

GREENSBORO MAN RECEIVES THREAT

E. C. Lyndon Writes Communication To Paper and Gets Anonymous Letter

Greensboro, April 15.—Threatening to "test with bullets" whether members of the White Ku Klux Klan are real ghosts, a letter signed "Colored K. K. K." received here this afternoon by E. C. Lyndon, informs him that "32,000 negroes have organized a K. K. K." It was mailed at Salisbury.

The letter fairly drips venom. The "test" will be made at the next parade, Mr. Lyndon was warned, and at that time the "personnel" of at least a few of the white Ku Klux Klan will become known, it added. The 32,000 negroes are banded together because "the courts do not function," according to the person who wrote the letter. In addition Mr. Lyndon is warned to be careful not to take chances, and advised to watch his step. The letter follows:

"You struck the nail on the head when you said the K. K. K. was needed because the courts do not function. It is for this reason that 32,000 negroes have organized a K. K. K. We are going to test with bullets whether these ghostly looking objects are real ghosts. The test will be made at the next parade at which time the personnel of at least a few will become known.

"Colored K. K. K." is supposed to be a reference to a communication of Mr. Lyndon's to the editor of the Greensboro Daily News, printed yesterday, in which Mr. Lyndon defended the Ku Klux Klan.

The "warning" was written on a sheet of paper about the size of a postal card, with no date or heading whatever. The letter contained no clue to the writer's identity. There was apparently no attempt to disguise the handwriting, and no words were misspelled, as is generally the custom in anonymous threatening letters.

The warning printed on the back of the sheet of paper was no less threatening than the written message. In big bold type it stated that:

"The careful man is and always will be the best man. Take care, not chance. Watch your step."

The sheet of paper bore the earmarks of "official" stationery. The warning on the back was the work of some printing establishment, and is the sort of thing that might be expected to be tucked on a door as a "warning."

Asked what he intended to do about it, Mr. Lyndon said that he will turn the letter over to agents of the department of justice.

Tom Watson Opens Career in Senate

trilled river which Columbus straddled unable to bring one leg to the other."

Senator Watson declared that Senator Lodge had changed his mind regarding the treaty but should not ask others to "make every turn of the wheel with him."

He paid special attention to the speech of Senator Pomerene, Democrat, Ohio, a supporter of the treaty. The Ohio Senator's long address Mr. Watson declared, could be "boiled down into one sentence: 'That we stole something and ought to pay.'"

"Name the thief," Senator Watson challenged, pointing at Senator Pomerene, who with knitted brows made no response. "Even in a Georgia justice court, when we call a man a thief we ought to be man enough to name him."

Senator from Ohio did not name his thief. He also should name the accomplice.

"There was no theft," Senator Watson continued, adding that Panama might properly have been aided by this nation to obtain her independence, but denied that the element of theft existed.

As he proceeded, the Georgia Senator's long hair drifted into his eyes and his voice, with characteristic emphasis, grew shrill, as he gestured with extended arm.

Can't Buy Friendship.

That Colombia's friendship could not be bought was emphasized by Senator Watson.

"We will trade with Colombia when it is to our interest and Colombia with us when it is to her interest," he said. "National friendship cannot be bought any more than physical friendship. If Colombia's friendship is for sale, let her take it to another market place and offer it to the highest bidder."

Senator Watson added that he would welcome with open arms a man who had done him an injury and offered to resume terms of friendship, but said he would be inclined to kick a man who offered money in atonement for an injury. He declared that a payment to Colombia would be a bad precedent and predicted that, if made, it would be the basis for similar claims from Haiti, the Dominican Republic, Costa Rica and other small nations which, he said had suffered "ruthless" interference from the Wilson administration.

In attacking the address of Senator Knox, of Pennsylvania, the Georgia Senator ridiculed an illustration given by Mr. Knox, saying:

"Evidently the Senator from Pennsylvania had not thought of this happy illustration until he was prodded into it by an inquiry just as he was about to take his seat, after he had been questioned by one or two of his colleagues. This happy illustration came to him just as happy inspirations come to all of us sometimes or other. He said this treaty reminded him of a transaction of a friend of his in Pennsylvania, a fellow Pennsylvanian, no doubt—who had bought some land from a widow, and the buyer did not know of the coal that was on it, and the widow did not know, but because the man found the coal there and got immensely rich from it, he gave the widow her mine after he had safely cashed in his own portion."

