Farming in Japan.

The fortilizer most used in Japan is rice straw, cut tato small pieces, as with a hay cutter. But cultivators depend mostly upon irrigation itom the rivers, and most careful cultivation; not a word nor a waste piece of land will be seen in a long railroad hourney. The farmer utilizes every but of hand he pressesses.

But farm tools are very crude. The log-how is the chief tool incut occu sionally a black bull may be seen hitched to what is called a plough, but the implement is see small it hocklike a toy.
