

Colleges To Battle For Diamond Honors In State This Week

State College and Wake Forest Here Today and at Wake Forest Tomorrow

CAROLINA-WAKE FOREST GAME COMES SATURDAY

Five of State College Games This Week Are Championship Affairs

Postponement of the Easter baseball game between State College and Wake Forest until today proved sufficient in itself to cause this week to replace the one just past as the really big week in college circles.

The games already played are sufficient to serve as an indication of the relative strength of the teams, but when the certain fact of Saturday night, a very definite line on championship possibilities will have been obtained, unless Jupiter Pluvius again takes a hand in the game.

The State-Wake Forest game today and the one at Wake Forest tomorrow are joined with the Carolina-Wake Forest game Saturday as the topliners of the week, but there will be other games of note.

State not only leads in the total number of games, but five of the six are championship affairs. In addition to the Wake Forest series, the Tar Heels will take the road for three days, meeting Guilford, Elon and Davidson. Wake Forest has two games with Wake Forest in addition to her State contest, but the game with Wake Forest is the only one of her five games which Carolina will play with a State team.

On the record to date it looks like Carolina or Wake Forest. Both have a close slate, but the record of the University is the more impressive because it has faced the better teams. Each club has won games within the State, Wake Forest defeating Elon 11 to 1, and Trinity, 4 to 2, while Carolina defeated Davidson, 7 to 3, and State College, 6 to 4. In addition, Carolina also chalked up a 5 to 3 victory over Virginia.

But speculation as to which of the two has the better team is particularly futile in view of the fact that the clubs will clash Saturday afternoon. Suffice it to say that the game should prove an unusually interesting one and that any other team will have to show improvement and quite a bit of improvement in order to beat either of these two.

However, that to by no means impossible. Hartwell has a green team, but unquestionably has the ability to have his machine traveling at a vastly accelerated speed before the end of the season. Davidson has not been seen as yet in this neck of the woods, but made a good showing against Carolina on Easter Monday, while Trinity also has a team that is well capable of being dangerous, especially on the days Carroll pitches.

Lowie Outstanding Figure. Leaving the teams for the nonce, and looking at the individual members of the several combinations, one Robbins Lowe, Carolina's own "Babe Ruth," stands out thus far in a class unto himself. During the week just past he got exactly three hits, but mark you, each of the three was good for four runs and each of the three broke up a ball game. Against Davidson and State the blows came in the final frame with the score knotted, and his wallop in the Virginia game put his team so far in the lead that it was never threatened.

Lowie has rather monopolized the limelight as far as his teammates are concerned, though the name of McLean, the second baseman, is mentioned ever and anon in the accounts of games. "Lefty" Wilson the phenomenal hurler of last year, hasn't gotten to going yet and has been partially eclipsed by Bryson, a youngster who was called upon to finish the State game and worked the whole route against Virginia.

Out at Wake Forest, Captain Saxe Barnes is another idol of yesterday though he worked in great shape for the two-thirds of one inning that he was called upon for relief duty in the Trinity game. Baggett has done barely enough to justify Coach White in retaining him at the clean-up position on the batting order, while Stringfield still looks like the best college shortstop in the State, and Johnson and Joannette do credit to the outfield positions which they occupy. Armstrong over at first base has apparently strengthened the Baptist infield. It is a little too early in the season to pass on Johnson and Austin of the Wake Forest pitching staff, but both will bear watching.

There is Always Murray. Out at State College, George Murray has been the big man of war for three seasons and the big pitcher has never looked as good as he does this year, although he has made no startling deliveries to date. Johnson and Norwood seem to be setting the pace on the offensive, while Fancette is another old-timer who can slip freely around from pillar to post, but always makes his presence known wherever he is dropped. Just now he is playing first base. Last week it was short stop, and he may be in there catching before the season is gone, but there is no chance of his falling to lead off the batting order. Redfeard, at short, and Curtis, a moundman, are the most promising of Hartwell's youngsters, but neither has been tried by fire as yet, although both have a couple of games to their credit.

Sam Carson. He is the boy with the popper at Trinity. He is by no means the only real ball player on the club and possibly is not the best, but the sticky receiver has a world of aggressiveness, as a snappy and is sometimes, though not over often, a force to be reckoned with when pitching the

WAKE FOREST IN GOOD TRIM FOR GAME TODAY

Student Body of Baptist College Will Attend Game This Afternoon En Masse

Wake Forest, April 3.—Baffled by the weather last Monday causing the postponement of the annual Easter Monday baseball game with N. C. State, but not by any means demoralized Wake Forest in toto will turn out tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock for the first game of the two-contest series with State College.

Wake is in good condition for the affair and a battle royale is anticipated especially if the renowned Goo. Murray does the twirling for Tech. The game with Trinity, although won by Wake Forest, has not created any spirit of over-confidence among the team and it will journey to Raleigh tomorrow determined to win but with no feeling of victory achieved without effort.

Coach White's nine showed up well last Saturday against Trinity and exhibited knowledge of the game, but even at that the Trinity game served well to bring to light a weak point or two in the working of the team which is expected to be absent in tomorrow's contest.

Although not officially announced it is thought that Saxe Barnes will be in the box for the locals and if that is the case the affair will probably take the form of a pitchers' battle.

ALL CAPITALS TO BE ON HAND TODAY

Pitchers and Catchers Will Be Joined By Other Players; First Game Saturday

The entire squad of Capitals will be on hand at League Park this morning for the first time this season and Manager Ward expects to have his outfit whittled into shape by the time of the first game, which will be played against Rocky Mount on Saturday.

