

RETURN THIS BILL AGAINST OFFICERS

Four Durham Police Officers Charged With Criminal Negligence In Indictment

Durham, May 28.—Four members of the Durham police force, Minnie Glegg, Rowland Gill, B. W. Sharpe and D. T. Hahn, of the rank of patrolmen, are charged with "criminal negligence in the performance of their duties as officers in the arrest of Major Hamlin on Saturday night, May 21, 1921," in a true bill returned by the superior court grand jury here late Friday, following an investigation into the death of Hamlin. Hamlin died in a cell at police headquarters after a fight with John Oliver in the Edgemont section of the city. Both men had been drinking and when arrested Hamlin was supposed to be in a drunken stupor. He was placed in a cell, it is claimed, without attention and died early last Sunday morning of a fractured skull. The grand jury heard eight witnesses.

While the true bill has been returned the indictment will not be drawn until the next term of court.

Statements made in an affidavit published in an afternoon paper here yesterday were to the effect that no attempt was given Hamlin after he was placed in his cell and that no officers came to the cell during the morning. The man making the statement, who was locked in the same cell with Hamlin last Saturday night, also stated that in the morning when the body of Hamlin was removed a pool of blood on the cell floor was cleaned up at the direction of certain police officers. H. G. Liveness, the man making the statement, declared he protested against the removal of the blood but that no attention was paid to the protest. He also stated, according to the article, that Hamlin was not laid on a cot, but on the floor and that his moustache during the night attracted Liveness' attention. Liveness said he noticed blood coming from Hamlin's mouth and that his mouth was parched and dry. He declared he carried water from the faucet to the dying man's lips in his cupped hands and that he removed his shoes and beat upon the floor of the cell in an effort to attract attention.

Acting City Manager Kueffner has stated that the hearing given the policemen in secret Tuesday night, while not bringing forth any evidence that the officers had neglected their duty, did not mean that they had been exonerated. Only the officers were heard at the hearing, and Manager Kueffner states that further investigation will be made by the city.

TWO WHITE MEN TAKE POSSESSION OF HOUSE

S. J. Frazier and Two Companions Alleged To Have Forcibly Entered House

J. G. Frazier and J. E. Allen, two white men of Raleigh were yesterday arrested in a rooming house conducted by Mrs. Allen H. Stephenson at 14 West Hargett street, just back of Gresham Hotel.

The men, who were badly cut, when the police reached the house in response to a summons from Mrs. Stephenson, are charged on the police blotter with merely being drunk, but will probably face graver charges when they stand trial Monday. It is alleged that the men, in company with a third man not yet identified, forced their way, into the rooming house, took possession of one of the rooms and proceeded to "throw a party," the festivities terminating in hostilities.

Three bottles of whiskey, said to be the property of the arrested men, were found in the room. Frazier is the night watchman at the State Administration Building and has been in police court before, in connection with charges of disorderly conduct in the State building of which he is custodian. Neither of the men produced bond and both are in jail.

The funeral of Sam Lewis will be held in the Baptist Church at 4 o'clock this afternoon and the service will be conducted by Dr. Weston Brunson, pastor. The bodies reached the city yesterday from France, by way of New York. The remains of Lieutenant Robbins was accompanied to the city by mother and brother, Wilfred Robbins and his aunt, Mrs. Emma Williams, Capetown, South Africa.

Lieutenant Robbins was killed in France June 29, 1918, when his airplane crashed to the ground. At that time, he was twenty-three years of age and had just been recommended for a captaincy. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Will H. Robbins.

Sam Lewis was a member of the Seventh Anti-Aircraft Battery and died of bronchial pneumonia October 24, 1918, after having seen hard service with the battery. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Lewis.

PLENTY OF BIDDERS FOR BUILDING AT UNIVERSITY

Construction Committee Of Board Of Trustees Fails To Award Any Contracts

Chapel Hill, May 28.—The trustees building committee of the University of North Carolina in session here today received bids from more than 25 contracting firms, nearly half of whom were North Carolina firms, for the more than a million dollars worth of construction work to be done at the university. At the end of an all-day session no decision had been reached about awarding the contract and from present indications it may be several days before the decision is reached. Representatives from about half the firms entering bids, including nearly all the North Carolina firms, were present today and appeared before the committee to explain and amplify their bids.

The nature of the contract, university officials said, called for unusual care in selecting the firm and there appeared little prospect of the matter being settled at this meeting. Members of the building committee present today were: J. Bryan Grimes, chairman; George Stephens, of Charlotte; Haywood Parker, of Asheville; John Sprunt Hill, of Durham; W. N. Everett, of Rockingham, who has just been added to the committee, and President Chase and C. T. Woolen.

SHORT TERM OF FEDERAL COURT HELD ON SATURDAY

Yesterday was a light day in the Federal court, it requiring only a few days for the court to catch up with its docket for the week. The only cases of importance disposed of were: both hold overs from Friday. S. J. Garrot, a white man from Roxboro, who was convicted on the testimony of himself and his brother, who was co-defendant with him, and who spent Friday night in jail, was released yesterday on payment of a fine of $200. He was also placed under a bond of $250 for his appearance at the next term of court to show good behavior.

hopes in this respect but that is all. Metta in Washington. Adjutant General J. VanB. Metta is here from Washington, and will remain till Sunday night. Today he was at the Navy Department trying to straighten out matters for Camp Glenn which was used by the Navy during the war period. He states that North Carolina expects the Navy to put things in shape so that camp site can be used for the encampments this year. A naval officer from Norfolk is to go to Camp Glenn and go over the condition with General Metta. In addition General Metta took up with the War Department several matters having to do with the re-organization of the North Carolina National Guard. This year the North Carolina infantry will be in camp from July 10th for 15 days, the division of signal corps at the same time. The cavalry will be at Camp Glenn from August 10 for 15 days. The Coast Artillery will be at Fort Caswell for 15 days beginning August 14. Can't Do Other Work. Postmaster General Hays issued today an amendment to the postal laws and regulations which is going to get in close to the finances of many in the postoffice service, for it will make a big lot of these stick close to their training as workers for the government.

The postal regulations bearing upon this matter the new order adds this: "Supervisory officers within the classified civil service at first and second class postoffices, from the rank of foreman up, will not be permitted after their official tours of duty to engage in any outside employment, such as general business, the professions, or any regular trade or vocation." That there will be a howl at this order along the line goes without saying. The Fossils—in and Out. There is an organization, which has frequent diners in Washington, known as The Fossils, which is composed of youngsters who organized an Amateur Press Association in the seventies and preserve their organization. One of the most brilliant of the Fossils is Hon. James M. Beck, lately appointed Solicitor General. Mr. Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, was a Fossil. Writing of Fossils, in the last issue of the Fossil, Wm. B. Brigham, Washington correspondent of the Boston Transcript, says: "I don't seem to remember Josephus Daniels in the old days, but I can tell you boys that his standing as a newspaper man has been mighty useful to him in Washington. He either was or wasn't the greatest Secretary of the Navy, but he is a very jovial, humorous actor, and although his political career may be setting (possibly) to rest, he was one of the few speakers at the December dinner of the Gridiron Club, which organization as a rule exploits only 'comers'."
