CAMPING OUT

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

A QUARTER-ACT PLAY.

(Characters—Father, Mother, Willie.)

(Scene—Roadside, automobile in the foreground. Barb wire fence in the background.)

Father—This is just the spot. Mother—I would rather stop by a brook. Father—What do you want of a brook? Willie would only fall into it and get wet. Look at the view. Mother—Well, we can't drink the view, and we haven't got any water. Father—Up in that farm house and get a bucket of water. Willie—In just a minute. I think I got a chance to catch a turtle around here. Father—Never mind the turtle. I have got to have the water to make the coffee. Go now. Willie—All right, in just a minute. Mother—Willie, go at once, as papa says. Willie—I will, in just a minute. Father—First we must get some stones to make a fireplace. Mother—But there aren't any stones around here. Father—Oh, I'll find some in a few minutes. Mother—I don't think you can. Now if we had gone to a brook as I suggested. Father—Oh, hang the brook! There are some stones right over there. Mother—But there isn't any wood. Father—Well, we can cut some, can't we. There's plenty of trees. Mother—But trees are green and they won't burn. If we had gone to a brook we could have found plenty of drift wood. Father—Willie, if you don't go instantly and get that water you won't get any lunch. Willie—All right, I'll go in just a minute. Father—Here are the stones. Now I'll build a little box for the fire, and when Willie comes back—WILLIE! Willie—What is it? Father—Go instantly for that water or I'll take a stick to you. I mean it. Willie—Yes, sir. (Goes.) Father—I'll cut some wood now, and with a little paper we can get it going. Then the coffee and the bacon. There's nothing so appetizing as fresh, crisp bacon cooked in the open air. Mother—I wouldn't cut those trees. They might be poison ivy. Father—Poison ivy isn't a tree, it's a vine. Now, please stand between me and the wind while I light the fire. Mother—It doesn't seem to burn. Father—He takes a little time. Patience is indispensable in camping out. Mother—It isn't burning at all. It's wet. Now if we had gone to a brook— Father—I'll make it burn. (He goes to car, draws a little gasoline from the tank on a handful of waste, and sets the waste on the fire.) Now. Mother—Good gracious, you'll set fire to the car. Look at it blaze up. Father—It'll die down in a minute. I wish Willie was back with that water. Mother—Smother it with something—take a robe! It'll set fire to the gasoline tank! Here! (She throws a robe over the fire.) Father—Now you've put it out. Mother—Well, I couldn't see the car burn up and explode and everything, and that's what would have happened. Father—Perhaps I can find enough old newspapers to cook the coffee with. You put the bacon in the frying pan. Mother—Just in a solid chunk, like that? Father—No, of course not. Slice it. Mother—Where are the knives? Father—Willie has it. Mother—Then we'll have to wait. Father—What can be keeping the kid? He's been gone long enough to bring all the water in the well. Mother—Well, let's eat something. I'm starving! Father—Oh, wait till we get the coffee and bacon! Don't spoil your appetite for them by eating anything else. Willie—(Entering excitedly.) He wouldn't let me have any water, the farmer wouldn't, and he said it was against the laws to set fires on the road like you're doing, and he's got a big dog that he had to hold back like a blazer to keep him from biting me, and he's mad and talking about coming down here with a shotgun because last year a lot of city folks set a fire that burned down his corn crib, and look-out—there he comes now! Father—I guess we'd better run along. This is a rotten place anyway. Mother—Where shall we go? Father—Let's find a nice brook. I wanted to go to a brook in the first place. (All into car and exit.) Guardmen, and those interested in the State's forces. The cavalry camp will be held in August at Camp Glenn, and it is hoped that the artillery battalion (155th Howitzers) will be equipped in time to undergo field training at Camp Bragg during the month of September. The Engineer Company at North Wilkesboro has been recognized, but it will not be possible for them to get equipment in time to attend the July camp. The 24 Co., Coast Artillery, Wilmington, will attend a camp of instruction at Fort Caswell, N. C., July 10-24, under command of Capt. K. S. McClelland, who served as a captain in Coast Artillery during the war. The 24 Co. has always been one of the best units in the N.C.N.G., and at the present time its strength exceeds seventy enlisted men.