Nothing To Do With Treaty.

"What has that got to do with the Colombian treaty?" he said, and he apparently convinced himself—I have no doubt that he is convinced right now that his illustration is conclusive—he said that because we had obtained such immense benefits from the suicidal conduct of Colombia, we ought to compensate Colombia for having done that suicidal act. That is surely something new for lawyers and to laymen. Doesn't Colombia participate in every benefit that flows to mankind from that canal? It is the most stupendous work of modern times."

Urging economy as a reason against the Colombian payment, Senator Watson said that banks, stores and factories were closing all over the country, former war veterans appealing for aid and farms being abandoned.

"We are today paying from six to ten dollars for a pair of shoes from the hide of a whole cow selling for fifty cents," said Mr. Watson, arguing that the tax payers should not be compelled to pay the "tribute" to Colombia.

No National Dishonor.

On the question of "National honor" raised by the treaty advocates, Senator Watson contended that national honor required spurning of a proposal which, he insisted, would confer national dishonor, supporters of the treaty, he added, made much of elimination from the old treaty of the so-called "Apology clause." "The pending treaty, he said, virtually was the same, regardless of the absence of an apology clause."

When Senator Watson concluded many of his colleagues, including Senator Harris, of Georgia, and Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, Republican leader, went and shook his hand. Opponents of ratification plan to continue their attack tomorrow with Senators Polk, Washington, and Kenyon, Iowa, Republicans as the speakers.

Dr. S. Westray Battle of Asheville was in Washington today on a short visit, and will go from here to Raleigh to attend a meeting of the Order of the Cincinnati which is to be held on April 22. "North Carolina has one of the strongest of these organizations of the thirteen original States," said Dr. Battle, "and we expect a large attendance at the Raleigh meeting." Asked about news of Asheville he said that things were moving along all right, and that the talk in legal and political circles was of J. J. Britt and Judge W. P. Bryan as all the Federal judgeship made vacant by the death of Judge Pritchard, with no one predicting the winner.

The Postoffice Department announced today that the fourth class offices at Eagle Rock, Wake county, made vacant by the death of Freeman Liles, had been filled by the appointment of Charles R. Ellis.

HAD SUFFERED 15 LONG YEARS, STATES JOYNER

Tar Heel Farmer Says It's Nothing Less Than Wonderful Way Taniae Has Helped Him.

"It's a fact two bottles of Taniae have done me more good than all the other medicines I have taken in fifteen years," said A. R. Joyner, a well-known farmer of Walnut Cove, N. C., R. F. D. No. 4.

"Up to the time I began taking Taniae I had not been able to eat a square meal in fifteen years without suffering afterwards. After eating I would have a awful stuffed up, bloated feeling, and at times my breath seemed to be almost cut off. Sometimes I had such severe pains in the pit of my stomach that I would nearly double up, and I was so restless I could never get a night's sound sleep.

"I just tried nearly everything but kept going from bad to worse until my farm work got to be an awful drag to me. I finally got to reading about Taniae and decided to try it.

"What two bottles of this medicine have done for me is nothing less than wonderful. My appetite is splendid already and I never feel a touch of indigestion. I sleep like a log every night and am feeling just fine."

That Sudden, Sharp Pain

Which you experience at times can be removed. No woman has the right to suffer when she can obtain relief safely, certainly and promptly. Suppose you do have headaches, backaches, extreme nervousness, low-spirits and general good-for-nothing feelings at times? Your case is not hopeless. These symptoms are evidence that the delicate organism of the feminine body has become out of order and needs the help. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can bestow this is what many women write Dr. Pierce, Pres. Invalids' Hotel at Buffalo, N. Y. Many of your neighbors would say the same of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

NAMELESS TEST.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best medicine I have ever taken. I suffered for a long time with feminine trouble. I would become so nervous that I would have to give up and lie down until I would get quiet. I suffered with backaches, pains in my side and bearing pains. I would also have periodical spells of sick-headaches. I could not eat or sleep, and I got where I was a physical wreck. I decided to give 'Favorite Prescription' a trial, and it completely cured me."—Mrs. ALICE McCLOUD, 1619 Sixth Ave
