

NINETY DOLLARS WILL SAVE LIFE

Wake County Boy Dying of Tuberculosis in Pitiable Condition

Wanted: $90 to save a man's life! Not a Near East sufferer, not a victim of Chinese famine, but a Wake County boy who is dying slowly of tuberculosis that can be arrested, physicians say, by treatment at the State Sanatorium for Tuberculosis.

The Raleigh Associated Charities became interested in the case some time ago, when it was asked to find work for the young man. It developed, however, that he was unable to work either on the farm or in the city. While the Associated Charities cannot, out of its general funds, handle a case of the sort outside of Raleigh, Miss Willie Foster, superintendent, is making an appeal to the citizens of Raleigh to help.

Not only has the young man no means of support or sufficient to take medical treatment, but his parents are themselves in such circumstances that they cannot afford to maintain him at home.

Miss Foster has estimated that it will take $90 to meet the need. Arrangements have already been made for his entrance to the sanatorium if the funds can be secured.

Those who will contribute are asked to communicate with Miss Willie Foster, superintendent Associated Charities.

North Carolinians who come to Washington to do business with the Shipping Board should take notice that the board is now moving out from the quarters it has occupied on F Street, and by the end of next week will be at home in a section of the new Navy building at 17th and B streets, Northwest. All of the divisions of the shipping board will be housed there, except the division of office supply, which for a while will remain at 6th and B streets, Northwest.

By this removal the Shipping Board will save a rental of $60,000 a year, and more money is expected to be saved by having it under one roof. During the world war it was not possible to get the new quarters, which were overcrowded with the Navy Department.

Dr. C. P. Ambler and his son, A. C. Ambler, of Asheville, who are in Washington, are here for the graduation of Dr. Ambler's daughter, Miss Dorothy Ambler, a student at the Martha Washington Seminary.

Admiral W. C. Braisted left tonight for Raleigh, where on Thursday he is to deliver the graduating address at Rex Hospital. Dr. Braisted has accepted the position of President of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and science, but will not remove his home from Washington. He is one of the most distinguished physicians of this country, holding many high positions among the medical associations of the United States. For his eminent services he has been decorated by the Emperor of Japan and the President of Venezuela. His services to this country in the world war were of incalculable value. He is a man who is beloved by all who come in contact with him and is one of the finest types of men.

Among the North Carolinians who are in Washington are John M. Boyette, of Albemarle, who is here to attend the good roads hearing; Sheriff T. J. Finch, of Randolph; R. E. Buck, W. S. O'B. Robinson, Jr., and E. Thomson, of Charlotte; J. F. Ballie, of Wilmington and John A. Royall, of Lillington.

NO INCREASE IN THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC REPORTED SO FAR

Washington, May 25.—Reports from various sections of the country show virtually no increase in the illegal liquor traffic, notwithstanding the recent cut of 700 of the field forces, prohibition officials said tonight. In many instances, they added, liquor cases pending before courts are being continued because of the absence of agents needed as witnesses.

SPEECHES FEATURE BANKERS' MEETING

alternate nominating committees, W. A. Hunt, Henderson.

The recognition that foreign trade is important for domestic prosperity and that the key to the ending of troubled economic conditions overseas is the settlement of the German reparations problem was the proposition laid down by Mr. Booth. Furthermore, the United States will have to assist in the solution of the problem, he stated. Until that is done the world will wait and trade problems remain unsettled.

Credit extended to the nations overseas must be protected from political upheavals and destruction, he stated. He expressed the opinion that Europe is becoming politically stabilized. The people of Europe must also become so situated that wealth, the basis of all credit, shall not be subject to confiscatory taxation.

After explaining the banking law, Mr. Latham advised the bankers "Not to build up a big business, not to pay big dividends, but to throw every safeguard around the depositor, to make his interests first, then those other things will be added."

Judge Pell thinks that the next year crop will set the farmers on their feet, because they are producing it at much lowered costs. Dr. Kilgore explained the co-operative marketing system, boosting it and asking for the financial co-operation of his hearers.

Group Meetings.

Meetings of three of the district groups were held this afternoon, most of the groups having held their meetings before the convention. Group Four decided to nominate G. H. Andrews, of the Citizens' National Bank, Raleigh, for vice-president of the association when the elections are held tomorrow. The Third District Group will present the name of H. M. Cox, of Mount Olive, for the executive committee.

Tonight after Senator Stanley's address the members of the association were guests of the banks of Greensboro at a novelty entertainment at the Elks Ball Overall Company's plant. The ladies attending the convention were given an automobile ride this morning and were the guests at a luncheon at the Country Club.

