

Too Deep for Him.
Customer—Can you recommend this carpet to be a good talker?

Dealer—I can. It was the sole companion of a Boston lady for three years.

Customer—Well, I don't think it would suit me at all.

Dealer—Why not? It's the best talker I have in the place.

Customer—Very likely; but I haven't time to consult a dictionary every time it speaks.

Time is usually lively when men make an attempt to kill it.

War as a Stimulus for Trade.

There are many instances to the history of the world where war acted as a stimulus to trade; where it has created a stagnant condition of business and has operated as the needed spur to set things in motion. There is every cause to believe that this will be the influence of the present conflict; that it will encourage the revival of forces which have been dormant, and that it will communicate to the whole commercial and industrial fabric the power for which the people have been waiting.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

America's Favorite Medicine.

Hood's Pills are the most indulgentive, second South's Climate.

Among the advantages to be derived from the war with Spain by the South will be the removal of misapprehension about its ultimate. In one or two instances, notably that of the ridiculous talk about "the Virginian," attempts have been made to perpetuate notions that have long done service in certain antagonistic quarters. These attempts have failed in the face of solid facts, astonishing even to some Southerners, perhaps. Which the call for volunteers was made there was, because of misapprehension among families of the soldiers almost as much dread of the effect of a stay in the far South in summer as of the possibility of active service against an enemy. As events have demonstrated the small basis for such a dread, it has largely disappeared. One of the most significant circumstances of this process of pleasant disillusion has been the condition of the troops at Tampa.

CONSULTING A WOMAN.

Mrs. Pinkham's Advice Inspires Confidence and Hope.

Examination by a male physician is a hazard to a definitely organized woman.

She puts off as long as she dare, and is only driven to it by fear of censure, pain, or some dreadful ill.

Most frequently she goes to a physician's office, where she has an interview with a medical man, critical examination with aanes, and a long argument.

This continues until the mind is strengthened by the effect of the advice, and the patient is better rather than worse, rather than better. In our office Mrs. Pinkham has her hesitation met, the story is told to a woman, and is wholly confidential. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass., she offers her women advice without charge.

Her intimate knowledge of women's troubles enables her to give advice a well-spring of hope and her wide experience and skill point the way to health. I suffered with ovarian trouble for seven years, and no doctor knew what was the matter with me. I had spells which would last for two days or more. I thought I would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken seven bottles of it, and am entirely cured. —Mrs. John Foreman, 26 N. Woodbury Ave., Baltimore, Md.

A Unique Character of Charlotte Says He Could Fight the Spaniards If He Had a Gray Uniform.

The quietness of King's Mountain's Sabbath was broken and intense excitement caused by the killing of John H. Edwards. It seems that Edwards and one Bonner had been drinking and painting the town red for several days, terrorizing and threatening every body they met. Warrants were issued for their arrest, but the men locked themselves up in a house and refused to surrender. Marshal Ferguson went in and told the men he had a warrant for them and tried to reason with them. They would not surrender and said they would kill any one who came there for them. Ferguson went back and reported, and the citizens urged the execution of the warrant. Ferguson then picked a posse of six men and went down to the house and demanded surrender. They told him the first man who entered would be shot. Ferguson ordered his posse in and they had to get in a window from the parson, the doors all being locked. As soon as the first man was in and had straightened up Edwards fired on him, and then began firing on Edwards, and so did a second man who had entered. Bonner presented his pistol at Ferguson with one hand, and a large knife in the other. Ferguson advanced and backed his man until opportunity presented itself, when he grappled with Bonner and held him until the shooting was over with the other man and the posse. Edwards was shot through the head and died in about three hours. Bonner was arrested and put in the guardhouse. He was brought out and tried by the mayor and fined $10 and costs. The sheriff then served a State warrant on him and placed him in the hands of two men to hold. In some way he made good his escape and they are now hunting him. The people are much enraged that he escaped.

Two Ladies Frighten Off Would-be Thieves by Calling to an Imageary Friend.

Two disreputable characters have been causing serious alarm in the vicinity of Drymond mountain. One night recently they tried to enter the residence of Mrs. Swettie, situated in an isolated part of the mountain. After knocking several times and being refused admittance, they commenced striking the door violently. Mrs. Swettie, whose hired man was away, thinking to frighten the marauders, called to him to bring his pistol. The ruse worked perfectly, as the men, thinking the hired man had returned, fled. A posse of men armed to the teeth searched the adjacent woods for the miscreants, but without success. They are still maintaining a vigilant watch.

Mrs. Swettie is a Northern lady, who is seeking health in the sunbrows mountain air and is reported to be very frail. She has been almost prostrated by the experience.

The top of the pipe is thirteen feet above sea level. At eight feet there is a flow of about 1,600,000 gallons in twenty-four hours.

By adding five feet more of pipe the flow stops. We have had this extra five feet of pipe on top of the well for a month or more, waiting for extra pipe to conduct the water to the mill where it is to be used. We have noticed a peculiar action of this column of water, and I have been unable to find any explanation of it. If the publication of the facts by the Star will lead to an explanation, I will be very much gratified.

Doctor, what is free alkali?

The alkali used in the manufacture of soap is a strong chemical and is destructive to animal and vegetable tissue.

Pure soap is harmless, but when the soap is carelessly or dishonestly made, alkali is left in it and it is then said to be 'free.' Soap containing free alkali should not be used where it may do damage.

In the medical profession, in sickness and in surgery and in the hospitals we use Ivory Soap because it is pure and contains no free alkali.

Ivory Soap is a powerful antiseptic, it is healing to a diseased surface and stimulating to a healthy skin."

IVORY SOAP IS 99% PER CENT. PURE.
