LOCAL RECORDS

Things That Happen That Will Interest Readers of The Record.

The Winnie Davis chapter, U.D.C., meets Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Jacob Thompson at 4:30.

The next term of Federal court convenes at Raleigh on Tuesday, May 27th.

There will be some changes in the business houses here the first of May. J. J. Johnson and Son will move to the building now occupied by Brooks & Eubanks and the latter firm will move into the store vacated by Johnson & Son.

Work on the Farmers' new bank building will begin in the near future. This building will be of brick, two stories, the lower floor to be occupied by the bank and the upper floor by offices. The lot is 198 feet in length and has a frontage of about 40 feet.

Mr. W. T. Powell, of Baldwin township, recently underwent a very painful operation under Dr. Braxton B. Lloyd, of Chapel Hill. His left eye, which had caused him much suffering since he was thrown by a mule several years ago, was removed.

While returning from Greensboro with his family in a car one day last week, Mr. Cleve Johnson, of Hadley township, driving, the car skidded and turned over throwing the occupants out. No one was seriously hurt but the car was badly broken up.

Mr. Charles Knight, of route 3, gave a sumptuous dinner to several of his friends, last Saturday, in honor of his son, Wallace, who has just returned from overseas. At night the young people were given a sociable and they all had a jolly good time. Plenty of music and plenty of ice cream and cake.

ENTERED INTO REST

The Passing of Mrs. George H. Brooks

On Saturday, the 19th of April, after a lingering illness, Mrs. George H. Brooks entered into life eternal. Mrs. Brooks before her marriage was Miss Lou Horne, the second daughter of Mrs. Laura E. Horne and was born and reared in Pittsboro being married to Mr. Brooks in June, 1905.

She was greatly beloved by a large circle of friends and was very active in the religious, civic and patriotic work of the town and always ready to her part. When a serious illness attacked her months ago she bore her cross patiently and, though long to leave her dear ones, she was ready to enter into life everlasting.

To the husband, mother, sister and three heart-broken children we extend our deepest sympathy for the separation of their dear one. And yet it is only a transplanting, for "On the resurrection morning soul and body meet again, no more sorrow, no more weeping, no more pain."

At this blessed Easter tide with the earth full of promise, resurrection seems more wonderful, and we realize that our friend is "not dead, she's just away," and we are left dreaming "how very fair it needs must be since she lingers there."

The funeral services were held at the Methodist church on Easter afternoon and the interment in that cemetery, conducted by Rev. P. D. Woodall and attended by a large number of sorrowing friends. The grave was covered with a profusion of flowers, among them being a tribute from the U. D. C. chapter, of which she was a charter member.

Among those from a distance who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Archie Brooks and Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Brooks.

$187,500 for County

Chatham county's quota for the Victory loan bond issue now in progress is $187,500. Mr. W. D. Siler, of Siler City, is county chairman. The state is asked to subscribe $31,000,000 of the nation's $4,500,000,000 called for by Secretary Glass.

SYRIAN RELIEF FUND

Chatham County Goes Beyond Her Quota

Mr. J. B. Atwater, who had charge of the Armenian-Syrian relief fund for this county, has sent into headquarters his final report of collections for the fund. Chatham's quota was $700. The report follows:

Mysterious Fire

A mysterious fire occurred at the home of Mr. Iver Hart, of Oakland township, last Friday, which has not been explained. Mrs. Hart had put her few weeks-old baby to bed in a room and went into the kitchen to prepare a meal. Some time afterwards she heard the baby scream. When she entered the room she found not only her bed on fire but the wall paper all over the room was burning. It is supposed that some of the burning wall paper fell on the bed setting it on fire. A hole was burned through the bed clothing and the baby's face was badly scorched. Dr. Chapin was called in and dressed the burns. It will recover. No one knows how the fire originated and it was soon extinguished.

A TITLED GUEST

Mrs. Jas. H. Griffin Hostess to a French Countess

Mrs. James L. Griffin on last Thursday had as her guests Countess Constance Hillary De Caen and Mrs. M. J. Jordan, of Gulf, with whom the countess is visiting.

This distinguished French visitor who is known among the American aviators at Tours as "The Little Mother," has been the honoree of a number of charming society functions in Los Angeles, Cal., Chattanooga, Tenn., New York and many other cities of the United States that have had the honor of a visit from her. The following is an extract from a Los Angeles paper:

"She loves the name by which 'her boys' call her and is quite as proud of it as she is of the title handed down to her by a long line of aristocratic ancestors. The countess inherits the title of her father, as she is the only child. On the maternal side both grandfather and great grandfather were British admirals, Sir James and Sir Charles Hillary. On the maternal side her grandfather and great grandfather were French generals, the former being Gen. Charles, count De Caen. The countess visited Los Angeles for six weeks," that she might get strong and well for the winter to resume her work among her American boys, and her blind and wounded in the French hospitals.

"Countess De Caen has had a most interesting life, which since the beginning of the war, has been devoted to working with the sick, wounded, blind and the refugees in her war stricken country.

