'FRISCO DOG MADE GOOD.

Swam Bay After Ferryboat That Carrled Beloved Little Mistress.

After being fed and warmly clothed here, five refugees from San Francisco were placed on a train and sent on to their former home in a little town on Long Island, writes the Chicago correspondent of the New York

Along with the poor little party, which consisted of Mrs. Amelia Berg nondescript dog, looking the reverse of his name, which was Sport. But it was noticed that the police of Harrison street did not neglect the dog in handing out good things to eat, and a big bluecoat tenderly carried Sport in his arms to the train.

The story of Sport is a trifling one, but interesting, maybe. When the Berg home, at No. 27 Minna street, went by quake and fire with all goods at contained, the family fled to the ferry, followed by the dog. But poor Sport was promptly kicked off the boat and howled dismally from the pier as the craft pulled out, leaving him to his fate.

Knowing the dog would die anyway, Anna Berf gave a shrill whistle, and hearing the dear, familiar sound, brave Sport sprang into the water. It's two and one-half miles to Oakland, but arrived there Anna obstinately sat on the pierhead and watched not the great conflagration but the tossing waters of the bayfor she knew Sport would make good if he could.

First a tiny spot in the waves. then a round head and then a pair of shiny eyes fixed on Anna, and a boat-hook did the rest. Sport had made good.

KIDNEY TROUBLE EACH VILLAGE IS A VENICE.

Strange Relic of Ancient Customs Prevailing in a German Forest. One of the most interesting regions in the "old fatherland" is the so-called "Spreewald," the Forest of the Spree, situated not far from the German capital, in the province of Brandenburg. Each village is a little Venice, every house a little island, and these isiets are connected by bridges sufficiently raised to allow boats to pass Most of the houses, with their barns and stables, rest on piles, and there is generally a strip of artificial terra firma either in front or at the rear of every building. By means of these land strips and of the bridges the slender land communication is kept throughout the district, but most of the business and amusement is carried on through the canals, which not only form the main highways but penetrate and cross and recross the whole region.

It is on these lagoons that all traf. You see the letter carrier shoot up and down the canals, performing his duties in his frail craft; the police glide leisurely along the banks, watching everything going on; peasants bring the products of their toil to the nearest towns; children go to and from school; young mothers, dressed in their Sunday clothes, are rowed to church, carrying in their arms a small, queer-looking bundle from which two large eyes in a tiny face stare at the stranger in wondermentbaby is going to be baptized, an important moment with this strongly religious people-Technical World.

DITSON MADE AN IMPRESSION.

Irishman Admitted Explanation as He Understood It. Years ago members of my family

aughed over this incident as related by an eye-witness, says a writer in he Boston Herald:

On approaching his store one morning. Oliver Ditson, the music publisher, saw a crowd gathering just outside his door, where a very much atoxicated Irishman was trying in in to step up from the street. Mr. Mison, seeing the inability of the man to gain the sidewalk, took him by the arm and assisted him up. The ntoxicated man was effusive in his hanks, and insisted upon knowing o whom he was indebted for so much

In vain Mr. Ditson tried to disengage his arm, and at last he said: 'Well, I am Mr. Ditson."

"Is that so?" said the other. "I never heard of him. Whose son did you say you were?"

A shout from the bystanders evidently nettled Mr. Ditson, and he said, very decidedly and impressively: "I am Oliver Ditson."

The manner was not lost upon the frishman, who cast an admiring eye upon Mr. Ditson's immaculate apparel, and said, in the most humble and conciliatory tone: "So you are, so you are, while I am nothing but allover-mud."

Suicide Attempted.

Durham, Special.—Benjamin H. Crider, a young white man made a desparate attempt to commit suicide After making a trip to a number of drug stores at night purchasing a one ounce bottle of laudanum, from five of them and one box of morphine he crawled under a house in the western part of the city near his boardthree of them and taken the box of morphine tablets. He left a note addressed to his brother, Rev. Crider | Elliott. of Kentucky, saying: "I had no cause for the act except that there is nothing for me to live for." The note and his pocketbook were found on the door knob of his boarding house. After pumping much of the drug from his stomach there is some chance for his recovery.

"A House Exhibit."

Raleigh, Special.-The State board of agriculture at the urgent request of Governor Glenn who sent a speial communication on the subject, made a special appropriation of $5,000 for the equipment of a "house exhibit" of North Carolina products to be constructed and equipped on cars so as to be sent on the circuit of New England fairs especially next fall for the attraction of immigration and capital to this State. The proposition received a bare majority vote of the board membership, several including Chairman Patterson, believing that the investment would not yield returns in proportion to the cost.

NORTH CAROLINA CROPS HE

General Summary of Condition of North Carolina Crops for Week Ending Monday, June 4, 1906.

The mean temperature for the State during the past week was about l degree below normal. It has been cool during the first part of the week, and warm during the latter part. The lowest temperatures generally occurred on May 30th, and the highest on June 1st and 2nd. There has been some complaints of cold winds during the first portion of the week doing some damage, but as a whole the weather was 94 degrees which occurred on June 2nd in Robeson county; and the lowest, was 46 degrees which occured on May 40th at many places in the eastern district.

The rainfall for the past week was about 0.30 inch below normal, light rains having fallen on June 1st, 2nd, and 3rd. The rainfall of the preceding week was quite heavy and has proved very beneficial, but the dry winds quickly evaporated the moisture and now rain is needed particularly in the central district.

Prof. Bassett Retires From Trinity College.

John Spencer Bassett, Ph. D., professor of history in Trinity College, Durham, has resigned to accept a similar chair at Smith College, Northampton, Mass. About two and a half years ago Dr. Bassett wrote an article for a magazine in which he asserted that, with the exception of Robert E. Lee, Booker T. Washington was the greatest man the South had produced in a hundred years. The article attracted considerable attention throughout the country and was the object of some adverse criticism at the time. Dr. Bassett tendered his resignation to the college authorities, but they declined to accept it.

PROFIT ON COAL HE PURCHASED

In His Capacity as Purchaser of Fuel Coal an Official Testified That He Had Received From Five Companies an Allowance of From 3 to 4

Cents Per Ton.

Philadelphia, Special.—The Inter-State Commerce Commission continued its investigation of the relations of the Pennsylvania Railroad employes to various mining companies in the bituminous coal district. The first witness was Joseph Boyer, of Altoona, chief clerk in the office of A. W. Gibbs, superintendent of the Motive

In its entirety Mr. Boyer's testimony was a startling character. His stock holdings were only a small portion of the gifts he admitted receiving from the coal mining companies. In his capacity as a purchaser of fuel coal he testified that he had received from five companies an allowance of from 3 to 5 cents a ton on coal used by the railroad for fuel purposes. During a period from the latter part of 1903 to date he has received a total of more than $46,000. The companies which made him this allowance were the Graff Coal Company, the Clearfield and Granton Coal Company, Dunkirk Coal Company and Thomas Blythe Company. Graff Coal Company allowed him five cents a ton and the Clearfield and Granton Company gave him a share in the profits which amounted to not less than four cents a ton. Blythe and Company gave him three cents a ton. He was asked why he discriminated in favor of Blythe and Co. He replied he did not discriminate as the money came to him without solicitation or any effort on his part. He believed that the money had been paid in the same manner to his predecessors in office and he believed he was only following the custom of the department.

Conditions Filthy.

Chicago, Special.-Building Commissioner Bartzen and 12 deputy building inspectors went to the stock yards to make an inspection of every building in the place. Commissioner Bartzen personally went to the hog killing department of one of the large packing houses, and described the conditions he found there as "filthy and dirty."
