

It pays to be a member of the legislature in Illinois, for in that state a legislator will hereafter receive $3,000 a year. That is in very great contrast with the pay of a member of the legislature in North Carolina, which is only $240 for two years. We doubt if an Illinois legislator is worth any more than one in this state notwithstanding the difference in their pay. While the Illinois legislator is paid too much, the North Carolina legislator is paid too little.

THE unsuccessful attempt to assassinate Mr. J. P. Morgan is another illustration of the danger continually surrounding men of wealth or high position. They are liable at any time to be the victim of some crank, as has so often been done. Although this attempt to assassinate Mr. Morgan did not succeed and the would-be murderer cannot be electrocuted, yet he ought to be imprisoned the remainder of his life. Such cranks ought to be punished by imprisonment for life so that they may never have another opportunity to assassinate somebody else.

THE marriage of Speaker Champ Clark's daughter Wednesday was not a very dignified ceremony. It resembled too closely the advertised marriages that are some times "pulled off" (as is the expression used generally when describing them) at a circus or fair. A general invitation to it was published in the newspapers for everybody in the state of Missouri to attend and witness it, and the ceremony was performed in the open air—out on the lawn—in the presence of an immense crowd.

SPECIAL excursion trains were run for the occasion and the town had the appearance of a circus day, and actually hawkers sold on the streets postcards with the picture of the bride. There is an old Latin saying, "De gustibus non disputandum est," which in plain English means "Everybody to their notion as the old woman said when she kissed the cow."

THE celebration held last Saturday at the old battlefield of Guilford Court-House was the grandest of the many that had been held at that historic spot. The chief attraction was the unveiling of the equestrian statue to General Nathaniel Greene, for which Congress had appropriated $30,000. In addition to the many thousands of our people who attended the exercises were the governors or their representatives from several other states, among them the governor of Rhode Island, where Gen. Greene was born, and Georgia, where he was buried. Several companies of our State Guard, and two companies of U. S. regulars were present.

As our readers are aware, the battle of Guilford Court-House (about five miles from Greensboro) was fought on the 15th of March, 1781, between the British commanded by Lord Cornwallis, and the Americans commanded by Gen. Greene. Although the British remained in possession of the field and the American army had to retire, yet it inflicted so heavy a blow on the British that they had to withdraw in a few days and retreat to Wilmington. The British army marched through this county on the way to Wilmington and crossed Deep river March 25th, 1781, at Lockville (then called Ramsey's Mill) and THE RECORD'S museum has an English broadaxe that was used in hewing the timbers of the bridge that was then built for crossing the river and was left there.

It was eminently appropriate that Congress should have had such a statue erected in honor of Gen. Greene and his forces in that battle, for, as so often has been said, "the battle of Guilford Court-House made Yorktown possible" and thus compelled the final surrender of Cornwallis.

Fled When Not Suspected.

Special to Raleigh News & Observer. Albemarle, July 4.—That Deputy Collector Will Lisk and Sheriff C. D. Blalock of this county, have the blind tigers and the blockaders seeing night mares was clearly established Friday night, late, when C. W. Andrews and a few friends were taking a spin in the country. They overtook a man driving a small red mule to a wagon. They paid no special attention to him, but as the road was rather narrow where their car overtook the man, making it impossible for them to drive past just at that place, they stopped the machine to allow the man to get out to one side for them to pass. Immediately when the automobile stopped the said gentleman behind the red mule leaped from the wagon and made a hasty retreat for the woods across a near-by cornfield, leaving his red mule and wagon standing in the middle of the road. Mr. Andrews and his friends believing in the old adage, "The wicked flee when no man pursueth," made some investigations of the contents of the wagon to find quite a large jug filled with fluid of a crystal hue, a still form, a lot of sugar and other paraphernalia of a blockader. Thinking to do no man harm the joy riders were kind enough to move the mule and wagon to a nearby hitching limb where the left the fleeing man's property in status quo.

