

A TEMPERANCE WORKER.

Says Peruna is a Valuable Nerve and Blood Remedy.

MISS BESSIE FARRELL.

MISS BESSIE FARRELL, 1011 Third Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., is President of the Young People's Christian Temperance Association. She writes: "Peruna is certainly a valuable nerve and blood remedy, calculated to build up the broken-down health of worn-out women."

"I know of nothing which is better to build up the strength of a young mother, in fact all the ailments peculiar to women, so I am pleased to give it my hearty endorsement."

Dr. Hartman has prescribed Peruna for many thousand women, and he never fails to receive a multitude of letters like the above, thanking him for the wonderful benefits received.

We must regard with profound satisfaction the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States—though we regret to see that one justice dissented—to the effect that any State may constitutionally enact a law prohibiting the use of the national flag for advertising purposes, insists the New York Tribune. It is as sound in morals and in patriotism as it is in law.

OLD SURGEON Found Coffee Caused Hands to Tremble.

The surgeon's duties require clear judgment and a steady hand. A slip or an unnecessary incision may do irreparable damage to the patient.

When he found that coffee drinking caused his hands to tremble, an Illinois surgeon conscientiously gave it up and this is his story:

"For years I was a coffee drinker until my nervous system was nearly broken down, my hands trembled so I could hardly write, and insomnia tortured me at night.

"Besides, how could I safely perform operations with unsteady hands, using knives and instruments of precision? When I saw plainly the bad effects of coffee, I decided to stop it, and three years ago I prepared some Postum, of which I had received a sample.

"The first cupful surprised me. It was mild, soothing, delicious. At this time I gave some Postum to a friend who was in a similar condition to mine, from the use of coffee.

"A few days after, I met him, and he was full of praise for Postum, declaring he would never return to coffee, but stick to Postum. We then ordered a full supply, and within a short time my nervousness and consequent trembling, as well as insomnia disappeared, blood circulation became normal, no dizziness nor heat flashes.

"My friend became a Postum enthusiast, his whole family using it exclusively.

"It would be the fault of the one who brewed the Postum if it did not taste good when served.

"The best food may be spoiled if not properly made. Postum should be boiled according to directions on the pkg. Then it is all right, any one can rely on it. It ought to become the national drink." "There's a Reason." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

THE WORK OF CONGRESS

Doings of Our National Law-Makers Day by Day.

Aldrich Bill a Target. After passing the penal code bill the Senate on motion of Senator Aldrich advanced the emergency currency bill to the position of unfinished business, giving it unquestioned right of way.

Speeches on the currency bill were made by Senators Culberson (Democrat, Texas), and Nelson, Republican, of Minnesota.

Mr. Culberson outlined a number of amendments he will submit to the bill, one providing that after January 1st, 1909, every national bank shall keep on hand in its own vaults the reserve of lawful money required and repaying the permission to keep a part of the reserve in other national banks; also making it unlawful to deposit public money in any national bank to be used directly or indirectly by the banks in speculative dealings in stocks and bonds or to supply funds to any operator on the stock exchange to be used in dealings on the exchange and making it unlawful for national banks to make demand or other loans or give credit on their books to operators on any stock exchange to be used in dealings on the exchange.

Denounces Aldrich Bill. Mr. Culberson then denounced the pending emergency bill, which he said, would give additional power to those whose machinations and lawlessness support and create such financial disturbances. He contended that the bill would make a market for securities, which was what the "financiers" want.

"Whatever the cause of the financial crash be," he added, "it was inexcusable and unwarranted by conditions and in some of its phases was criminal and infamous." Contending that there was no industrial cause for the panic he cited statistics extensively to bear out his contention. When the out-of-town banks were calling for the money from the New York reserve banks, he said, $251,000,000 was loaned out on demand notes on stocks and bonds.

What was needed, he continued, was not more currency but honest and legitimate banking unassociated with high finance.

Money Power Dominate. In concluding Mr. Culberson declared that the money power has always dominated legislation from the "packing" of the Supreme Court of the United States in the legal tender case down to the law passed last year, which gave the national banks without interest the use of $250,000,000 of public money.

Senator Nelson's speech was an argument in support of his amendment providing for the guarantee of deposits in national banks.

Declaring that the trouble with the country during the recent currency exigency was not caused by a lack of money, but by the difficulty of keeping it in circulation, Mr. Nelson analyzed the banking conditions last fall and drew the inference that the crisis originated in the East and not in the West.

Dalzell Defends Tariff. An exhaustive speech in defense of Republican policies was delivered in the House of Representatives by Mr. Dalzell, of Pennsylvania. He referred to the several political speeches that have been made in the House and said that the most noticeable thing in the discussion had been the measure of credit the Democrats are willing to concede to President Roosevelt.

The issues in the coming campaign for the presidency, Mr. Dalzell asserted, would be found in the records of the parties and he said: "The Republican party invites the issue upon every ground, on that of its professions, its achievements, its consistency and its loyalty to principles and pledges."

