal inspection of the Service Company of the First North Carolina Infantry is to be held tonight in the company's armory in the Briggs Building on Fayettveille street. The company is now a part of the North Carolina National Guard and after tonight it will have federal status and recognition also.
No appointments of non-commissioned officers have, been made and none will be made until next week. Captain Fletcher has already found that he has in his outfit plenty of material from which to pick his non-come. A large percentage of the company is composed of veterans of the World War, men of large experience in National Guard seras noncommissioned officers overseas. Consequently, he is going to have a hard time making his appointments.

ONLY MEDIOCRE ARTISTS RESENT HONEST CRITICISM Alma Gluck Says Any Sincere Singer Knows When She Has Done Well

Alma Gluck is convinced that any sintere, self-exacting singer will know when she has or has not done well. Furthermore, the famous soprano says is invariably the mediocre artists who persist in resenting honest criticism. Music reviewers on the daily press are usually sultivated, thoughtful people who have heard much of the best and on it have founded a standard for comparison and judgment. The acceptance of their opinions depends upon some-thing within the individual artist, a certain inborn broadmindedness, probably too big to be acquired. A sincere artist asks herself, "Am I open to this fault or that shortenming?". If the critic is admittedly right, it means a good step forward for the singer.

"To many aspiring artists seek flat-tery instead of true and helpful ad-vice," says Mme. Glack. "Every stu-dent should look deep into her mind and be convinced that singing is the one great desire of her life if the ar-To many aspiring artists seek flattery instead of true and helpful added and be convinced that singing is the one great desire of her life if she expects to be a successful artist; it is never a question of 'Can I sing'f, but 'Must I sing'f That is the problem. If there is one thing in the world that you prefer to singing, you will find the road to a professional earner best with many difficulties."

WILL CONDUCT CAMPAIGN 'HELLO, ALEXANDER' GOOD Plenty of Biairs Aspire To Of-SHOW-NORFOLK CRITIC

"It's a good show. If you don't be lieve it, ask those who went to see Me Intrie and Henta in "Hello, Alexan der,' at the Colonial last night," says cent criticism of "Helio Alexander," which comes to the Academy of Munic which comes to the Academy of Munic Monday night.

They are the same old pair. It seems hardly possible they have been partners on the stage forty-six years. They seem to have improved with robert least, they are as good as ever. Heath still paints glorious pictures of delicious morsels of food served by beautiful damacle in lands of luxury, and Meintyre convulses the audience by rolling his eyes and smacking his lips in anticipation.

Yes, they are the same old pair, and in anticipation.

Yes, they are the same old pair, and their show is worth seeing. There is plenty to laugh at, plenty of dancing, and songs that set last night's audience applauding loudly for more.

Next to the famous stars, the greatest hugh producers were Dickinson and Deagon, formerly vauderille headliners. Earl Bickard's impersonation of Al Joson set the audience to applauding. Lillian Bossdale and Vivina Holt won the bleegest hand of the evening with their lian Bosedale and Vivian Holt won the biggest hand of the evening with their harmony singing. Their feature song was "That Nanghty Walts," but they sang several others equally well. There are plenty of others who might be mentioned, for the entire east is good, and there isn't a dragging moment throughout the several scenes of the two acts.

The setting of "Hello, Alexander" is cross bett r than the show 'tself. The minstrel "first-part" seens closing the first act, is as good as the advance first act, is as good as the advance notices said is would be, and that is going some. Beautiful continues add to the attractiveness of the production.

And the girls—they are all pretty.

Not an ugly one in the bunch. When they paraded down the aisles in the second act, not a single man ran away. More than one man with a luxurious growth of hair was sorry, for the mo-ment, he wasn't bald just for the mo-ment so that he, too, could have powder spilled all over his blue serge coat.—
