

WILSON WINS!

With great pleasure we now announce that Wilson wins, and that a majority of the voters of the United States have decided that they want Wilson with peace, plenty and prosperity for another four years.

In our last issue, printed the morning after the election, we stated that the latest returns indicated the election of Wilson. Still later returns removed all doubt, and now everybody concedes his election except Hughes himself and Chairman Wilcox, his campaign manager. Fortunately nobody is asking them to concede it nor does anybody care if they do not.

Judge Hughes can now realize most painfully the disappointment of defeat, especially a defeat following so quickly an apparent victory. He can also realize the force of the old saying, "Hold fast to that which you have," because he resigned one of the most honorable and distinguished offices in this country to make the race for President. No doubt he wishes now that he had remained a Justice of the Supreme Court.

Wilson has the proud satisfaction of having received more votes of the people than any other Presidential candidate ever did receive, and that he carried states all over the Union, from New Hampshire to California, and not from any one section only. And many of those states had never before given a majority to any Democratic candidate.

CONVICTS cannot be lawfully whipped in this state by their guards. This was decided last week by our supreme court in a case that was appealed to that tribunal by a guard who had been convicted in the superior court for whipping a convict. This has been the contention of THE RECORD all the time, ever since the constitution prohibited corporal punishment. It seemed a travesty on justice and common sense that a man, who was convicted of a slight misdemeanor and sentenced to the roads for thirty days, could be whipped for breach of some prison rule, whereas a notorious thief could not be sentenced to be whipped.

THE election of Governor Bickett was, of course, expected by every intelligent man, but his majority is somewhat larger than was generally predicted and is due largely to his splendid canvass and pleasing personality. His speeches were models and were so free from any abuse and so full of argument that his competitor (Linney) sent him a telegram of congratulations, and saying that his canvass was so clean and dignified.

The election of Mr. Bickett should be an inspiration to all our worthy boys to emulate his example. Without any special advantages in early life, struggling for a livelihood as a school teacher while studying law, he was the "architect of his own fortune" and by his personal habits and efforts has arisen to the highest position in this state.

In the next House of Representatives neither the Republicans nor the Democrats may have a majority. The present indications are that the five Independents, who were elected, hold the balance of power. This may prove a blessing in disguise to the Democratic party, because without a majority in both branches of Congress that party cannot be held responsible if no further legislation is enacted for the benefit of the country at large, and, of course, the Republicans cannot repeal any acts of the present or last Congress because the Democrats will have a majority in the next Senate besides having Wilson to veto any onerous act.

The fact that a woman is elected from Montana to the House will be an innovation in that body that may be of much interest and she may be the forerunner of many other women Representatives.

THE re-election of President Wilson was not only highly complimentary to him but was also very creditable to the sound common sense of the fairminded voters of the United States. That he richly deserved a re-election is attested by the vote given him.

Not only was he voted for by his own party but by thousands of the Republican party, especially by the Republican farmers of the Western states without whose votes he would have been defeated. While so many thousands and Republicans in the West voted for him it is passing strange, and base ingratitude, that the Republican farmers of the South did not in like manner express their appreciation of his services. If any one class of men, more than another, should have voted for Wilson they are the farmers of the South, Republican as well as Democratic.

Since he was elected without their votes we do not regret that the great states of New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois voted against him, and that he owes his election to the farmers of the West. It had been said all during the campaign that the "big interests" and Wall street were opposed to Wilson and were spending money freely in their efforts to defeat him, and now the result proves it to be true. It must be rather humbling to the pride of the men who control the money centres that they were defeated by the farmers of the West and South. And now, that the West and South together elected Wilson and together defeated the money lords of Wall street, let them continue to vote together hereafter and make a common cause in all future elections.

THE death of Hon. Cyrus B. Watson last Saturday at his home in Winston-Salem removes one of North Carolina's most distinguished and patriotic sons, who had rendered this state much service both in war and peace. He was one of the bravest soldiers in the Confederate army and was one who carried a musket throughout the war. Returning from the war a youth without any means he became one of the most successful and prominent lawyers in this state, and in 1896 he was the Democratic nominee for Governor. In 1903 he was a candidate with Overman, Craig and Carr for the nomination for the United States Senate, and for three weeks the Democratic members of the legislature balloted night after night before making the nomination of Senator Overman by a small majority over Watson.

PRESIDENT WILSON has much cause to be proud of the fact that he ran ahead of the Democratic ticket very generally, and this was due to his personal popularity and was an expression of the appreciation in which he is held by Republicans as well as by Democrats. He carried several Republican states, in which the other Democratic candidates were defeated. For instance, he carried the rock-ribbed Republican state of Kansas by nearly thirty thousand majority but the Democratic candidate for Governor was defeated by a much larger majority. This was a magnificent tribute to his personality.

THE proposed amendments to our state constitution were all four adopted at the election last week, although the vote on them was quite light. Nobody seemed to take much interest in them, and the Republicans generally opposed them, although their candidate for Governor had published a letter in favor of them. They seem to have been political orphans and were treated like a "red-headed step-child" by the Democratic party, that had proposed them.

TEN of the twelve states, in which women vote, gave a majority for Wilson, but the largest woman suffrage state (Illinois) gave a majority against him. So, it is uncertain whether the women were mostly for him or for Hughes.

THE election last week was very close in several states. For instance, Wilson carried New Hampshire by only 63 votes, and Hughes carried Minnesota by 360 in a total vote of nearly 400,000. Such close elections, or small majorities, show the importance of every man voting and that a few votes may control the vote of an entire state.

The election of President Wilson is welcomed by the Japanese press, which praises his peaceful disposition and believe his continuation in office augurs well for the furtherance of American-Japanese friendship.

"I can recommend no better health giver than tonoline," said Mildred Louise. "I was for many months a victim of stomach trouble and nervousness. I had suffered terribly from pains that followed eating. Headaches also would add to my worries. Poor digestion finally brought on nervousness. "Relief came, however, when I took the advice of several women who said, 'Take tonoline.' "Not long after I started the tonoline treatment, my patrons began to remind me of the improvement in my condition. And because health is the quickest way to beauty, the improvement was particularly noticeable in my face. "What tonoline really did for me I cannot say. I am so grateful that I am very willing to recommend tonoline publicly.
