With one mam levee gone, water lapping the crest of the embankments at half a dozen points and several reaks believed to be only the question of hours, Maj. Clark S. Smith, I nited States engineer directing the fight against the water's encroachment, described the Mississippi river flood situation as grave. The Reelfoot levee, west of Hickman, Ky., was the first of the main embankments to go. Golden Lake, 50 miles north of Memphis, and the levee on the Arkansas side, eight miles below Memphis, are regarded as in imminent danger. Pitiful cases of destitution have been relieved in various parts of the stricken section. Thousands of townspeople have sought higher ground, and hundreds of head of live stock have perished.

Commissioners of agriculture of seven of the principal cotton states, making report to E. J. Watson, president of the Southern Cotton Congress. placed the estimate of reduction of acreage at from 15 to 25 per cent. This reduction is brought about by the working of the Rock Hill plan and the wet season.
