CHARGE IT.

...olland in Progressive Farmer.

A lady whose husband has a moderate income stood in a department store. When the dress was brought she said, "charge it."

A young husband stood in a garage ready to sign the contract for a car that he could not get along well without. He mortgaged his home for the first payment, and arranged the remainder on the instalment plan, paying about 16 per cent for his money. "Charge it."

A city wanted some improvements to meet the pace set by another city which went into debt. They issued bonds for 50 years for the improvements, so that their grand children will finish paying for the improvements long after they are out of date or worn out. "Charge it."

A farmer was getting along very well, but wanted some new buildings.

An Unknown Historical Fact

DID you know that George Washington, The adopted Father of our Country, just before he got on the Ferry to cross the Delaware for the Photographing of that now famous Picture, Did you know that he smoked two sacks of 'Bull' Durham while he was waiting for the Ferry? (things were just as late in his War, as they were in our last one). Now I have never heard of this 'Bull' Durham episode before, neither have I ever heard it denied. So if it's never either been affirmed or denied, there is no reason to disbelieve that it's not true. 'Bull' Durham originated in Virginia, and Washington lived in Virginia, and he was a great man to patronize home industries. And as Washington was the best man of his day, and Durham the best tobacco of its day, there is no plausible reason to doubt that these two most excellent Institutions didn't readily recognize the good in each other and get together.

SIXTY-FIVE YEARS AGO!

In 1860 a blend of tobacco was born—'Bull' Durham. On quality alone it has won recognition wherever tobacco is known. It still offers the public this—more flavor, more enjoyment and a lot more money left at the end of a week's smoking.

He got the buildings and said "Charge it."

A group of world-wide nations started out over half a century ago in commercial rivalries. Finally a dispute arose, and they brought on a war which is called "The World War." Ten million boys and men were slain. Those nations bonded the next two centuries by their folly. "Charge it."

A young man wanted more pleasures than legitimately come in the average happy life, so he filled his stomach with moonshine, climbed into a half-paid-for car, got a dame of the super-lip-stick variety, and speeded nature beyond her limits of safety. He said to his constitution, "Charge it."

What happened? The husband of the lady in the department store got tired of being in debt for foolishness, laid down the law, and his wife left him.

The young husband lost his home which he mortgaged, and became a Bolshevik because of his foolish debts.

The city wanted other improvements more necessary than those which they had gone into debt for, and so the life of the city had to lag behind her sister cities, while she paid her debts.

The farmer was compelled to sell his farm at a sacrifice to satisfy the mortgage. He is now in the city as a common laborer in a garage.

The nations that went into debt for folly will burden the great grand children of the present generation of babies in trying to repay the war money lenders.

The young fellow who charged his debauchery to his constitution, lest out in the race for life, and died of paresis brought on by unnamable disease.

A little book which I often tuck under my pillow at night says this, "Whatever a man soweth that shall he also reap." We may "Charge it," and seemingly get by for awhile, but PAY DAY always comes.

Often the calamities that come upon us are the "Pay Days" of God when we settle for the things we foolishly "charged."

Debt for necessities is often wise, but debt for vanities and follies and sins, brings on a "Pay Day," that makes man tremble.

QUERY DEPARTMENT.
Answers by John

*** * * * ***

I have promised to marry a young man and he says he will never gamble? Do you suppose he will stick to his promise. Janie, Sanford.

Answer—Thought you said the man had promised to marry you.

Why don't some merchants advertise in The Record. Is it because they know their business? Jimmie, Moncure.

Answer—Yes, they know their business, but none of our readers do.

Can anyone fish at Buckhorn with permission? Henry, Apex.

Answer—Yes, Henry. But it is better to have worms.

Can you tell me anything about Tennyson's Works? Sallie, New Hill.

Answer—No, Sallie. We do not know of any such factory in Chatham or Wake.

Is the earth round or square. Answer to settle an argument? Billie Siler City.

Answer—Call it either or both. We don't want to start an argument in the query department.

What is the difference between electricity and lightning. Willie, Pittsboro.

Answer—You don't have to pay for lightning.

Are there any difference in government postage stamps? Charley, Goldston.

Answer—Yes; when you want to make a purchase always have the clerk show you a sheet of a hundred and pick out the one you want.

How can I get the better of my wife in an argument? Joe, Merry Oaks.

Answer—Admit that you are wrong before she begins to argue.

NOTICE!

VIEW AND THOUGHTS.

(By a Former Newspaper Editor.)

