FOR THE FARM AND HOME.

Cabbage Pests.

Wash the cabbage well with strong soot and water and on the next dry day dust the ground about the cabbage with quick-lime, and pick as many of the caterpillars off as you can find, and during the winter gas-lime the land and leave it in ridges to catch the frost, and very few insects will trouble you again. The odors emitted from gas-lime are so pungent that neither moth, butterfly nor mole will remain on land that is dressed with it. Exchange.

Feeding Apples to Cows.

Feeding hay sometimes comes with, when it is scarce, valuable as the same article. It is [illegible] observes of the [illegible] dig with the [illegible] worms [illegible] Wetmore [illegible] others [illegible] feed [illegible] low [illegible] that one [illegible] bread [illegible] milk [illegible] by a [illegible] physician [illegible] work. Apples are [illegible] use in any way and it will [illegible] cow's fodder. We have frequently given them to horses and found [illegible] pensive [illegible] partly because the animals [illegible] site for them, but always and [illegible] exception the milk [illegible] consequence, and sometimes very [illegible] siderably. There is no doubt that at times some [illegible] even for a few [illegible] have evidently [illegible] in the soil [illegible] selection of [illegible] have never [illegible] quantity of [illegible] the feeder [illegible] the cows appear [illegible] and the [illegible] sorts as regard [illegible] Sweet apples, [illegible] to overabundance [illegible] apples which [illegible] cheap water. Here [illegible] ably consume [illegible] pounds [illegible] pounds [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]