Power Monopoly Admitted By Lee In Examination

(Continued From Page One.) ace as compared to the public and its welfare. The judge declared that "I don't care if J. B. Duke is vice regent to the devil I will sit this case through and render a decision according to the evidence presented." Claims Shortage Of Power. Upon the direct examination of Mr. Lee it was developed from his testimony that the Southern Power Company has been prevented from making any new contracts by a shortage of power and he also charged that the North Carolina Public Service Company is making larger demands upon the company every day. The North Carolina Public Service Company has no contract with the Southern Power Company and doesn't think that his company should be forced to furnish current for the plaintiff company to sell when he has stated his own company has been forced to order that no more contracts for power be executed. He declared that in both Greensboro and High Point or in the vicinity of the two cities the company now has calls for power which it could not furnish. He further charged that the North Carolina Public Service Company has never paid as high a rate for current as the Southern Public Utilities company, which he admitted was affiliated with the Southern Power Company. This affiliation he explained consisted in the Southern Power Company going out of the retail business and turning over all of its business of that kind to the Southern Public Utilities company which was formed in 1913. Retains Only In Salisbury. Yesterday it was developed that the Southern Power Company again went into business as a retailer of current in the city of Salisbury, where it was directly in competition with the North Carolina Public Service Company, and that Salisbury is the only city in North Carolina in which the Southern Power Company now does a retail business in electric current. After all of the morning session and Judge Bynum's motion that the court adjourn until 10:30 o'clock Monday morning, and this motion had been accepted by Judge Boyd, neither side seemed a great victory. Every indication at this time points to a long hearing and it may take all of next week to complete it at the rate that it is progressing now. Mr. Lee will doubtless be recalled to the stand Monday morning and may be kept there for some time.

Judge Boyd Signs Final Decrees In Two Varner Cases

(Continued From Page One.) suit of Agnes and Viola Fritt's against Z. V. Waiser. The divorce brought by Mr. Varner here, argument for removal of which was indefinitely postponed yesterday by Judge T. B. Finley, is still pending in Davidson superior court. Mrs. Varner, however, is free to take a similar action should she so desire in the State of Iowa, where she established a legal residence after Mr. Varner was found at her home here last August. Attorneys for Mr. Varner stated that their client did not receive one cent in the settlement as had been his announced intention from the beginning. It is understood that Mrs. Varner received a sum of money, just exactly how much is known to her and her attorneys.

Ernest Unable To Exact Promise of Secret Session

(Continued From Page One.) has been that there would be handed down any day a decision by the Interstate Commerce Commission in which there is the charge of discrimination in freight rates in favor of Virginia. Today Senator Overman took the matter up with the commission and urged that there be a ruling in the case. He was advised that the decision had been rendered, and it would be promulgated in a few days, that it is now in the hands of the printers and that as soon as it is furnished the commission that it will be made public. That there appears to be good news ahead for North Carolina business men is the view taken by Senator Overman on the basis of the information that was given him from the office of the commission. For while the commission declined to give out the result until after the decision is printed, Senator Overman was impressed with everything that was said and done, and feels that the decision will be favorable to the North Carolina cities. The case is one that has attracted great attention among the shippers of North Carolina, and if the opinion of the Interstate Commerce Commission is in favor of North Carolina cities it will mean at least fifty million dollars per year to the wholesalers in the State.

Business Women Now a Force In Public Affairs

(Continued on Page Two.) achievement. The war gave larger proof of the fitness of women in national mobilization. New fields are opening to them in business. The of chivalry will welcome you into full partnership, and conditions must be so adjusted in our business that the rewards of skill and industry will be everywhere, without regard to sex, distributed in proportion to the quality of service and product. Please convey my greeting and good wishes to the Business Women and my regrets for being unavoidably kept away from the evening's enjoyment. Other speakers at the banquet were Dr. Della Dixon Carroll, Mrs. W. T. Bost, Miss McDuffie, of Spartanburg, S. C., Miss Kennedy, of Durham, dean of women at Trinity College. An interesting feature was when each delegate presented rose and gave her name and her occupation.

Vocational Talks.

The morning session of the Federation was an enlightening revelation of the varied lines of work which are being carried on successfully by women in North Carolina. The speakers were Miss Mary Moses, of Chapel Hill, who rhapsodized over the opportunities in selling insurance; Miss Ethel Thomas, of Greensboro, who told of the widening chance for women in newspaper work; Miss Anna E. Wallace, who talked on home demonstration work as a satisfactory vocation for women; Miss Bertha Hellen, of Raleigh, on banking; Miss Katherine Robinson, of Fayetteville, on laws; Mrs. J. B. Marsh, of Salisbury, on Y. W. C. A. work; Dr. Della Dixon Carroll, of Raleigh, on medicine and incidentally on operating peach orchards; Miss Willie Shelby, of Charlotte, on advertising; Miss Drum, of Durham, on public health work.

Mrs. Johnson Endorsed.

In order to make their voice heard in State affairs just at present, they followed the example set them by the State Federation of Women's Club recently in session at Wrightsville, and unanimously endorsed Mrs. Clarence A. Johnson as the next Public Welfare Superintendent in the afternoon meeting. The Federation delegates decided that they would continue to support the North Carolina Legislative Council of Women.

