DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

FOR THE SENATE: SAMUEL J. CRAWFORD.

FOR THE HOUSE: JOHN M. EDWARDS, SIDNEY G. WILSON.

FOR CLERK: STEPHEN W. BREWER.

FOR REGISTER: LABAN R. EXLINE.

FOR CORONER: WILLIAM S. PETTY.

FOR SURVEYOR: RUFUS B. CLEGG.

Siler City was proudly boast that there is not one white republican among all her citizens.

Messrs Johnson & Goodwin, of Merry Oaks, have made an assignment to Mr. T. B. Womack.

The first soaking rain that has fallen here since the first of June fell on last Monday, but was too late to save the corn.

All the brick piers of the proposed bridge at Pace's mill have been built, and the wood-work is being pushed forward.

Hickory, dogwood and persimmon timber now wanted at the shuttle mill at Pittsboro. Haul it at once and get the cash.

During the month of August five marriage licenses were issued in this county, of which seven were to whites and two were to blacks.

The county board of health held its annual meeting here on last Monday, and re-elected Dr. E. A. Hanks county superintendent of health.

The attention of cotton ginners is called to the advertisement of the N. C. Home Insurance Company. As cotton gins are so liable to be burned, every one ought to be insured.

60,000 lbs. dried peaches and apples wanted by John Barringer, at Lockville, in 2 weeks time. He pays the highest price for fruit and all kinds of country produce and sells goods at the lowest cash price.

We regret to hear that there were several fights at Siler City, on last Saturday, after the speaking was over, between some white and colored men. At first we heard several exaggerated reports, which have since been contradicted.

We hear that Mr. Manly Durham, of Hadley township, attempted to hang himself on last Saturday, but was seen and cut down in time to be saved. He is one of our best citizens, and no cause can be given for his attempted suicide.

It seems that a short corn crop is inevitable, but a great part of the inconvenience resulting therefrom may be avoided by sowing Landreth's Turnip-seeds. J. P. S. Edwards, Egypt, has a full supply of fresh seeds. Lawns and other suttler goods at cost.

We would call your attention to W. L. London's new advertisement in this issue. He has commenced receiving his Fall stock already. He has a large lot of Sateen goods which he will sell low for cash, or exchange for wool, besides a lot of Northern Jeans and Cassimeres.

Capt. Bunn may yet appoint the cadet from this district to West Point. Nichols appointed his own son last year, but he was unable to pass the required examination. His alternate was Mettett Lounny Merritt, of this place, who went to West Point last week to be examined, but was rejected because of physical disability.

Merchants' attention is called to the fact that they can buy Coets's Good Cotton, Diamond Eyes and a good many other goods at W. L. London's at Factory prices and save freight. He has received a large lot of Blue Stone which he will sell at retail or wholesale. London has received this week the largest stock of Shoes he has ever had.

BRIDGE AT HENLEY'S.—On last Monday the county commissioners opened the bids for building the proposed bridge across River at Henley's mill, and awarded the contract to Capt. John W. Taylor at the sum of $5,800, his bid being the lowest offered. This bridge is not to be built until next year, and will be the longest in the county. The lattice portion of the bridge will be 738 feet long, with open trestles at each end. There are to be eight brick piers, and all the wood-work is to be of the most substantial kind.

FLAG RAISING.—As announced last week, there will be a grand patriotic rally and flag-raising at this place, on Friday, the 14th of this month. All the Democratic clubs in the county are invited and expected to be present. Among the distinguished speakers who will speak on that occasion are Messrs. B. H. Burn, N. B. Broughton and Fred N. Strudwick. Mr. Spence Taylor will be the chief marshal, with the following assistants, viz: E. R. McLean, R. M. Gorell, P. K. Hatch, J. G. Foushee, J. W. Uley, M. C. McBane, J. G. Farrington, T. W. Segroves, J. Bunn Atwater, Thos. R. Green, J. Henry Knight and W. R. Hunter.

PUBLIC SPEAKING.—The people of Chatham will hear an abundance of good speaking next week.

Messrs. B. H. Burn, Fred N. Strudwick, N. B. Broughton and other distinguished democrats will speak at the following times and places:

Merry Oaks, Tuesday, Sept. 11th, Hackley's, Wednesday, " 12th, J. S. Healey's, Thursday, " 13th, Pittsboro, Friday, " 14th, Harper's X Roads, Saturday, " 15th, Osgood, Monday, " 17th.

