Wise-Otherwise

Stolen Paragraphs Localized by the Editor to Tease His Friends

Every time you hear a man lambasting a newspaper, just put it down that the paper has published something contrary to the sugar-coated taste of the individual expressing himself.

Last Friday night while the editor was passing a residence near that of his own, he heard a lady use that "old time" expression: "Well, I guess I will let those dishes go until in the morning."

Dr. J. M. Harper told the editor the other day that to improve his health, he must have only pleasant thoughts while eating. How can we, Doc, when we know we are still paying war-time prices for a good many things we do eat?

We always appreciate it when a fat man gets applause. He is so often overlooked. Ask "Shug" Nooe about the hurrah that was given him the other day when his hat blew off in the dusty street.

Mary had a little cold That settled in her head And everywhere that Mary went That cold was sure to spread.

The flower of the politician is the forget-me-not, but he should be like the aviator—afraid to fall down on his job.

Dr. Roscoe Farrell says that a farmer in Chatham county can raise almost anything except a mortgage.

When a man does a real honest-to-goodness Jay's work, there's mighty little danger of his stealing at night.

Many men cast shadows on their life by standing in their own light.

Squire J. R. Blair says that opportunities are far more profitable than prophets.

G. R. Pilkington says a small boy always realizes that it is wicked to fight when he is getting the worst of the encounter.

Calling the weather man harsh names helps some, but it is necessary for Lisander Johnson to keep on mopping.

We take it that it is more profitable to argue with a fool than it is with an officer.

His Operation.

Echoes from the tonsil-adenoid clinic at Siler City.

This is just how it all happened as one little nine year old tells it.

They laid me on the table and put cotton spectacles on my eyes. Then they put a muzzle on me and began to pour something on it. They told me to blow it off if I didn't like it and I began to blow. They kept telling me to blow and then got father and farther off. Then I saw a bright light and that got smaller and smaller and the next thing I knew I was back here in bed.

One youngster, said being put to sleep was like swimming backwards.

After coming out from under the anaesthetic one child said, "Pshaw, here you've got me all muzzed up and didn't take my tonsils out at all!"

One boy, aged six, said he didn't need any ether to go to sleep, he went to sleep every night without it. Dr. Wright said, "Well, will you tell us when you get to sleep?" He answered, "How can I? I can't talk when I'm asleep."

The baby of the bunch was the first one of twenty-seven to become normal. Had his operation at 2 o'clock and at six wanted to go for a ride and get ice cream and chewing gum.

Chatham Church.

On last Saturday morning a party of people both young and old went to Tysors mill on Rocky River to a fish fry. The men did the seining and caught a large number of nice fish which some of Chatham's good cooks fried on the river bank. The eating was thoroughly enjoyed by the party of fifty people present.

Colored Woman Dies.

There died in Pittsboro Wednesday Aug. 10th, its oldest inhabitant, Sylla Jackson, aged 90 years. Having been very feeble for some time from old age, she gently passed away.

When a girl she was waiting maid to Mrs. Samuel S. Jackson. She has had many respectable descendants, among whom is her son, Rev. Johnnie Jackson pastor of the largest colored Methodist church in Wilmington, N. C.

She was known as "Aunt Sylla" and Ma'am Sylla. But to those she nursed from infancy, she was always "Nunnie." She had nursed in the Jackson family, and Mr. Henry A. London's family for three generations.

There were some of her "white children" who attended her funeral, and all of them, present and absent, showed their loving respect for her by sending beautiful flowers.

This could be said of her. "She was loyal in life to her white people—and represented the fast passing type of the 'Old South.'" She was faithful in the discharge of her duties, and her white people, whom she so fondly loved, will mourn her death, and will always tenderly cherish her memory.

Farm Convention.

New facts about food and its influence on health and progress are to be featured in a talk by Dr. E. V. McCollum, world famous nutrition expert of John Hopkins University, at the Farmers' and Farm Women's Convention in Raleigh, Aug. 30-Sept. 1.

Model cotton warehouses are to form a part of the exhibits also. There will be five models ranging from inexpensive frame buildings to brick and concrete structures, each made to scale, and in addition fragment models will show every detail of construction.

Figures Fool Us.

Our "devil" got W. A. Ellington's calculations mixed up last week in regard to the automobiles. He measured off 300 yards and the ten automobiles that passed made the distance in 30 seconds, or 600 yards in one minute, while we had it 500 yards.

North Carolina, Chatham County.

Whereas, the Woman's Club of Pittsboro, N. C. met in regular session on the 3rd day of August 1921 for the dispatch of such business as required its attention, and

Whereas, upon motion duly made in said meeting of and concerning the dusty streets of Pittsboro, a vote was taken upon said motion, and it was decided by a unanimous vote of said club that something ought to be done to arrest the dust, especially for the reason that the present dusty condition of the said street will endanger the health of the people of the town.

It was therefore, upon vote of said Woman's Club decided that a committee be appointed to go before the Board of Town Commissioners, of the town of Pittsboro, either in person, or by way of resolution and request the said Town Commissioners to oil the dust streets of Pittsboro, and to pay for same with town taxes.

Be it therefore resolved, that we, the committee appointed as aforesaid, do hereby respectfully petition your honorable body to take immediate action to the end that the streets may be put in such condition as will arrest the dust and thereby preserve the health of its people.