Other resolutions adopted related to the provision of an adequate building for the women students at the University of North Carolina; endorsement of the Armament resolution passed by the Women's Club Federation; support of the Shepherd Howard Maternity bill, and the Smith-Stirling educational bill and endorsement of the movement of the Merchants Association in some cities to close all stores at 6 o'clock during the summer and to observe a half-holiday each week.

The visiting delegates were entertained yesterday at a luncheon given by the Raleigh Business and Professional Women's Club of Raleigh and taken on a drive about the city.

MISS BERRY RECOVERS AND GOES ON WARPATH

Chapel Hill, June 18.—The North Carolina Good Roads Association is now directing its efforts toward the promotion of county road systems. The secretary, Miss Berry, having recovered from an illness resulting from her strenuous work in connection with the passage of the State road law, has been visiting several of the eastern counties during the past two weeks. She has just returned from Hertford county, where she spoke at Winton, Ahoakie and Murfreesboro. As a result of these meetings, the board of county commissioners have passed a resolution calling for an election on a $500,000 county road issue. Miss Berry will return to Hertford the last of the month in the interest of this campaign. While on this trip she will address a good roads meeting at Windsor, Eastern Carolina is waking up as never before to the necessity of good roads, this interest having been largely stimulated by the State's definitely launching its program for a State-wide system of highways, which will take the burden of the main highways from the counties and thus enable them to expend their money and energy on their county roads.

STRESSES NEED OF TAX EQUALIZATION

Senator Edge Addresses Convention of Virginia Bankers; Talks of Tariff

Hot Springs, Va., June 18.—Prompt repeal of the excess profits tax, reduction of sur-taxes for the encouragement and reassurance of business and equalization of taxes were advocated by United States Senator Walter E. Edge, of New Jersey, in addressing the closing session of the convention of the Virginia Bankers' Association here today.

Norman H. Willis, of Chase City, was elected president of the association; O. Raymond Ratliffe, of Manassas, vice-president; W. F. Augustine, of Richmond, secretary, and N. S. Inby, of Kenbridge, treasurer.

A permanent tariff law on a lower range of schedules than the Aldrich Act, less government in business and more business in government, reduction of the cost of labor in accordance with deflation in labor's products were also advocated by Senator Edge. "Organization and operation of expert finance corporations is just as much a matter of patriotic duty for financiers in these days as was the purchase of Liberty Bonds during the war," declared the speaker. "In the opening of foreign markets lies the one and only hope of saving and utilizing our great American merchant marine."

IREDELL MAN INJURED WHEN CAR OVERTURNS

Statesville, June 18.—William Sigmon, of East Monbo, and probably fatally injured and his son Ralph, age 17, was badly bruised when their car overturned as they were coming to Statesville. Near Berium Springs, Mr. Sigmon lost control of the car, and it left the road, overturning and pinning him and son underneath. They were brought to the Carpenter-Davis hospital here and it was found that Mr. Sigmon had suffered a severe contusion of the brain, and was injured internally, being severely shocked. The son had numerous cuts and bruises, but not serious. Mr. Sigmon is 60 years of age. He remains in an unconscious state and his recovery is doubtful.

Woodmen Up in Arms.

Omaha, Neb., June 18.—Federal Judge M. J. Wade, of Iowa, today declined to grant insurgent Woodmen of the World an injunction restraining W. A. Frazer, of Omaha, sovereign commander, from presiding at the order's sovereign camp meeting in New York July 5. About one hundred residents of Southern States were petitioners for the injunction.

AMUNDSEN ARRIVES AT NOME FROM THE ARCTIC

Nome, Alaska, June 18.—Roald Amundsen, the explorer, whose ship, the Maud, wintered off Cape Sarg, Siberia, arrived in Nome yesterday and will leave for Seattle on the first steamer, he announced. The Maud lost a propeller in the ice during the winter and will be towed to Nome this summer for repairs. The explorer noted for his discovery of the South Pole and his many arctic and antarctic voyages, said he would continue his efforts to reach the North Pole by drifting with Arctic ice floes as soon as repairs to his vessel were completed.

He spent the winter on board the Maud with one native and three white companions, and said the party experienced few hardships. He reached Nome on the trading schooner Horman, which had picked him up at East Cape, Siberia. With the explorer were the daughter of Charles Carpenter, a Siberian trader, and a Chukchi Eskimo girl whom he will send to school in Norway.

SEAMSTRESSES CENSOR WOMEN'S BATHING SUITS

Chicago, Ill., June 18.—Seamstresses with pins, needles, thread and other paraphernalia of the ladies' tailor, were stationed at Chicago beaches today to censor the bathing suits worn by women and sew in those wearers who violated prohibitions against the display of legs and at censors which were made effective this year. Last year the style of costumes worn at the beaches was left almost entirely, it was said, to the conscience of the wearer. Hundreds of women who appeared today in last year's "conscience" suits kept the beach tailors censors busy.
