A lot of coffee—wheat, oak and pine—for sale cheap, by B. Noce, Jr.

Call on John L. Council for shave, hair cut, trims and confederates.

Last Sunday was unusually cool for August, fires and winter clothing being comfortable.

Mrs. E. H. Holloman, of New Hope township, cut a cabbage, a few days ago, and on one stalk there were 53 heads, and ten sprouts that had not headed.

If the populists are not afraid of the republicans reorganizing in this county, why did some of their leaders try to break up the republican convention last Saturday?

Blynn & Headen have reduced the price on their fine and elegant Ohio flour to $2.25 per sack; a very fine flour, Favorite, $2.00 per sack. Recollect, they call the best shoe for the least money.

A stocade, or log house, has been built around one of the houses at the county home for the aged and infirm, in which to confine the prisoners, who may be sentenced to work on the county roads.

W. H. Edwards, dentist, will visit Blynn on Monday and Tuesday, and Pittsboro' on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, following the third Sunday of each month, prepared to do all kind of dental work. Office next to Blynn & Headen.

They have received this week another lot of nice cooking stoves at W. L. London & Son's, which they are selling very low; also, a lot of Oliver chilled plows and plow castings. They are offering special low prices in men's hats and ladies' hats, at and below cost.

If you wish to buy a suit of clothes very cheap you will find them at W. L. London & Son's. They intend getting rid of what they have on hand to make room for fall stock. So, come and see what you want. They have received another lot of shoes this week.

On next Saturday (the 11th inst.) the County Superintendent will hold a competitive examination for scholarships in the State Normal and Industrial School at Greensboro. There are two vacancies to be supplied from Chatham. The successful applicants will be entitled to tuition and the right to board in the institution.

THE SOLDIERS' REUNION.

A Grand Occasion—A Large Attendance—Watermelon Treat—Interesting Speeches, &c.

Any old soldiers in Chatham who did not attend the reunion, that was held here on last Thursday, missed a most delightful occasion. That day was the regular time for the annual meeting of the Leontidas J. Merritt Camp No. 387 of United Confederate Veterans, and to this meeting were invited all ex-Confederates with their wives and children and friends, and all who attended pronounced the meeting a complete success in every particular. Everything passed off as pleasantly as could have been wished for, and nothing whatever occurred to mar the pleasure of the occasion. The exercises were held in our commodious court-room, which was crowded to its utmost capacity. The platform, on which the Judge sat, was very tastefully and appropriately decorated with Confederate flags, flowers and pictures of distinguished Confederates, presenting a most pleasing appearance. Conspicuous was a flag, loaned by Mr. H. M. Cowan, that had been the last placed on President Davis's coffin at his burial at Raleigh.

The meeting was called to order at 11 o'clock by Capt. W. L. London, the commander of the Camp, who briefly welcomed the large audience, and then announced that the exercises would be opened with prayer by Rev. Dr. N. B. Cobb, who had been the chaplain of the 14th N. C. Regiment. The first speaker was Mr. Olan A. Hanner, who had been a lieutenant in Co. E 24th N. C. Regiment. He gave a very vivid and interesting description of prison life on Johnston's Island, where he had been confined twenty months, after having been wounded and captured at Gettysburg. He also read a poem, entitled "The Battle of Gettysburg," which had been written and given him by a Tegan officer, who was confined with him at Johnston's Island.

Col. J. R. Lane then delivered an address upon the war record of Gray, Vance, who was the first Colonel of the same regiment (the 25th) of which Col. Lane was the last Colonel. This address was replete with tender recollections and interesting incidents in the career of our great war Governor, and many instances were mentioned which illustrated the deep affection of the soldiers of his regiment for him while their Colonel. Col. Lane, in speaking, shows the effect of a wound in the month, received while leading his regiment, with its flag in his hand, at Gettysburg, in which battle his regiment lost more men, killed and wounded, than any brigade (containing five regiments) in Pickett's Division.

The next speaker was H. A. London, who briefly gave a sketch of Chatham's companies in the Confederate army, and also gave some of the best statistics of the famous Gettysburg, showing among other things that of the 15,229 Confederates killed and wounded in that battle, more than one-fourth (4,011) were North Carolinians. He also touched upon the valor of North Carolina's soldiers in that great battle, and cited many illustrations from the storied of Cemetery Heights by the 2d S. C. Regt., which broke through the enemy's line and for awhile captured their artillery, and called attention to the presence of Mr. J. H. Williams, who was in that charge and who looting his musket while standing by one of the captured cannon fired at the retreating Federals.

Mr. J. H. Williams was then with much enthusiasm called on to tell of that gallant charge, which he proceeded to do with a modesty that was equalled only by his valor. Then Mr. W. W. Edwards, of the old 26th, was called upon to speak, and was introduced as "the savior of the West," and his audience soon found that this was no empty compliment. His speech was frequently interrupted by applause and laughter, alternating with tender and touching pathos and amusing anecdotes. The last speaker was Mr. John M. Edwards, of the old Chatham Rifles, who, after giving some of his war experience, in a most proper manner rebuked those chronic grumblers and calumny howlers, who are trying to make everybody dissatisfied with everything. He compared the dark days of the war with the prosperity and plenty that our people now enjoy, and yet which they seem not to appreciate.

