

THE 10th annual commencement exercises at the University of North Carolina were held last week and were much enjoyed by all who were so fortunate as to be present, and were a success in every particular.

In addition to their college and high standard of the 10th anniversary exercises, we are glad to announce and commend the exceptionally good conduct of all the students.

The graduating class numbered fifty members and was the largest since 1890. In addition to the other graduating classes, the existence of the University was maintained so far as numbers, and those four were the classes of 1897-98, 1898-99, and 1899-00.

It is our pleasure to recall the last Friday, the closing exercises of the graded school in Durham, which is described by the editor of that progressive town, and we only wish that every town in the State had the good.