Democratic Doctrine. Mr. Dalzell declared that the indestructibility of the Union, which Mr. Coekran attributed to Andrew Jackson, was the antithesis of Democratic doctrine until 1865. "Until that time," he said, "Democratic doctrine continued to be the doctrine of the Kentucky and Virginia resolutions of Jefferson and Madison, namely, not only that the Union was not indestructible, but that it represented only a compact from which there existed upon the part of individual States the right to withdraw." If, he said, Mr. Coekran was correct in saying that the indestructibility of the Union was Democratic doctrine in 1861, "then he has stripped the Democratic party of the South, who fought to destroy the Union, of every vestige of claim that in so doing they believed they were acting within their rights." When the people of the South made war on the Union, said Mr. Dalzell, they either believed in the doctrine of the Kentucky and Virginia resolutions, or they were inexorably wicked and deserve the condemnation of history.

As to Tariff Revision. Coming to the subject of the tariff, Mr. Dalzell referred to the beneficial effects of protection and declared that under it the United States had grown to be the greatest of manufacturing nations. He did not believe that there was any necessity for a general revision of the tariff laws. "I believe, however," said he, "it is well to recognize the claims of those who think there should be some revision and he said he was inclined to believe that unless there should be a change of sentiment in the meantime the Republican convention in Chicago will promise that the subject will be considered. If the Republican party shall prevail at the next election he believed that the tariff would be revised at a special session following immediately upon the inauguration of the President.

Spring Hints for Fruit Planting. Look over the orchard in spring, and if you find any dead trees, mark them for removal later in the season and send in an order for some standard variety to take their place. The way to keep the orchard up is to plant new trees as rapidly as old ones die off. In ordering new ones, be sure to select something a little better, if possible, than those which have died. We have so many choice varieties, nowadays, that one cannot afford to plant anything but the best.

Set out currants and gooseberries if you have none already growing. No country home can afford to be without these delicious fruits. If the old plantation of them seems to be retrograding, make a new one, in some other part of the grounds, and let the old plants give one more crop of fruit before uprooting them.

Strawberries can be set in spring, as soon as the ground opens. If you have old beds of this fruit which were neglected last fall, go over them and cut out at least half of the old plants, using a sharp hoe for this purpose. This will give the old plants a chance to spread a little, and you can expect a fairly good crop of fruit from them. But as soon as the crop has ripened, spade up the bed, and plant something else there, depending on the spring-set plants for berries next season.

Have you grapes? If not, plant some this spring. We have no healthier fruit, and every family owning a lot ought to grow a goodly supply for home use.

Do not fail to set out plenty of raspberries and blackberries to take the places of old exhausted plants. In order to secure good crops of fruit of any kind, it is necessary to have stock that is strong and healthy, and this can only be secured by frequent plantings. Never allow old plants to remain after they begin to show signs of failure.—From "The Country Home," by Eben E. Rexford, in The Outing Magazine for March.

HER GOOD FORTUNE After Years Spent in Vain Effort.

Mrs. Mary E. H. Rouse, of Cambridge, N. Y., says: "Five years ago I had a bad fall and it affected my kidneys. Severe pains in my back and hips became constant, and sharp twinges followed any exertion. The kidney secretions were badly disordered. I lost flesh and grew too weak to work. Though constantly using medicine I despaired of being cured until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. Then relief came quickly, and in a short time I was completely cured. I am now in excellent health."

Fine Recipe For Colds.

Mix two ounces of glycerine with half pint of good whiskey and add one-half ounce Concentrated oil of pine. This latter comes in one-half ounce vials packed in tin screw top them for removal later in the season and send in an order for some standard variety to take their place. The way to keep the orchard up is to plant new trees as rapidly as old ones die off. In ordering new ones, be sure to select something a little better, if possible, than those which have died. We have so many choice varieties, nowadays, that one cannot afford to plant anything but the best.

This simple mixture is to be used in doses of a teaspoonful to a table-spoonful four times a day. The bottle should be well shaken each time.

Don't use bulk oil of pine or imitations of Concentrated, which are often found with similar name and style of package. They are insoluble and work havoc to the kidneys. Any druggist has the Concentrated oil of pine.

All acts are presumed to have been rightly and regularly done.

Hog Cholera. The greatest drawback to the hog industry which breeders in this country have to contend with is what is known as "hog cholera" and "swine plague."

Hog cholera is a highly contagious disease and unless checked is liable to carry off a great number of hogs in a very short time.

Mr. A. P. Williams of Burnetts Creek, Ind., tells of an experience which he had with some hogs that had the cholera. "Five years ago," says Mr. Williams, "I was in the employ of Mr. J. D. Richardson, Lafayette, Ind., as his barn foreman. Some fine hogs that I was feeding took the cholera. I gave them Sloan's Liniment and did not lose a hog. Some were so bad they would not drink sweet milk and I was compelled to drench them. I have tried it at every opportunity since and always find it O. K."

"Some years ago my three little girls had a very bad form of eczema. Itching eruptions formed on the backs of their heads which were simply covered. I tried almost everything, but failed. Then my mother recommended the Cuticura Remedies. I washed my children's heads with Cuticura Soap and then applied the wonderful ointment, Cuticura. I did this four or five times and I can say that they have been entirely cured. I have another baby who is so plump that the folds of skin on his neck were broken and evened. I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and the next morning the trouble had disappeared. Mme. Napoleon Dupepe, 41 Du-luth St., Montreal, Que., May 21, 1907."