"Her time as well as her fortune and personal energy were consecrated to the cause, and perhaps no person in France today is more idolized than this frail delicate little Countess De Caen. She visited the hospitals, herself administered to the patients. She gathered the blind about her and read to them and brought sunshine to lives that were in utter darkness. The countess became interested in the American soldiers when the first aviators arrived. A large number of cadets were first stationed at Tours. As our country had entered the war so recently, there were of course, no Y. M. C. A.'s, no K. C.'s or other club houses. The men were absolutely without entertainment, and with only such comforts as could be found in their hastily made barracks.

"The countess immediately set about to make those brave, lonely men comfortable. Her home was thrown open to them and they were welcome to go and come as they pleased. There was always a roaring fire, with books and stationary, and the men were served with delicious chocolate or coffee and cake. She introduced her American boys to the best families in France and their homes too, were thrown open to them at all times.

"She kept in touch with the mothers, sisters or sweethearts of these boys, who for lack of time or for wounds or sickness could not write. It was not an uncommon thing for her to write 150 letters a week to those who were anxiously waiting to hear from the boy over the sea.

"Countess De Caen is an official attaché of the Marquis De Keroman, delegate to the Fifth Regent Orleans, who has fifty hospitals under his charge. She wears the medal of the Societe de Secours Blesses Militaires, given for four years of voluntary service. The countess was so impressed with the morale of the Americans in France she expressed herself enthusiastically over the courage and bravery of our men. She said that when the Americans arrived and saw the wanton destruction wrought by the Germans, it served to spur them on, they yearned to punish the Germans.

"The American soldiers always smile--they whistle and try to appear indifferent to their own pain, even though an arm may be missing, said she.

"But years of strenuous work are telling on her, and so her American soldiers insisted that she needed and should take a rest, though they regretted to lose her even for a short while. So she came to the United States and since her arrival has been showered with invitations from the mothers of 'her boys,' many of whom she has visited.

"In stature the countess is small, dresses simply though with excellent taste. She has a sweetness and charm of personality that is magnetic, coupled with the poise, the quiet easy bearing, free from any sign of affectation, the true marks of the real genteel woman.

"Tell the American people," said the countess, "that the French people will never forget their great kindness and help, and in their name accept the undying gratitude of France."

Lieut. Ralph Jordan, son of Mrs. M. J. Jordan, with whom the countess is visiting, is one of 'her boys' and she speaks in highest praise of Lieut. Jordan's bravery as a soldier.

THE DOG LAW

Synopsis of Dog Law Passed at the 1919 Legislature

On any male dog over six months old a tax of $1 a year, and a female dog over six months old a tax of $2 has to be paid by the owner.

Every dog owner must list their dog at the same time they list their personal property, and failing or refusing to do so the owner will be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined, when convicted, not exceeding $50 or be imprisoned not exceeding 30 days.

License or privilege tax shall be due October 1st of each year. If a person shall keep a dog after December 1st, whether said dog is listed or not, and the tax has not been paid, he will be liable to a fine or imprisonment.

When a dog tax has been paid the sheriff will give the dog owner a receipt showing that the same has been paid.

The tax lister shall on or before the 1st day of July make a complete report to the sheriff of every owner of a dog and shall ascertain whether such dog has been listed. It is the duty of the owner of a dog to go to the sheriff and list his dog and pay the license tax.

Dogs are not allowed to roam at night time unless accompanied by the owner or some of his family. Any person found guilty of this offense is liable to fine or imprisonment.

If a dog does injury to persons or property the owner is responsible for damages, and the county commissioners may pay for such damages, but the owner, where he is known, shall reimburse the county to the amount paid out.

Any person may kill a mad dog, or one killing sheep, cattle, hogs, goats or poultry. All dogs when listed become personal property and will be protected as such.

Births and Deaths Since January 30th up to April 15th there have been in Center township, outside of Pittsboro, 3 white births and 10 colored. During the same time there were 4 white deaths and 4 colored.

In Pittsboro there were 6 white births and no colored, and one white death (a baby) and one colored (a woman). Pittsboro is one of the healthiest towns in the state.

EASTER IN PITTSBORO Beautiful Sunshiny Weather-- Church Services

Easter Sunday was an ideal day. The pleasant sunshine, the woods in their garb of green, birds singing and the contented smiling faces of the citizens, was enough to make the worst old grouch feel good. It was an Easter day seldom seen. Just cool enough to be pleasant it made people look back to the many Easter Sundays when the weather was cold or it was raining.

The ladies were out in their new spring hats and dresses and, although they look good at all times, Sunday was an exception and they simply outshone themselves.

The services were held in three of the churches here and all had good congregations.

Easter Monday was the day. It has been a long time since such an Easter Monday dawned on the people of Pittsboro, and the younger set, the older set and the grown-ups took advantage of it. Truck loads of young people went out picnicking at different points, with plenty of eats, and enjoyed the day to their heart's content.

The banks, the county officers, the manufacturing plants were put out of commission by the holiday fever.