The battery men have been on hand for a week, but unfavorable weather conditions has prevented their doing a great amount of work and Ward has delayed the training process in order to be sure that he has not mistaken a gold mine for a lemon, but the big knife will begin to fall this week and by the end of the week, the squad is expected to be reduced to normal proportions.

The two Bills, Allen and Clarkson, have had the advantage of the mound, who came down from Northern climates in the early workouts and have shown more stuff, but stiff arms will linger up this week and all of the recruits will be given an opportunity to live up to the fastening recommendations which preceded them to Raleigh. L. W. Snyder is the only left-hander in camp, but Ward has a likely looking bunch of right-handers, the new men being Cummings, Tice and Samuels. Samuels hails from Flint, Mich., and looks good on the mound, but hasn't cut loose yet.

Besides the always reliable Law Kenney, catchers now on the job include Keller, Spencer and Booth. Keller looks like a ball player from the top up and is already whipping 'em across the diamond like an old timer.

The rats of infielders that will drop in today include Hester and McNeil of last year's team, who are virtually assured of holding down the second and third seats again. Sam Lennox, who filled in at first the latter part of last season will not be back, but his brother Bob, who is said to be even a better ball player, will be one of the several candidates for the short field position. The place will be contested by James Pulliam, Leslie Lester, W. Porter McGregor and E. B. Moore. Candidates for the job at first base, which Joe can fill himself in a pinch, include U. W. Thompson and Frank Shaffer.

Bill Holding of Wake Forest will be the only 1920 outfielder back, but F. Jenkins of South Carolina, Roy Burgess, Gideon Smith and W. S. Stephenson, all of North Carolina, and J. W. Collins and Gus Weathers, both from up-North, will all struggle for the other two berths. Dorey may come back, but there is nothing definite on that score.

To Erect New Building

Monroe, April 3.—Ground is being broken for and erection of a large brick building for the Henderson Roller Mills here. The business of this firm has outgrown its present quarters and plans have been made for sometime for the new building.

Reports are coming in from several sections of the county that army worms are already in evidence. As experts have claimed that the army worms could not winter north of Georgia there is some doubt that these are the descendants of the army worms which did so much damage to crops last fall. Specimens will be sent the Department at Raleigh for examination.

MINISTER RAPS SELF-INDULGERS

Dr. O'Kelley Comments On Excuses Made for Not Giving To the Kingdom

At the First Baptist Church yesterday morning the pastor, Rev. T. W. O'Kelley, spoke on the Bible incidents of Christ's feeding the multitudes with the few loaves and fishes his disciples were able to obtain. He said that all that Christ demanded of the disciples was that they bring him what in the way of food they had. He did the rest. He was always most considerate of His followers. He never required more of them than they could do.

The minister applied the occasion and Christ's reasonable claims to the matter of present day obligations to the Kingdom. He said that there was too much of a disposition to plead the hard times as a reason for not giving to the Lord. When a man was too poor to place ten cents, or twenty-five, or a half dollar, or a dollar, or five dollars as the case might be into the collection plate on a Sunday morning and then could go out on Sunday afternoon and burn gasoline until it was too late to go to church then he knew right away the Lord was not amongst the people. And when people felt that they were just too poor to discharge the pledges to the Lord they could go to the movies three or four times a week at thirty or forty or fifty cents a trip—he didn't know what the price was for he didn't go himself—dollar, or five dollars as the case might be, but he didn't go to church. He said it was different when a man said his business circumstances were such he could not meet his obligations and at the same time kept his machine in the garage indicating that he couldn't raise the money to buy the gasoline.

While the speaker touched on the movies only incidentally he dwelt on them long enough to say that the way he censured them was not to go to them. He had been a few times and rarely without seeing a haunted before the audience things that were calculated to harm every one, older as well as younger. He had never seen he said without being humiliated. He did not doubt that some good pictures were shown, however.

TELLS FARMERS TO ASK STRAIGHT CUT IN VALUES

Dr. Alexander Urges That They Be On Hand For Conference With Commissioners

Charlotte, April 3.—In a lengthy statement given out here by Dr. H. Q. Alexander, former president of the State Farmers' Union, in which he attacks the issuance of bonds by the Legislature, expresses doubt of the efficacy of cooperative marketing, and discusses in detail national and State policies from which he disents, he submits the following appeal to the farmers to be on hand at the county seats and demand a straight cut in land assessments. On this subject he says:

"Let all members assemble in mass-meeting at the county court house on the first Monday in April in conference with their county commissioners and insist on a straight cut in the taxable values put on our lands by the revaluation act. The Legislature has made this provision, though the final jurisdiction over the action of the commissioners is still held by the tax commission at Raleigh. This is contrary to the principle of local self government, in democratic and in violation of the State constitution. But let us avail ourselves of this opportunity to have our land values readjusted on the basis of value of the products of the land."

DR. McNAIRY RE-ELECTED HEAD OF TRAINING SCHOOL. Kinston, April 3.—Dr. G. Banks McNairy has been re-elected superintendent of the Caswell Training school, the institution for the feeble-minded here. The appointing of a new board caused fear on the part of some that Dr. McNairy might be replaced. There was a press themselves in favor of protective tariff legislation. The particular boosting at this time is for the meeting of the Southern Chamber of Commerce executives to be held in Jacksonville the middle of May. The North Carolina Farmers' Union has notified the Peoples' Reconstruction League that it will be represented at the first joint farmer-labor conference on national legislation to be held here on April 14 and 15. More than thirty national and State farmer and labor organizations are to be represented. Among the subjects to be discussed are the railroad question, measures needed to remedy the deplorable conditions afflicting the farmers, federal taxation, packer control legislation and short time rural credits.