A Protestant denomination has approved plans for the erection of a 20-story church at Jacksonville, Fla. The first three stories will be used for the church proper, as also the basement. The remainder of the building will be occupied by business tenants, using the upper stories for offices of various and sundry purposes. The church will cost one million dollars and is the first of its kind to be built in the whole world. Plans have been received from the architect and adopted and a contract for the work will be let in a few days. This proposition may be a good one, but it is doubted. The precedent will certainly not operate to any advantage for the churches. The tendency to unite the church with worldly allegiance is too prevalent as it is and we do not believe the 20-story Florida church will maintain itself very long.

The Credit Corporation may be a good thing for the farmers if North Carolina or any other state for that matter, but we do not see it that way. In the long run it will operate against them. It is very nice to be able to borrow money at the beginning of the crop year, pay cash for fertilizer and have running expense on hand but the farmer will readily spend more than he otherwise would, had he not gotten the money before hand. It is virtually the same as a "time" proposition so largely used by many of the farmers in some of the counties in North Carolina. We note by the daily papers that more than one million, eight hundred thousand dollars have already been loaned to farmer members of the tobacco and cotton associations in North Carolina by the N. C. Credit Corporation at Raleigh. On Tuesday of last week—one day only—a new record was set when more than one hundred and thirty-five thousand dollars were scattered throughout the cotton and tobacco sections of the state.

It is true this money comes from the Federal Loan Bank at Columbia, S. C., and places money in North Carolina that otherwise would not reach us, but there are many more ways for the farmers to secure financial assistance that would prove of more material benefit. Credit is a bad business for everyone, whether he be farmer, merchant or business man, and the more cramped and individual is the more he will produce and the more he will economize. The report coming out of Raleigh states that many of those who borrowed during 1924 failed to "pay out" and new loans to these farmers are being held up. If they failed in 1924 to pay out, it stands to reason that they will fail further during 1925 and in a few years the farming sections will be much the worse for the accommodation that was intended for a benefit.

A report being circulated by the Industrial News Bureau, states that a recent summary of a list of Federal and Joint Stock banks discloses the fact that foreclosures and losses are rapidly increasing. In the first seven years of their existence, the banks began foreclosure proceedings on 2,910 farms and acquired 852 farms, of which they sold 128, making net gain on farms sold of $27,065.38. In 1924 foreclosure proceedings on 2,226 farms were made, according to the statement and 443 farms were acquired. They sold 118 at a net loss of $28,731.54, thus consuming profits made on foreclosing farms during first seven years, in addition to a further loss.

Then, if the farmers cannot make good through these Joint Land Banks with a privilege of small annual payments, and 33 years to pay it, how could they be expected to make good on a loan secured by crops to be made during the current year?

Last week, The Record carried a news item in its columns about an order by the Parent-Teacher Association of Raleigh requiring the girls of the schools to cease the use of lip sticks, powder, rouge, and the wearing of silk stockings. We note by the daily papers that the girls have given a rejoinder that it will be "silk stockings or none at all." It does seem that the regulation of the habits of the youth have been relegated to the dictate of organizations, the schools, churches, etc., and taken entirely out of the hands of the fathers and mothers; or has it been so neglected by the parents that these societies and organizations, composed of right thinking people, see the necessity of action? We have no quarrel with any girl for wanting to dress in silk, even stockings, if they can be afforded, but our contention is that parental authority should be more strongly exercised. It is an easy matter for the girls to be dressed properly and decorously if the parents so order, and it is the general opinion that a school girl does not need to be so "dressed up" any more than a business woman. It makes it expensive, to even attempt to follow the styles. The use of mascara, lashline and like preparations is certainly not the very best treatment for the eyes and skin of any young girl, and they only give temporary brilliancy to the looks. In a few years the girls themselves will gain that haggard look that should adorn only a dope fiend or a dissipated character. We would advise them against the use of them on general principles.

The Invested Dollar is the Life of Industry

Do you realize the value of an invested dollar?

When the Carolina Coal Company, for instance, started its work in Deep River valley it put money to work. That money has been for years employing hands, producing great prosperity over this country. It has taken wealth from the ground, scattering money among its hands who pass it along until all share in it, and the industry has added enormously to all the values of property in its range.

Money invested in any industry in the community does this.

THERE IS THE VALUE OF THE INVESTED DOLLAR.

The more money we can accumulate and invest the broader our basis of financial industry and our common prosperity.

The place to get money to invest is from our own savings and accumulations. The most helpful investment in this section at the present time is the—