Anti-Typhoid Campaign.

Raleigh Cor. Greensboro News. Raleigh, July 5.—The third week of the typhoid vaccination campaign in the five counties which are maintaining the dispensaries and putting a large number of physicians in the field, has begun and the state board of health finds no lessening of interest. The state laboratory of hygiene has not reached its limit in the manufacture of the vaccine and recently announced its capacity as 30,000 weekly doses. In Wake county the calls have been so frequent that if the other four counties demanded as many it would pretty nearly drive the state department to its limit. The campaign in Wake is to be thorough and will be carried into every section. It will run into the fall months to finish it. The number vaccinated in this county since the opening two weeks ago is in the neighborhood of 10,000. The physicians believe the city has felt the effect already. There are fewer cases than have been at any other July season. An almost flyless town has done its part, but the big thing has been the spontaneous effort to stamp fever out with the vaccine.

North Carolina Gold.

The United States Geological Survey press bulletin of today has the following item on North Carolina mine production. The review shows increases in gold and copper output. It reads: "North Carolina easily retained first rank in gold output among the Eastern or Appalachian states in 1914, the yield having been the second largest in the last 10 years. The total production of gold in 1914 amounted to 6,343.94 fine ounces, 6,115.92 ounces in 1913. In 1914 the value of the North Carolina gold yield was $131,141 of a total of $173,589 for all the Eastern states. "The gold was obtained from 12 placers and 9 deep mines, but several of the mines made a very small production. The largest producing placer was the Biff-gstaff, in Rutherford county. The Iola mine, in Montgomery county, had the largest yield of gold from deep mining. Other mines which contributed an appreciable part of the gold output were the Rich Cog and Uwarra mines, in Montgomery county; the Gold Hill, in Rowan county, and the Howle, in Union county."

German Note Friendly.

Washington, July 5.—German's reply to the last American note concerning submarine warfare probably will not be received for another week. Ambassador Gerard's reports to the state department have no specific date, but he has predicted that a week would be required to finish the communication. Mr. Gerard has been unable to learn definitely just what the German reply will outline. He knows, however, that Germany will make a counter-proposal. Such advice as he has sent portrays a favorable atmosphere in Berlin, from which he infers that the reply will be friendly and perhaps satisfactory. In a general way it is officially known that Germany wants to avoid further attacks on passenger vessels of any nationality, but its difficulty is to frame a proposal so as to prevent the allies from continuing to ship large quantities of ammunition and contraband on these ships.

Hessian Fly Damages Wheat.

Washington, July 2.—Hessian fly is inflicting immense damage to wheat throughout an area extending from northeastern Arkansas northward through Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska and southern Iowa, and eastward through Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania. A circular issued today by the agricultural department predicts that the fly will cause a loss of millions of bushels.

Sugar Ship Sunk.

London, July 2.—Three British steamers, the Inglemore, the Caucasian and the Welbury, were torpedoed and sunk today by a German submarine. The crews of the Inglemore, the Caucasian and the Welbury were saved. The commander of the submarine was delighted on learning that the steamer Welbury carried a cargo of sugar. After the ship left Cuba it was discovered that someone had painted inside the vessel's forehold the words: "You have a cargo of sugar for England, but you will never get there."

Number of Blind Persons.

Washington, July 2.—The blind population of the United States in 1910 numbered 57,272, or 69.3 to each 100,000 of the total population in that year. Blindness is less common in America than in most other countries; it has apparently decreased among the youngest classes of the population in the last half century; it is more prevalent among men than among women; it is very much more prevalent among Indians, and considerably more prevalent among negroes, than among whites. Trades taught in schools or workshops for the blind have equipped more than 1,500 blind persons for total or partial self-support. The total number of blind persons in the world is roughly estimated at 2,390,000. The total number enumerated at the most recent censuses of the blind in all countries in which such censuses have been taken is 1,194,246. These countries represent all of Australia, nearly all of Europe and North America, Africa and Asia, together with certain of the insular possessions of European and American countries.

