Because he would be compelled to enter a saloon to register in order to vote at the coming November election, the Rev. Dr. R. A. Clark, pastor of the Memphis, Tenn., Second Presterian Church, has decided to refrain from casting a ballot in that election. Sixteen persons were injured, one perhaps fatally, and four small business houses were wrecked at Marshall, Texas, in an explosion of natural gas.

James Hargraves, aged 26, of Savannah, Ga., shot and killed his wife, aged 21, and then committed suicide at the home of his brother, near Fairfax, Ga.

James G. Woodward was nominated for the office of mayor of Atlanta, Ga., in the "run off" primary, defeating Aldine Chambers by a majority of 717 votes.

Because of numerous complaints made to him, Mayor Fitzgerald will send to the next meeting of the Boston. Mass., city council the draft of an ordinance which will limit to six inches the length of hatpins to be worn by women on the streets and in public conveyances in Boston.

Gov. Woodrow Wilson announced that he would cancel all speaking engagements until Colonel Roosevelt is able to take an active part in the campaign. He says he cannot cancel the engagements immediately ahead "without subjecting those who have arranged them to a very serious embarrassment and great unnecessary expense," but he will cut the series at the earliest possible point, as he has no desire to be the single candidate on the stump engaged against no active antagonist.

Miss Irene Koester, a saleswoman in a Philadelphia department store, who sued Clarence H. Brown for breach of promise of marriage, was awarded a verdict of $500 by a jury in Judge Staples' court.
