AVOID RISK IN BUYING PAINT.

You take a good deal of risk if you buy white lead without having absolute assurance as to its purity and quality. You know white lead is often adulterated, often misrepresented. But there's no need at all to take any chances. The "Dutch Boy Painter" trade mark of the National Lead Company, the largest makers of genuine white lead, on a package of White Lead, is a positive guarantee of purity and quality. It's as dependable 's the Dollar Sign. If you'll write the National Lead Company, Woodbridge Bldg., New York City, they will send you a simple and certain outfit for testing white lead, and a valuable book on paint, free.

PLANT YOUR WASTE LAND WITH TREES.

It May Mean a College Education for Your Son.

Planting your waste land with trees may mean a college education for your son, a wedding trousseau for your little daughter, and something for your old age, says George Wilder, in the October Delineator.

There is hardly a farm in this country that has not some waste land. If there is, it isn't in good old New England. By waste land is meant land practically useless to the farmerland that is looked upon as worth little or nothing. In almost all cases it could be and should be made a source of revenue. Today that land is useless, practically valueless. Seeded to pine, forty vears from now, when some son, yet hundred to two hundred and fifty dollars an aere. This estimate of value is based on the returns from pines forty years old and harvested now; while, if the recent tremendous ingrease in timber prices continues thro' four more decades, the returns from seeds planted at this time will be something enormously greater.

There are scientific ways of starting a pine wood and there are easy Both begin along the same course, the gathering of the seed. It to grow. They must be gathered from in their second year. In New England this is from the end of August to the middle of September. The small cones, about a half-inch in length, that are now on the trees will be the ripe cones of the ensuing year. Cones which are three or four inches in length now will be ripe this fall.

Much more can be told about this subject than this amateur planter knows. The Forest Service of the Department of Agriculture at Washington is only too glod to give you all kinds of information. If you buy ten dollars will buy three or four younds of seed. Three acres, forty years from now, may well be worth four thousand dollars. Think of it! Isn't it worth while to do it for your old age or for those who may come after you? And isn't it better yet to get your small boy to do it?

Forty years seems a long time to wait to get the return from any effort -forty seems too long for some people-but nothing worth accomplish. ing is ever accomplished in a moment and he who builds for tomorrow a far-off tomorrow, is he who really

If you have started out with one pure breed, stick to it. Do not be led off by a foolish desire to cross it with some other breed or to introduce scrub blood into the flock. If a change is to be made, get better blood of the same breed as the one now on hand.

KINDNESS OF HORSES.

With the balky horse try kindness. Take a hammer or stone and tap the bottom of each front foot. Give each nail a light tap with a smart tap on frog of foot. Drop foot quickly and in most cases the animal if spoken to will start quickly, his attention having been diverted .- Farmers' Home Journal.

THE CLOVER SEED YIELD.

A correspondent asks if as much clover seed may be had from a field which is moved for hay as from one which is pastured. That depends altogether upon the time the field is mown for hay. The reason why so many fail to get a fair crop of clover seed is that they wait until the growth is too far advanced before the cutting is made for hay, with the result the season is cut too short for the clover to mature a seed crop .-Indiana Farmer.

WEED INFESTED HAY FIELDS. Too many mowing fields are infested with various weed pests which appear rather to be on the increase. In part this must be owing to the use of inferior grass seeds. and allowing meadows to remain in grass too long before plowing and reseeding.

All such fields should be harvested early in order to prevent a more extensive seeding to weeds. Those fields that produce little but white daisies and weeds should be marked, "To be plowed another fall," and should go through a thorough preparation of cultivation and fertilizing, that will fit them to produce abundant crops of good hay in a rotation of reasonable length, say two to four years .- Farmers' Home Journal.

SOWING GRASS.

A reader in Warrick County asks: "When is the best time to sow grass seed?" If there was only one kind of grass the question would be easy to to be born, may be twenty years of janswer. If timothy is meant, early in age, it may be covered with timber | the fall is the better time, so the grass and worth approximately from two can get a good start to enable it to stand the winter. Sow blue grass as early in the spring as possible. Orchard grass should be sown in March and red top in April. A good rule would be to sow when weather and soil are in suitable condition.

Barnyard manure is a great help to grass of any kind, and you are not likely to apply too much, especially if it is well rotted and pulverized. A liberal spread of such manure will double the crop of hay, or will pasture double the number of stock on takes two years for white pine seeds | blue grass. Break the ground seven or eight inches, and harrow thoroughthe trees just before the cones open ly for best results. Sow twelve pounds of grass seed to the acre. twenty-five pounds of orchard grass and three pounds of red top .- Indiana Farmer.

THE MARKET END.

The producer who looks into the market situation of the great cities is always impressed by the great margin between the price he receives for his goods and the price paid by the consumer. His first view is that the middlemen are looking for too much profit at his expense and that of the retail buyers, but when he looks more closely into the business and notes the various losses and drawbacks and incidental expenses of the jobbers and retailers he feels less certain regarding the rights of the ques-

The middlemen, especially the retailers, do not seem to be especially prosperous. In fact, failures are rather numerous in that class. Their losses in the shape of bad bills and produce which spoils before it can be sold, or which has to be sold at a sacrifice, are evidently large.

But after looking over the situation the producer will probably feel that the margin might be cut down if only a better system of distribution could be arranged. The whole subject of handling produce in the large market centres is worth a great deal more attention than it has received from official sources. The Boards of Agriculture and also the Interstate Commerce Commission might look into the matter to great advantage. The producer would like to have his views cleared on what constitutes a reasonable margin between the wholesale and retail price, including various jobbing prices. It would aid him very much in forming a plan for possibly handling produce in a way that would place it fresh without loss or damage in the hands of the consumer. At present it is hard to arrange such a plan without putting other people and other sellers in the place of the legion of wholesalers and retailers. The working out of a more practical plan for the distribution of farm products will be one of the agricultural advances of the future .- Amercan Cultivator.

Competition For Engaged Couples.

Nearly a hundred engaged couples took part in a novel shooting competition which has just concluded at Argovie. The competition was limited to lovers who were engaged and willing to be married as soon as possible. The distances were 300, 500 and 1000 meters, and the scores of each pair were added together.

The prizes were a complete marriage trousseau for the woman and £40 for the man. The winners were a young man named Glauser and his fiancee, Louise Mathys, aged nineteen. They will be married on Sunday .-

OCTOBER IS THE BEST TIME TO START A GARDEN.

Work in the Fall Means a Long and Glorious Season Next Year.

In October, when leaves and flower are dying, when Nature is closing her eyes for her long sleep, it is only those "You say this is fine tobacco of experience who cry: "This is the best time to start a garden."

There is always a setback to a garden started in the spring, because it is not long enough from the time growth begins until the hour of bloom to give many plants their full chance to expand before sending forth their flowers. A plant must almost reach maturity before it blooms, which indeed it only does that it may form seed and thus perpetuate itself to posterity. To start a garden early is often the secret of success. By preparing the beds and borders in the autumn, digging them out about two feet deep, placing inverted sod in the bottom and finally filling them up with layers of manure, light soil and top-dressing, much time is saved in the spring, when the irresistible not-a-minute-to-lose feeling is in the air. Besides, there is something about a well-settled bed that flowers like better than one that is quite new. I in the spring these autumn-prepared beds require extra mulching or fertilizing, it is a matter that is very easily attended to. When the beds and borders are made, the garden should be cleared of all surplus material. The roots of strong weeds should be lifted, and a light dressing of manure spread over the places that are destined to be lawn the following spring.-The October Delineator.