The output of petroleum in Pennsylvania in 1914, which amounted to 8,160,535 barrels, registered an increase of 253,033 barrels over the state's production in 1913, according to a statement just made public by the United States Geological Survey.

Eight persons were killed and 177 injured as a result of Fourth of July celebrations throughout the nation last Sunday, according to figures compiled by the Chicago Tribune. In 1914 the total number of victims was nine killed and 604 injured.

Reduced Cotton Acreage.

Washington, July 1.—A prospective cotton crop of 12,500,000 500-lb bales this season is unofficially estimated from the department of agriculture's June 25 condition and acreage report issued today. That would be 3,000,000 bales less than last year's crop or a reduction of 22 per cent.

In all 31,535,000 acres were planted this year, showing that the government's repeated appeal to cotton growers to reduce the acreage and devote more land to other crops had been heeded. Reduction from last year's area amounted to 5,871,000 acres or 15.6 per cent.

Condition of the crop was better than last year at this time and also better than the ten-year average on June 25. Along the Atlantic coast the crop deteriorated in June but conditions improved in Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

Increased Revenue Receipts.

The receipts for this district of the internal revenue department for the year which ended Wednesday were $5,475,000 against $5,500,000 during the preceding year. During a part of the preceding year, however, the entire state of South Carolina was embraced in this district and several counties which have since been added to another district. In the same territory now comprising the district there would have been a big gain shown. During June this year the receipts were $470,000, being $100,000 more than last year.

Traveling Man's Experience.

In the summer of 1888 I had a very serious attack of cholera morbus. Two physicians worked over me from 4 a. m. to 6 p. m. without giving me any relief and then told me they did not expect me to live; that I had best telegraph for my family. Instead of doing so, I gave the hotel porter fifty cents and told him to buy me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and take no substitute. I took a couple of doses according to the directions and went to sleep after the second dose. At 5 o'clock the next morning I was called by my order and took a train for my next stopping point, a well man but feeling rather shaky from the severity of the attack," writes H. W. Ireland, Louisville, Ky. Obtainable everywhere. adv

THE VITAL PROBLEM OF AGRICULTURE

By Peter Radford. There is no escaping the market problem and the highest development of agriculture will not be attained until it is solved, for a market is as necessary for the producer as land on which to grow his crop. Governmental and educational institutions have spent $180,000,000 in the United States during the past ten years for improving soil production and improving seeds and plants, but very little attention and less money has been given to the marketing side of agriculture. The problem is a monumental one and one which will never be solved until it gets within the grasp of a gigantic organization where master minds can concentrate the combined experience and wisdom of the age upon it. It is a problem which the farmers, merchants, bankers, editors and statesmen must unite in solving. The Farmers' Union stands for all there is in farming from the most scientific methods of seed selection to the most systematic and profitable plans of marketing, but does not believe in promoting one to the neglect of the other. We consider the work of farm demonstrators valuable and we ask that governmental and commercial agencies seeking to help us, continue to give us their assistance and advice, but we believe that their influence should be extended to the marketing side of our farm problems also. We cannot hope to develop manufacturing by over-production of the factory; we cannot build up mercantile enterprises by the merchants loading their shelves with surplus goods and no more can we develop agriculture by glutting the market with a surplus of products.

There never was a time when preachers and politicians formed an unholy alliance that civilization did not shudder out and Christianity cry aloud. Since the beginning of government, politicians have sought to decoy the ministry into the meshes of politics and make them carry banners in political processions. They have taken the ministry to the mountain-top of power and offered to make them monarch of all they surveyed, and while most of them have said, "Get thee behind me Satan," a few have fallen with a crash that has shaken every pulpit in Christendom.