The benediction was then pronounced by Rev. G. T. Hain, after it was announced there would be an hour's recess, during which there was a watermelon treat given the old soldiers by a few of our public-spirited citizens, and which seemed to be greatly enjoyed. After this the members of the "Camp" reassembled and elected officers for the ensuing year as follows:

- Commander, John R. Lane.
Lieutenant Commanders, O. A. Hanner, T. B. Laster and J. H. Williams.
Adjutant, Henry A. London.
Quartermaster, Abraham J. Lane.
Sergeant, Dr. E. A. Hawks.
Chaplain, Rev. A. H. Perry.
Treasurer, John M. Edwards.
Color Sergeant, J. M. Barnett.

There being no further business the meeting adjourned, and will long be remembered most pleasantly by all who were present. Indeed it was one of the pleasantest of all the reunions that the old soldiers have held in this county. And yet several of our comrades were sadly missed who since the last meeting had "crossed over the river." Yes, year by year the ranks of the veterans are being thinned, and it will not be many years before a few survivors of that gray of heroes, who filled the world with the glory of their valor and achievements.

The exercises of the day were greatly enjoyed by the stirring strains of the Seder City brass band, which so kindly honored the occasion with its presence.

The democratic convention of this judicial district was held at Durham, on last Tuesday, and by a unanimous vote re-nominated Capt. E. S. Parker for Solicitor.

A Boy Killed.—At Sanford, on last Thursday night, the thirteen year old son of Mr. Archie Hart, formerly of this county, was killed by a negro boy of about the same age. They had a quarrel that day, and after dark as young Hart was passing on the street he was attacked by the colored boy, and while they were fighting another colored boy handed him a rifle with which he stabbed young Hart in three places, from which wounds he died in a few minutes. The two colored boys were at once arrested and after a preliminary trial were sent to Charlotte jail.

SENATORIAL NOMINATION.—A contest in last week's Record, the populist congressional convention which had been called to meet on the 29th of July was not held, but was postponed in order to await further developments. Accordingly after there had been a long conference between the leaders of the "pops" and a few fastidious republicans, the convention was held late in the afternoon of the next day, immediately after the adjournment of the State convention, and in accordance with the prearranged programme Mr. W. F. Stroud was then nominated as the man to be defeated by Charles M. Cook.

We would here call attention to the fact that this convention was called to order by the notorious S. O. Wilson, who, although a self confessed criminal, seems to stand as high with the pops now as he did before his indictment as the Chief of the Gibbonites.

On the day after this convention was held the Raleigh Tribune announced that "the republicans of this district will nominate a candidate for Congress." And we notice in the Winston Republican that the republican convention of Randolph county declared in favor of nominating a straight republican for Congress in this district.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.—In accordance with previous notice a republican convention was held here on last Saturday, for the purpose of appointing delegates to the State convention and reorganizing the party in this county.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. Kelly Mitchell, who acted as chairman, and Mr. F. M. Farrell was appointed secretary. On motion, a committee was appointed to select the delegates to the State convention, and after retiring while the committee reported the following:

- DELEGATES.
H. D. Mason, T. H. Lutterloh,
W. O. Farrell, Cam Burnett,
Henry Hawks, C. H. Williams,
G. B. Johnson, Duncan Smith.
ATTENDANTS.
H. D. Mason, T. H. Lutterloh,
W. O. Farrell, Cam Burnett,
Henry Hawks, C. H. Williams,
G. B. Johnson, Duncan Smith.

It will be remembered that, according to the republican plan of organization, every county can send twice as many delegates to the State convention as it has representatives in the legislature. Therefore that team is entitled to four delegates. The following county executive committee was appointed: F. M. Farrell (chairman), H. D. Mason, Daniel Tidman, W. O. Farrell and Paul Norwood.

It was decided to hold a county convention at this place on Monday, the 3rd day of September, for the purpose of nominating delegates to the Legislature and the various county offices.

So, with three school candidates in the field, politics in Chatham will no doubt be quite lively this fall.

Several democrats and populists were present as spectators, prominent among them being Sheriff Jenkins and Register of Deeds Paschal who occupied front seats. At times the proceedings were somewhat sensational and several exciting speeches were made. It was openly charged by some of the republican speakers that they had been warned by some of the populists not to attempt to hold this convention, and that they (the populists) had attempted to prevent its being held, and the disorderly conduct of certain colored populists seemed to justify this charge. Chairman Mitchell was very indignant and stated that the populist leaders, if they had the power, would prevent anybody from voting at all unless he voted their ticket.

