BEECHAM'S PILLS

ILLUSTRATING WHAT A COUNTY AGENT MEANS

County Agent, W. K. Scott, of Alamance County has outlined the following nine important projects to push during the next six months.

- 1-The first annual picnic in co-operation with the North State Creamery at Burlington about the first of August.
- 2-Continuation of the pure-bred bull campaign.
- 3-An agricultural tour, possibly in Alamance County.
- 4-Poultry culling demonstrations all over the County in August.
- 5-A carload sale of poultry about the last of August.
- 6-Assisting with the Mebane Fair in September.
- 7-Ship a carload of turkeys.
- 9-Hold two sales of pen pigs, probably at Mebane and Burlington.

I may say in connection with (1) that the North State Creamery at Burlington was brought about largely through the influence of the County Agent work.

STONE MOUNTAIN MEMORIAL COINS NOW ON SALE

The Confederate Memorial at Stone Mountain, when completed, will be the greatest monument ever constructed by the hand of man. Across this mammoth background of granite, beginning at the summit of the pectery and sweeping downward 1,350 feet, is being carved in full relief a Panorama representing the Confederate forces and their matchless leaders. Artillery appears at the top, as if coming down the mountain. On the left will be the Confederate calvary in motion. In the center will be carved a colossal group representing the Confederate high command. The central group alone will surpass all other monuments. It will consist of General Robert E. Lee, General Stonewall Jackson, President Jefferson Davis and four outstanding generals now being selected by a commission representing the thirteen Southern States.

To complete this memorial, which will stand as a perpetual tribute to the valor and heroism of the Southern soldier, Confederate Memorial Coins, minted by the United States Government, are now on sale at the price of ONE DOLLAR each. Every Southern man and woman, every boy and girl, in whose veins flows the blood of the heroes of 61-65, should possess one of these beautiful half dollars.

The most splendid pages of Chatham's glorious history are those that recount the valor, heroism, bravery and self sacrifice of her noble sons who wore the grey. Let their descendants and all who revere the memory of their valor and devotion invest a pittance in this most worthy cause.

The coins are now on sale in Chatham at the following places, viz:

- Bank of Pittsboro, Pittsboro, N. C.
- Page Trust Co., Siler City, N. C.
- Moncure Bank and Trust Co., Moncure, N. C.

or may be obtained direct from Miss Margaret H. Womble, Chm. Chatham County Memorial Coin Distribution Committee, Pittsboro, N. C.

METEORS HIT MOON 50 MILES SECOND, DENT IT

This is why So Many Craters Appear On The Dead Planet, Says Scientist

Milions of meteors, hitting the moon with a speed of as much as 50 miles a second, and exploding with a violence greater than that of T. N. T. dynamite, or Nitroglycerine, were responsible for the multitude of craters that can be seen to cover the surface of our satellite, when viewed with a telescope or even a pair of binoculars, according to a new theory proposed by A. C. Gifford of the Hector Observatory at Wellington, New Zealand.

The action of the meteors was much the same as that by which expeditions of the lunar craters on the battlefields of France, when earth thrown into the air by the force of the explosion returned to the ground to form a ring some what higher than the surrounding plain.

These meteors were not greatly different from those that now reach the earth, but while thousands of them enter the earth's atmosphere daily, friction with the air is so great that most of them are burned up before they reach ground, and when this occurs at night, a shooting star is the result. The few that do land have so greatly slowed down that they can do no damage. Since the moon has no appreciable atmosphere, they hit the lunar surface with their full speed, frequently of 40 miles a second. "With this velocity," says Mr. Gifford, "if the meteor is stopped within one-tenth of a second, it will penetrate two miles into the surface. In this time it is changed into gas, but confined temporarily in severely limited space. The pressure is so intense, the expansion so rapid that it is instantaneously shattered and ejected by an explosion 500 times as powerful and much more rapid than that which would result if an equal mass of dynamite were exploded in a cavity within an inner crust."

As further evidence of his theory, Mr. Gifford has calculated the shape of a crater formed in such a way, and his figures closely resemble those of actual craters seen on the moon through a telescope.

YOUR TIRES

by T. S. LINDSEY General Sales Manager Kelly-Springfield Tire Co.

MANY motorists fail to realize that in stopping a motor car quickly they are literally burning up brake bands and tires.

Most motorists know that the gasoline engine develops great power, especially when one is stepping on the gas or trying to make a quick pick-up. When a driver tries to stop this power suddenly, by jamming on the brakes, there is generated, at the point of contact between brake lining and tire, a heat that is truly terrific.

Most motorists know, through experience, that a gasoline engine generates great heat. Yet the amount of heat generated in traveling from a standing start to 25 miles an hour, in a distance of 200 feet, is only slightly greater than that generated on your brake and tire surfaces as you stop your car when traveling at the same speed and within the same distance.

Think of applying this tremendous amount of heat to the comparatively small surfaces on your brake bands and tires, and then you may marvel at the design and manufacturing methods that produce fabrics able to withstand the punishment.

When brakes are applied with such pressure that the wheels slide, heat and wear are transferred to that one small point of a tire which is in contact with the road surface. If four-wheel brakes are used this friction is, of course, between four tires and the road surface. From one and one-half times to double the braking effect is secured by four-wheel brakes as against brakes on the rear wheels only.
