a little box of silver, beautifully chased. But what she treasures most is a fucky bean. The young soldier who gave it to her stood grasping her hands in the dark, saying blunderingly that he had been eleven months in the trenches and that she could not imagine what it meant to him to see a lady, much less hear her speak; that this bean had been all over the world with Mim and had brought him good luckhe hadn't been wounded yet-and now he wanted her to have it. The boy was simply giving her everything. No wonder she set his bean in the best of gold and wears it always.

One day some one sent me up a box, of cigars from the cigar store downstairs. Arthur, my office boy, brought them in and stood near my desk while I unwrapped the package. As I opened the box I said to him jokingly-as he was too young to smoke-"Will you have a cigar, Arthur?" And Arthur replied: "I don't smoke, but my father does." So I said: "All right, take one for your father."

He picked out a cigar and put it away in his inside coat pocket. As he started away I said to him, more out of curiosity than anything else: "What does your father do, Arthur?"

Arthur remained silent and blushed deeply. It made me more curious than

HER HUSBAND

Man, Home From Extended Business Trip, Believes Child His Own, Until Police Reveal Age Discrepancy.

Boston.-When Mrs. Josephine M. Blaine of Dorchester, Mass., entered the Boston Homeopathic hospital, on the eve of motherhood, she did so with high hopes and ambitions for the little one that was to be brought into being. The baby came and died. When the mother was told, she lay as if stunned and her life was despaired of. But nature was strong and the woman recovered sufficiently to depart for her home a few days ago.

Leaving the hospital, a frail little woman clothed in somber black, Mrs. Blaine did not take a car to her Home. Instead, she walked, brooding over an inestimable loss, picturing her greeting, when she should meet her husband, who was on a business trip and had not learned of the baby's death, but was on his way home to meet his wife and their little one. Real Mother Discovers Loss.

As she passed a store in the heart of the shopping district she saw three baby carriages unattended. She peered into one of them. A lusty little fellow was sleeping quietly. Without a moment's hesitation she pushed the carriage down the street and took the baby home.

Meanwhile the real mother, after making her purchase, left the store and looked in vain for the baby and carriage. She notified the police and in a short time clews were obtained that focused about the home of Mrs. Blaine. An officer entered the house and inquired of the woman as to the number of persons in the household. Mrs. Blaine named her husband, her-
