The Best For the Price at All Times

There is little advantage in buying a feed that is of small value for your stock and it is expensive in the long run. The cheapest feed you can use is that containing quality, especially when you can buy quality feed at the same price others charge for inferior grain and stock feeds in general.

This reliable firm handles only the choicest hay and grain, sweet feeds and products that keep the stock in good condition and gives them strength to keep up their backs through the hot, summer weather. There is none better than Purina products and other brands that we handle at all times.

Bland & Company carry a full stock of feeds when you need it and you do not have to wait for your order. Our warehouses are always filled with new, fresh feed and we solicit your business.

We buy your produce—chickens, eggs, butter, hams, and in fact we handle almost anything you have to sell and give you the best market price for them.

Our grocery department is complete and our prices are as low as is consistent with good business and that is lower than the average price charged in this section. We have about everything that you need and we appreciate your business at any time.