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES.—As we predicted last week, a secret caucus of some of the republican "bosses" was held at Siler City, on last Saturday, for the purpose of deciding on their candidates in this county.

The caucus is said to have been held out in the bushes, shortly before the joint discussion began between Fowle and Dockery, and was composed of ten or twelve white men and about twenty negroes.

It is said that the darkest did most of the talking, and controlled the caucus. The candidates nominated by them are said to be John T. Paschal and Alfred Self for the Legislature, Oliver McMath for sheriff, and W. O. Farrell for register.

We hear that Mr. Paschal will decline the nomination, so that there may yet be a chance for "Chairman" Billy Bland to run and be beaten. We suppose Mr. Self is willing to run again, for he would mind being beaten, as he got used to it in 1884, when he was defeated by a majority of 773 votes!

Of the North Carolina Weather Service, co-operating with the U. S. Signal Service, for the week ending Saturday, Sept. 1st, 1888.

In the Eastern District there was a slight deficiency of rainfall. Crops, apparently, were not unfavorably affected. In the Central District there was a marked deficiency of rainfall, with a very injurious effect upon the crops. There was an average amount of rainfall in the Western District, with a very favorable effect upon all crops.

The temperature in the Eastern and Central Districts was below the average. In the Western District there was an average temperature. There was an average amount of sunshine in all districts. The cool weather was rather unfavorable to crops.

Fowle and Dockery!

The Joint Discussion—Grand Oration to Fowle—Democrats Enthusiastic—Dockery Discouraged, &c., &c.

Judge Fowle and Col. Dockery, the rival candidates for Governor, met in joint discussion at Siler City, in this county, on last Saturday. The crowd in attendance was very large—no less than 1,500—and a decided majority were democrats. The crowd was larger and the democrats were more enthusiastic than when Vanoe and Settle spoke here in 1876.

We are pleased to know that the result of the discussion was very favorable to the democratic party. Every democrat who heard the discussion went away stronger in his faith and more enthusiastic than ever before, and we know of several independent and republicans, who before the speaking expected to vote for Dockery, but afterwards declared that they would not vote for him or any other man who publicly admitted that he had voted for a negro lawyer against a white farmer!

The reception given to each of the rival candidates was in most striking contrast. Dockery arrived at Siler just after day dawn, without any one knowing it. He had travelled all night, having been lost on his way from Ashboro' where they had spoken the previous day. It is said that he had attended a large midnight negro meeting in the woods somewhere between Ashboro' and Siler, and, in trying to get back into the public road, had got lost. Judge Fowle, however, was received as a conquering hero. He was met about 11 o'clock two miles from Siler by a long procession of mounted men, with waving flags and banners headed by the Siler City Brass band, and escorted with much enthusiasm and loud cheers to the Guthrie Hotel, where a short speech of welcome was delivered by H. A. London, and an eloquent response thereto was made by Judge Fowle, while the air resounded with the enthusiastic cheers for Fowle and Cleveland. We do not remember ever before having seen in this county such a demonstration and so enthusiastic a reception in honor of any other candidate. It was indeed worthy of the white men of Chatham and of their gallant stand at Gettysburg—the next Governor of North Carolina!

The discussion began at 1 o'clock in a large shady grove, where a stand and seats had been prepared. Mr. T. B. Womack announced that Judge Fowle would first speak one hour, then Col. Dockery an hour, and each have twenty minutes in reply. Accordingly the discussion was opened by Judge Fowle; who was heard with the closest attention and was frequently applauded. He said that Col. Dockery, in his opening speech at Monroe (where the joint discussion began) had laid down two propositions as the basis of his attack on the democratic party. These propositions were:

1. That the democratic party had not carried out a single pledge made by it, and tauntingly asked what had the democratic party done? 2. That there was "more nigger in the democratic wood-pile than in the republican wood yard."

