Will Address North Carolina Housing of Crop Virtually Com-Literary and Historical Association

In second with the custom of the State Literary and Historical Association to call home each year for an address some son of the state fho has distinguished himself in other states, the Association announces its speaker one of three North Caro'ina brothers who have all won distinction in their vocations. Homer L. Ferguson, president of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company.

Mr. Ferguson is a native of Waynes ville. He was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1892, and immediately aft er graduation spent three years in speetal study at Glasgow University Scotland. After some years of segvice as a naval constructor, he resigned to devote his time to shipbuilding. Since 1900 he has been connected with the great shiphuilding company at New-port News, and in 1915 he was, on account of his ability and success, pro moted to be president of the corporation. This company was extensively engaged in shipbuilding for the gov-ernment during the World War, and no Mr. Ferguson with the history of the wonderful enterprise shown by the country in its construction of ships for the war-the subject on which he will speak on December 1st. Gen. Harley B. Ferguson, of the three brothers. At the opening of the war General Ferguson trained and commanded the 195th Engineers in France, a command to which Col. Joseph Hyde Pratt succeeded when General Ferguson became division en gineer of the 30th division and subse quently corps engineer of the 2nd army

It will be recalled that when the gov erument undertook to raise the sunker Maine in 1910 General Ferguson was the army engineer in charge of the work, and Lieutenant Ferguson, another brother, was the naval engineer.
