Federal Jurors

A special term of Federal Court will convene in Raleigh on Monday, February 2nd, in order to clear the docket of the large number of blockade whiskey cases now pending. The following Chathamites have been summoned to attend as jurors: Robert L. Tyson, of Oakland; Cross Stone, of Cape Fear, and Romie Thomas, of Hadley.

Battle School News

The Battle school opened on Monday, January 5, after the Christmas holidays with a very large attendance. The pupils of the primary grades are taking much interest in their reading class. Each pupil is trying to have the best lessons.

An entertainment was given on Tuesday night before Christmas and seven pies were sold. The proceeds amounted to $19.50.

A play, "Aunt Betsy's Beau," will be given in Society hall Friday afternoon. The society meets at 2:15 o'clock. We urge all the patrons of the school to be present as we want to organize a Betterment association. JJ.

Revives Italy's Glories

The world has heard from returning impressarios during recent seasons that there are no singers in Europe worth bringing over here. This was said to be as true of Italy as other European countries. But suddenly there came a brilliant blaze of glory out of Italy. For the first time in years there are coming to this country sopranos who, according to reports from other cities, are to renew the glories of the Italian operatic stage as it existed previous to the '70's.

The greatest of the triumphs which any of these new Italian singers has enjoyed, came from Annetta Galli-Curci.

She was 26 years old the day she made her first appearance with the Chicago Opera Co., and achieved the greatest success that any coloratura soprano ever enjoyed there after a first appearance.

Galli-Curci will be heard at the Raleigh auditorium on January 21, as the section attraction of the Rotary Club's series. The sale of tickets began last Tuesday.

Resolutions of Respect

The sudden death of Dr. H. T. Chapin on August 31, 1919, removed from the Pittsboro Baptist church one of its most valued and honored members. He was a deacon in this church for about 30 years, and was its Sunday school superintendent for awhile.

He was a successful practicing physician in Pittsboro and the surrounding country for nearly 35 years, during which time no one, on account of poverty, was denied his skillful services. He did much "charity" work in his love for humanity.

He was one of the strongest and most liberal supporters of his church. One of the Sunday school rooms in this church stands as a monument to his generosity and a free gift to the church.

He was an orthodox Baptist, yet he was liberal in his views toward other denominations, and among these he had a great many good true friends.

He appreciated his numerous friends, and his jolly humor and pleasing manners were one cause of his success as a physician.

He married Miss Annie Foushee, of Pittsboro, who with their three children survive him.

Therefore, be it resolved, 1. That while we, the members of the Pittsboro Baptist church, bow with humble submission to God's will, we join with his family in sincere grief over our great loss and we extend to them our heartfelt sympathy and love, and commend them to "Him who is too wise to err and too good to be unkind."

2. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, a copy be printed in the Biblical Recorder, a copy in the Chatham Record and a copy be recorded on the minutes of the church.

R. P. JOHNSON, W. H. GRIFFIN, G. W. MOORE, Committee.

Mrs. W. W. Clark

Mrs. Walter W. Clark, aged 39 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daffron, died at her home about ten miles east of Siler City on December 31, 1919, after an illness of several days.

Mrs. Clark was a woman whose place in the community will not easily be filled. She was interested in not only the immediate home concerns of her family, but her influence was felt for good in the church and the public school, for she appreciated the value of the two great institutions to a community.

Surviving are a husband and three daughters—Dora, Edith, Eulalia; two sons, Farthing and W. D.; mother and father; three sisters, Miss Dora, Mrs. M. H. Woody and Mrs. J. M. Woody, and one brother, W. H. Daffron, of Indiana.

While we sympathize with her dear loved ones in their great loss, they were fortunate in having had such a wife and mother, and we rejoice with them in the blessedness upon which she has entered.

ONE WHO LOVED HER.

This will be a great country when women are allowed to vote and smoke cigars.

Haywood Bridge Closed

The News and Observer says that tourists arriving in Raleigh report that the bridge over Haw river at Haywood is closed following condemnation proceedings. Traffic over the national highway now is by way of Apex, Holly Springs, Avents Ferry and Jonesboro where the road unites with the regular highway. Tourists are warned to turn off the national highway at Apex and proceed through Holly Springs.

The North Carolina Day celebration takes place in the school auditorium here next Friday afternoon. A collection will be taken up for the Aycock memorial fund. The Lee-Jackson celebration takes place Friday, Jan. 23.

Mr. Geddie Phillips was seriously if not fatally hurt Wednesday when the cylinder head of the engine at the saw mill of Mr. W. G. Fields, about 5 miles northwest of town, blew out and struck him above the eye. He was rushed to a hospital.

That escaped Georgia convict must have felt like a fool when he asked a passing automobile for a ride and found two officers searching for him.

A FAVORITE POEM: "LITTLE BOY BLUE"

Reprinted from The Progressive Farmer.

Naturally enough, the pathos of Eugene Field's "Little Boy Blue" won it a place in the recent balloting for favorite poems by Progressive Farmer readers; and mention of it also calls to mind the unforgettable passage in "David Harum" where the old man says: "When I lost my little boy, I didn't only lose him as he was, but I ben losin' him over and over again all these years. What he'd 'a' been when he was so old; an' what when he'd got to be a big boy; an' what he'd 'a' ben when he went mebbe to college; an' what he'd 'a' ben afterward, an' up to now. Of course the times when a man stuffs his face down into the pillars nights, passes, after a while; but while the some sorro's that the happenin' o' things helps ye to forget, I guess the some that the happenin' o' things keeps ye rememberin', an' losin' a child's one on 'em." The famous "Little Boy Blue" poem follows:

The little toy dog is covered with dust,
But sturdy and stanch he stands;
And the little toy soldier is red with rust,
And his musket molds in his hands.
Time was when the little toy dog was new,
And the soldier was passing fair;
And that was the time when our Little Boy Blue
Kissed them and put them there.

"Now, don't you go till I come," he said,
And don't you make any noise!"
So, toddling off to his trundle-bed,
He dreamt of the pretty toys;
And, as he was dreaming, an angel song
Awakened our Little Boy Blue—
Oh! the years are many, the years are long,
But the little toy friends are true!

Ay, faithful to Little Boy Blue they stand,
Each in the same old place—
Awaiting the touch of a little hand,
The smile of a little face;
And they wonder, as waiting the long years thru
In the dust of that little chair,
What has become of our Little Boy Blue,
Since he kissed them and put them there.
—Eugene Field.