The first proposition and question Judge Fowle proceeded to answer most satisfactorily, citing the many benefits to our State by democratic rule—how taxation had been reduced, how the public expenses had been reduced, how railroads had been built all over the State how the children were being educated in the public schools, and how kindly the colored people had been treated by being given asylums and schools just as were the whites. He referred to the saving of the State's stock in the N. C. R. R. Co., amounting to $2,750,000, and the dividends on which, in a few years, would almost defray the ordinary expenses of our State government. He showed how the republicans had squandered the public school fund of $1,500,000, and had spent only $39,500 for public schools.

The second proposition of Dockery, Judge Fowle said, came with a bad grade from a man who, whenever he had an opportunity of doing so, always voted for a negro in preference to a white man! He then stated that Dockery had voted for a negro lawyer, named Quick, against a white farmer, named Sneed, to represent Richmond county in the Legislature; that he had voted for another negro, named Fletcher, against a white man, for the same position; and that he had voted for a negro candidate for register of deeds against a one legged ex Confederate soldier. He then, in order to put Dockery to the test, proposed that they should then and there enter into a written agreement pledging themselves that they would urge their respective parties not to nominate any negro as a candidate for the Legislature, and, if one was nominated, not to vote for him; but of course Dockery declined any such proposition!

Judge Fowle next discussed the county government system, showing the necessity for it in the eastern counties, and eloquently portraying the evils of the Canby system. His time being limited he could only refer to the tariff very briefly.

Dockery then began his speech. He said that there had been no surplus in the treasury until the last two or three years, since Mr. Cleveland had been elected, and that the republicans proposed to reduce the surplus by abolishing the internal revenue system and passing the Blair educational bill. It occurred to us that before Mr. Cleveland's election the greatest argument urged for the passage of the Blair bill was the distribution of the surplus moneys in the treasury. He stated that a republic-can Senate had twice passed the Blair bill, but when asked if Vance and Ransom had not voted for it, he would not answer. He admitted that he had voted for negroes against white men, as charged by Judge Fowle, which admission was received with groans and hisses. He justified these votes by alleging that the democrats of Richmond had nominated and voted for a negro as county commissioner, and that, if democrats who belonged to the white man's party could vote for a negro, it was not wrong for him who belonged to the "nigger party" to vote for negroes. He repeated the statement made by him in his opening speech at Monroe, "that there was more nigger in the democratic wood-pile than in the republican wood yard!" To prove this monstrous assertion he stated that Cleveland had appointed a negro as recorder of deeds at Washington; that some negro children had attended the same Sunday school with white children at Wadesboro'; that there were negro policemen at Wilmington and that ninetenths of the policemen in Southern cities were negroes; and that negroes had attended a reception given by Bishop Lyman at Raleigh. Yes, Dockery made these statements with a brazen effrontery and a cheek that would have done credit to a government mule. No wonder, that driven to such straits for a speech he stopped before his hour had expired!

Judge Fowle for twenty minutes then replied to Dockery with telling effect. One part of his reply would have put to shame any other man but Dockery—that part explaining the alleged mixed Sunday school at Wadesboro'. He stated that sometime last year a young lady at Wadesboro', the daughter of one of North Carolina's most distinguished sons, was requested to teach on Sundays some children of her old family servants, and the pastor of her church consented to employ her to teach a class of them in a separate part of the church from the white children; for only three Sundays, until another room could be secured for them. And for this, Dockery dared to call the democratic party the "nigger party!"

After Judge Fowle closed Dockery made a few scattering remarks, warning the people not to vote for lawyers (although he had studied law himself) saying that they had brought on the war and would again get the country into trouble; that he would not have run if Alexander had been nominated, &c., &c.

The appearance and manner of the two speakers was in striking contrast. Fowle spoke with much force and eloquence, in the utmost good humor, his face beaming with smiles, and with the air of a man who felt that his cause was right and just. Dockery on the contrary was austere in manner, his features stern and hardened, and he spoke with an air of logged determination. He seemed to feel the degradation of his position and yet was determined to stand it. While Fowle was cheered and applauded by the great bulk of the white men present and all the ladies (of whom there was a large number) Dockery's applause came chiefly from his negro hearers who crowded around the stand while he was speaking. At the conclusion of the speaking some bouquets of beautiful flowers were presented to Judge Fowle, in behalf of the ladies, by Mr. M. L. McNeill in well chosen and elegant language.

Thus closed a discussion which will long be remembered by all who heard it, and one that made many votes for the democratic party!