DARIUS

The neigh of a horse made Darius King of Persia, the six contending powers for the throne agreeing among themselves that the one whose horse should neigh first should possess the kingdom. This ancient method of settling disputes among politicians could be revived with profit today. If our partisan factions and petty politicians could only settle their disputes by the neigh of a horse, the bark of a dog or the bray of a donkey, it would be a great blessing and would give our citizens a better opportunity to pursue the vocations of industry free from political strife. Let those who pick political plums by raising rows and who flash swords dripping in the blood of industry understand that they cannot turn the public forum into a political arena and by a clash of personal aspirations still the hammer and stop the plow and that their quarrels must be settled in the back alleys of civilization.

POLITICAL AGITATORS

POLITICIANS WHO CAPITALIZE STRIFE A MENACE TO GOVERNMENT.

Neglect of Agricultural and Industrial Opportunities a National Crime.

By Peter Radford.

There never was a time in the history of this nation when we needed statesmen more or agitators less than at the present moment. The opportunities now afforded us on land and sea demand the best there is in statecraft and the possibilities that are confronting us call for national issues that unite the people, build industry and expand trade. The agricultural and industrial development of this nation has suffered severely at the hands of agitators who have sent torpedoes crashing into the port side of business and whose neglect of the interests of the farmer makes them little less than political criminals. We want no more of these evil spirits to predominate in government. Too long their hysterical cry has sent a shiver down the spinal column of industry. Too long have the political agitators capitalized strife, pillaged progress and murdered opportunity. An industrial crop is not a desirable thing, a crippled business an achievement or neglect an accomplishment about which any representative of the government has a right to boast.

Issues that Breed Agitators Should be Eliminated.

The political agitator must be eliminated from public life before thoughtful consideration can be given to a constructive program in government. The liquor question is the most prolific breeding ground for agitators and whether pro or anti, the hatch is equally as undesirable. This article is in no sense a discussion of the liquor question but deals solely and by way of illustration with the political products of that issue. Other subjects will be dealt with in the order of their importance.

In the history of our government the liquor issue has never produced a constructive statesman worth mentioning and it never will. It has sent more freaks to Congress, Lilliputians to the Senate and incompetents to office than any other political issue under the sun.

The recent experience of the English Parliament which lashed itself into a fury over the liquor question has a lesson that it is well for the farmers of this nation to observe; for the subject in some form or other is constantly before the public for solution and oftentimes to the exclusion of more important problems to the American plowman.

Too Many Political Drunkards.

Lloyd George, the Prohibition leader of Europe who led the prohibition fight in England, has declared that he will never again take a drink politically and there are many American politicians—pro and anti—who would render their country a service by climbing on the water wagon or signing a pledge of political temperance. Too often our legislative halls are turned into political bar-rooms and many of the members become intoxicated on liquor discussions. We have too many political drunkards—pro and anti—in our public affairs. No one who is a slave to the political liquor habit is quite so capable of dealing with the business affairs of government as the sober and industrious. We have few public men in this day who are strong enough to resist the temptation of strong drink politically and when the demon Rum once becomes firmly entrenched in the mind of a politician he is less capable of meeting the demands for constructive statesmanship now confronting this nation.

We have in this country too many red-nosed politicians—both pro and anti. A candidate with political delirium tremens, a preacher with political snakes in his boots and an agitator drunk on the liquor question are the saddest sights in civilization and they should all be forced to take the political Keely Cure.

It is far more important in government to make it easier for those who toil to eat than to make it more difficult for a few toppers to drink. There is not one person in one hundred of our rural population that ever touches liquor but we all eat three times a day.

THE LAYMAN'S DUTY

There never was a time when preachers and politicians formed an unholy alliance that civilization did not shudder out and Christianity cry aloud. Since the beginning of government, politicians have sought to decoy the ministry into the meshes of politics and make them carry banners in political processions. They have taken the ministry to the mountain-top of power and offered to make them monarch of all they surveyed, and while most of them have said, "Get thee behind me Satan," a few have fallen with a crash that has shaken every pulpit in Christendom.