Be it further resolved, that the said Woman's Club of Pittsboro is desirous of working in co-operation with, and assisting in any way they can, either by suggestion or otherwise, the town authorities in making Pittsboro a better place in which to live.

Signed:

Mrs. W. P. Horton, Mrs. Jas. L. Griffin, Mrs. Henry L. Nooe.

At the close of the business meeting delicious refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by her sister, Miss Mary McGhee of Raleigh N. C.

Dezern Gets a still.

C. T. Dezern, deputy sheriff of Chatham, accompanied by sheriff Rosser of Lee county went over on banks of Deep River on the Lee county side last Saturday morning and there found a complete copper still of 35 gallon capacity, a lot of low wine and beer and a complete outfit for making blockade whiskey.

The operator of this outfit has been spotted and it is believed he will be arrested in a short time if he continues to live in Chatham county. The location bore evidence of having been there for a long time, as a runway had been made to empty the slops in the river and the still was substantially erected.

The owner lives in this county and crossed the river in boats to do the work and bring the products of his still back over on this side. It was near Moncure.

Commander London Home

Commander J. J. London is here on a visit for a few days to his mother, Mrs. Henry A. London. For the past year he has been stationed in Turkish waters on the St. Louis, the flagship of Admiral Bristol.

He was detached from the St. Louis, on July 2nd, and ordered to the United States to go on shore duty at the Navy Department, Washington. On the way, to the United States Commander London spent a month visiting various places of interest in Europe, such as Athens, Rome, Venice, Vienna, Prague, Carlsbad, Switzerland, Paris. He crossed the Atlantic on the Old North State, a passenger line ship of the United States Mail Transportation Company.

During his stay in Constantinople Commander London came in close contact with the troubles in the Near East. Fighting between Greeks and Turkish Nationalists is still in progress, with no signs at present of its abatement. Last winter the St. Louis was present at Sevastopol when General Wrangle's army was forced by Bolsheviks to evacuate southern Russia. At the time many refugees were saved and brought on the St. Louis from Sevastopol to Constantinople. At one time there were 150,000 Russian refugees crowded on all kinds of vessels anchored in the harbor of Constantinople.

The Exposition.

Construction work is proceeding rapidly on the big brick and steel building in which the first Made-in-Carolinas Exposition will be held from Sept. 12 to 29, when thousands of dollars of products of Carolina factories will be displayed in a manner deemed best suited to impressing upon Carolina people the "buy at home" idea, according to announcement.

NEGRO IN TROUBLE.

Robertson, Foreman For J. T. Plott, Seriously Wounded.

A sensational shooting affair took place on the main street in Siler City Friday just after 1 o'clock when a negro, Lee Alexander shot and wounded Goodman R. Robertson. Mr. Robertson is foreman of one of J. T. Plott's road construction forces, located near town, and the negro who did the shooting had been employed as blacksmith. The negro claimed that Robertson had not paid him all that was due and after a few words over the matter drew a .38 caliber pistol and began firing at close range and continued until he had emptied his revolver. Robertson was shot in the leg just behind the knee, in the shoulder and in the back.

As soon as the negro had emptied his gun he ran and succeeded in getting away from Main street. A posse was formed immediately and pursued the fleeing negro, who had reloaded his gun and continued to fire at different pursuers until his gun was again empty. By this time he was pretty well surrounded and Henry Pike left his car and captured him. The negro plead for his life and had it not been for the counsel of Mr. Pike and others, possibly he would have been shot on the spot. He was quickly surrounded by the infuriated citizens. But cool heads prevailed and the negro was soon behind the bars in Pittsboro, later being removed to Raleigh as a precautionary measure. In the pursuit and exchange of shots the negro was hit twice but not seriously wounded.

Mr. Robertson has been here only a few months, but during these few months has made many warm friends. His home is at Leaksville.

He was carried to a hospital at Greensboro where he is getting along nicely, although painfully wounded.

Array of Musical Talent.

With an array of musical talent that music lovers of North Carolina have seldom been offered in one comprehensive course of unusual attractions announcement is made by John A. Park of his program of events at the city auditorium in Raleigh next season.

Starting with two attractions during the week of the State Fair in October and continuing until spring, the series will include some of the most conspicuous artists in the music world and a versality of talent calculated to satisfy the most exacting taste.

There will be six attractions arranged in one series of events at popular prices. Tickets for all six events will be sold at one time and reservations may be made at the beginning of the season for the entire course.

Praises Sanitorium.

The undersigned recently had occasion to take a near relative to the hospital at Sanitorium. It was believed that at that time he was suffering with that dreaded malady, but proved otherwise. I want to say that the institution there is certainly a splendid one, fully equipped, nicely arranged and kept in perfect order. During my several days stay there I had every opportunity to see the place inside and out and was greatly impressed with the splendid care and arrangement of the whole place. The exterior was just a little rugged owing to the debris caused by the building of extra room that will probably accommodate twice the number of patients. Otherwise the place was in splendid condition.

An Old Resident.

W. L. Dorsett, now of Columbus county, living near Clarkton, was reared in Matthews township, near Siler City. He was a caller at the Record office Friday and related many incidents of this county during his boyhood days that were interesting to the editor. Mr. Dorsett is near 70 years old but if single he could easily make the ladies believe he were much younger.
