A New Year's Retrospect. Would I go back, if I might, Little one, with shining hair And soft eyes of joyous blue, Raised to mine, which sadder are. Back, and be a child to-night. Such a little child as you ? Would I have it all again -Babyhood's delicious flower, Childish dream and childish flower, Earliest dew of earliest hour-At the price of all the pain Which divides that hour from me? Ah ! the dawn, the dew were sweet ! Life in bud unstirred by sun Holds all fragrance of the day. You are happy, little one ; Yet I would not thrn my feet, Though I might, that backward way. Would not lose one footstep gained, Nor retrace at even-tide The long slope in morning trod, From whose summit half attained In the clear sunset are descried All the shining hills of God. Not for all your locks of gold Or the glad and fearless glee, Or your whiteness, oh, my land, Would I change my place, and be Made again a baby, old, Grieved, and weary though I be. Now, the wonder in your eyes ! And the puzzle in their blue ! Go back, darling, to your play : I will come and frolic too. Nor becloud your laughing skies With my shadowy yesterday. -Susan Coolridge.

How to Make Good Cheese. Robert H. Baker, of Colosse, Oswego county, N. Y., who received the premium at the International Dairy Fair in New York, for the best box of cheese in America, gives the following as his method of production : I was very careful to see that my milk was sweet and good flavor. After receiving milk I warmed the same to eighty-four degrees, then I applied about one ounce of Wells, Richardson & Co.'s golden extract of annatto, to one thousand pounds of milk ; after stirring this well, I added enough rennet to coagulate it ready to cut in about one hour; after cutting partially, 1 allowed it to stand about fifteen minutes, then I commenced heating, very slow; after warming to about ninety degrees fiinish cutting-cutting quite fine-and heat it to one hundred degrees, taking about two and one-half hours to do this heating ; let it stand at this temperature until it would draw out on hot iron, about quarter inch, then I started whey running off when it would string from hot iron five-eighth inch, and well-stirred and ccol; I added two pounds of Onondaga F. F. salt to one thousand pounds of milk ; after laying with salt thoroughly mixed, for one hour, I put it to press and pressed it in gang press for the space of three days; then I put them in curing-room, where they remained about thirty days.

WORMS ON LAWNS .- Pulverszed fresh lime, a correspondent of the Gardener's Chronicle says, will effectually drive earth worms from the lawns. The lime also kills moss, which is so troublesome on old lawns, often destroying large patches of grass, and so sadly interfering with mowing. Mix the lime with twice its bulk of fine soil. Leached wood-ashes is better than soil for mixing with lime.

BEAN POLES .- Take three good common laths to every three hills, two for the beans and one for a brace, set in the form of a tripod, letting the tops cross about one inch or more, and one four-penny nail will hold them together. The object of letting them lap by a little is to hold the vines up, for when the top is reached of course they lop over, and cannot slip down, as they would do on a straight, smooth pole .-Some of these beans will grow eight feet or more in height, but there is no necessity for it, and a better crop is MISTAKEN IDENTITY.

Some Remarkable Reports of Capital Tri-als, English, French and American, Where Honest Witnesses were in Error. The Boston Herald publishes an count of several cases of erroneous conviction by circumstantial evidence, with a purpose to enlighten magistrates, ju rors and the public in regard to the danger and injustice of convictions, in trials where a human life is at stake, unless every link in the chain of circumstantial testimony is perfect. Among the errors which witnesses are liable to commit in their testimony are those which relate to personal identity. One of the most remarkable cases on record is that of a Frenchman, named Lesurques, who, at the close of the last century, was condemned and executed at Paris for the robbery of the mail and the murder of the carier and postilion. He was a young man of fortune, and went to Paris with a purpose of residing there permanently. On the day after his arrival, he paid a debt which he owed to one Guesno of $500, and took breakfast with him in a public restaurant in company with two other persons, one of whom, named Couriol, happened in, just as they were sitting down to the he was her assailant. He was tried and convicted, and in a confession made before his execution, he said that Losurques had nothing to do with the crime of murdering the courier, but that it was done by a person named Dubosq, who wore a blonde wig. The judge ordered a blonde wig to be procured, and summoning the two female witnesses who had sworn away the life of Lesurques two years before, he placed it freely and was cured. upon his head, when both acknowledged that they had been mistaken in their former testimony; and Dubosq, in his dying statement to his confessor, when convicted of another crime four years afterward, affirmed the entire innocence of Lesurques.

Saving Seed Corn.

It is early to make the suggestion for saving the seed corn, but it is always in time to make a useful suggestion, such as we have frequently had occasion to present in regard to the greatly increased crop to be obtained from the securing of good seed. The Cincinnati Enquirer says: "We do not think we would be far out of the way if we were to assert that the farmers of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and West Virginia are losing a million dollars annually on account of their neglect in properly selecting their seed corn. Going through the field in September, and selecting the best ears before the husks are entirely dry, and leaving two or three husks on