Commissioners' Meeting.—The county commissioners held their regular monthly meeting on last Monday and Tuesday, and audited the following accounts:

- A. T. Lambeth, for services as a constable, 29.00
S. J. Kelly, for services as constable, 17.00
D. H. Marsh, for services as constable, 30
W. H. Hatch, for services as constable, 12.00
Jas. L. Cottrell, for services as a juror of court house, 7.20
Ordered, that Melvin Durham be appointed agent to supply Standard Hardware and daughter, Leah, by name, William Tripp and Sarah A. Hickman.
Ordered, that W. A. Pineshoo be appointed to supply Adelaide Cotton.
Ordered, that James D. Dorsett be allowed $12 a month for support of Rufus Snipe through the children.
Ordered, that the following named persons are selected to represent the County of Chatham in the Public Road Congress to be held at Raleigh, on the 21st day of August, H. W. Dixon, William Hamner, W. A. Hickory, J. George Hamner, J. J. Jones, A. B. Cobb, W. F. Stroud, R. H. Scott, J. W. Averling, R. Hawks, W. L. Laster, W. F. Hamner, J. W. Taylor, H. W. Hamner, H. M. Love, O. S. Dixon, R. C. Beaton, E. A. Phillips, Jasper Hawks, W. S. Russell, T. W. Mason, H. W. Taylor, N. G. Yarbrough, W. L. Laster, C. M. Mehan, A. M. S. John, J. W. P. Alston, A. H. Perry and J. S. Mitchell.

Ordered, that the petition for a public road from Atlantic to the hills, near Holman's road, in the town of Pittsboro', be granted at expense of petitioners.

A Letter From Europe.—[We are pleased to publish the following private letter written to us by our mother, Mrs. Ernest E. Hanner, who has gone to Europe to continue her studies.—Ed. Record.]

Baltimore, July 23rd, 1894.
Since I wrote you from Badagry I have had a rich and interesting experience, inspecting the various objects of interest both in Holland and Belgium. We landed safely in Rotterdam, where I found a quaint old city of over 200,000 inhabitants and where dogs and cats roamed about the streets, apart from their usual haunts in the centre, areas crowded and ungracious as the lines upon the Amsterdam paintings of a Gothic era. The canal streets are beautiful with a row of spreading oaks and grassy plots between the sidewalk and canal. Some people live on little gondola boats in these canals and never come ashore from place to place without an inconspicuous little steamer tug and down the canals and up the place of street cars, while you see hundreds of boys on the banks fishing with hook and line. The most curious thing however is the large number of dogs and the way they are utilized. The streets being too narrow for horses are filled with small carts drawn by dogs and guided by a boy who holds a long handle projecting out behind. This custom prevails all over the Netherlands but is more common frequent in Rotterdam. The dogs bark so loudly it is difficult to make yourself heard on the streets and at night sound sleeping is almost impossible for one not accustomed to such environments.

The next day after my arrival in Rotterdam I went over to the Hague, a city not so large as Rotterdam, but far surpassing it in interest and beauty. The two old palaces there containing the most precious of royal treasures and a few of the most valuable pearls, you know the art display of the Hague and Brussels are the finest in the world. Rembrandt's famous paintings of his mother and the dishevelled class are models never to be surpassed and Titian's Venus and Adonis is also found there and is quite unique. Nearly all the weekly Dutch merchants here there and of course their warehouses are in league with the general luxury of the place. The palace of the Queen is as beautiful as that of no other I have seen. The large residence of the Duke of Wilt, the highest rank in the land, is an object of the greatest interest. I spent two hours at the Crystal Palace, a great European watering place. In addition to the tropical palace, one for the Dutch and one for the German Sovereign, which are grand and imposing, there is the largest hotel in the world and a perfect model of architectural beauty. Most of our party avoided themselves of a rest bath, but the water was so cold that I returned to Rotterdam that night and would have returned on my journey, but children was reported in Berlin and all western Germany and also in large in Belgium. Our party decided to remain in Rotterdam and wait for the night train to left them next morning and went to Brussels where I learned there was no cholera at Belg, but the report was true as to Germany.

The French have quarantined against trucks from Belgium but it has been three months since a case has occurred in Belgium and that only fifty miles from Brussels. The rest of our party have come to Brussels and will send their trucks around to Belgium so they can get to Paris. I hardly know how to describe my impression of Brussels, where more than 100,000 people live. The city is beautiful with all the business part and royal buildings in the centre, surrounded by broad and beautiful boulevards. The only cause as interesting as they are vast. The royal museum is said to contain the most valuable specimens to be found in the world. The houses are particularly white with iron roofs and all about the same size. The University and the Botanical gardens exceeded my expectation, but with all this Brussels is in point of morals a most uninteresting place called "L'opette Paris"—and as English traveler told me that it is entirely equalled Paris in beauty, cleanliness and fast living.

I have seen King Leopold three times, but rather shabby and unimpressive.

looking middle. I suppose about the best thing to France. I am walking on the Boulevard des Capucines, a wide street where I have seen the Duke of Brabant, driving out as I passed he touched his hat and waved his hand, whereupon I took off my hat and bowed almost to the ground, as the English do.

I do wish you could have been here last night to have seen the city illuminated. It is the celebration of the Belgian independence and Saturday, Sunday and today are national holidays. The whole city has been given up to revelry and amusement. I was so forcibly reminded last night amid the fireworks and illuminations of Bryant's "The before Waterloo."