Over five hundred banks have registered for the convention. James H. Young, vice-president of the Merchants National Bank, Raleigh, and J. I. Moore, of New Bern, will speak at tomorrow's session. Mr. Young on "The Relation of Insurance and Business" and Mr. Moore on "The Relation of the Banks to the Processes of Readjustment." General discussion and the election of officers will follow. Reports, resolutions and other routine business will take up the time of the afternoon session and convention will adjourn late in the afternoon.

Morning Session.

The address of Mr. Booth, while not taking up most of the time of this morning's proceedings, was the most interesting feature. At the outset of his speech, the New York financier expressed pleasure at being in the South. One thing that hurts the New Yorker, burrowing in Wall Street and other sections of the financial centers of the nation, he said, is the lack of proper viewpoint of the other fellow's problem.

The outstanding reaction of the World War, according to Mr. Booth, is recognition of the importance that foreign trade bears to domestic prosperity. There can not be one without the other. "Our ability to cope with the foreign trade situation, he said, will be measured by the ability to handle the domestic situation."

The creditor nation of the world is what the war made the United States, but it would have been a creditor nation any way, the New York man said.

"You cannot make credit simply by machinery," he continued. "That would be a simple matter if it were feasible. The underlying values from wealth must exist, we must reach out and make investment capital into commercial capital; we must use the investment capital of the nations overseas."

The surpluses clogging America's warehouses are the greatest menace to the industrial situation, he said. The bankers must do everything they can to relieve that clogging; the relief will be only "enlightened selfishness." Mr. Booth said. In that connection he declared himself in favor of exporting as large an amount of the crops of the country through Southern ports.

Remedy For Situation.

Mr. Booth gave no dogmatic remedy for the situation, but told what he thought would help. In the first place, the matter of the German reparations must be settled, and he did not see how it can be settled until the United States takes a hand. That settled, he said, there will be a positive, beneficial reaction of agriculture and business. Every business man in North Carolina, every farmer, will feel the effects of it, he said. In addition, when it is definitely understood by manufacturers and exporters of raw material that political disorders in Europe will not result in the destruction of their products, goods will flow overseas. Mr. Booth sees a gradual stabilization of political conditions in Europe.

RELIGIOUS EDITOR TO SPEAK AT WAKE FOREST COLLEGE TONIGHT

Dr. Curtis Lee Laws, who will preach the baccalaureate sermon at Wake Forest College tonight, is editor of The Watchman-Examiner, one of the best known religious weekly papers in America. It is published in New York City and its circulation is country-wide. Dr. Laws will make the commencement address at Shaw University in Raleigh this morning and while in the city will be the guest of Dr. Weston Bruner, pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist Church, Raleigh.

George Pell, of the Corporation Commission, advised the bankers to be brave, to stick to good banking principles, and not allow urgent would-be borrowers to "knock the props out from under you."

An explanation of the co-operative marketing system, agitation for which is now being made in North Carolina, was made by Dr. B. W. Kilgore, upon it to come.

"Keep capital employed to produce wealth; refuse to give it to speculators," he told the bankers. Every day do something to make for the reproduction of wealth, that wealth without which there can be no basis of credit, he reminded them; that wealth that went up into smoke in the war.

Clarence Latham, State bank examiner, read his speech, which was brief. He reported the great gain in banks and banking resources and told how that necessitated the passage of a new banking law by the last general assembly. When in 1920 the number of banks had reached 558 and the amount of capital three hundred million dollars, it was time to make a new code.

The report of the secretary-treasurer of the association, T. A. Uzell, of New Bern, rendered this morning, showed considerable growth. years, but the rub comes as to the direction of the general movement, whether it will be by the Federal government selecting the roads and making great transcontinental routes, or whether the selection of the roads to be made will be left in the hands of the states, as is now the plan. The present appropriation ends on July 1st, hence the insistence that there be early action in the matter. Director General J. A. Bountree, of Alabama, of the two associations and Col. making preparations for the meeting tomorrow morning. At the conference this afternoon Congressman Doughton and Colonel Cameron were among the chief speakers.

Champion for States

Congressman Doughton is strongly opposed to the enactment of any road legislation that will take away the directing power of the states. That was the position taken by the majority at the conference this morning of the members of the House committee on postoffice and post roads, Representative Doughton being the ranking Democratic member. The position taken favors co-operation between the Federal government and the states, just as it is at present. The present legislation is favored as against what is known as the Townsend bill, which provides for Federal direction. The House bill to that effect failed to get action in the Senate at the last session, and it is to be pressed again. Mr. Doughton states that Frank Page, head of the North Carolina Highway Commission, stated he would rather have nothing than to have the Townsend bill; that it would hurt, rather than help.

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonful of Mulified will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulified coconut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulified.—(Adv.)
