

Town and County Briefs

The Pittsboro school opened yesterday with the usual formalities.

Mesdames George Brooks and W. P. Horton, teachers in the Pittsboro school, will be at home Friday evening to the ladies.

Mrs. J. L. Sargent and Mrs. Ivey Hill of Asheville recently visited Mrs. N. M. Hill.

Miss Lillie H. Hill of Leaksville is visiting her mother, Mrs. N. M. Hill.

Misses Camilla and Thera Powell have returned from an extended visit to their aunt, Miss Lillie H. Hill.

Melton Barbee, a young man of the northeastern part of the county, is boarding with Jailer Burns because of alleged drunkenness and disorderly conduct on the highway.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Mineham and children of Okechabee, Florida, spent a few days this week with Pauline and Emily Taylor. People in Pittsboro will remember Mrs. Mineham as Miss Ruth Angier.

Miss Beulah Johnson, of Raleigh, spent the week-end with Catherine Johnson.

Little Miss Virginia Hayes Lindley is spending the week-end with her grandparents in Raeford.

Mrs. W. H. Cox and daughter returned to Laurinburg Saturday after a visit of ten days to her brothers and sisters in Pittsboro.

Mr. Trout's show, which was here all last week, is in Sanford this week. Rain two nights caused a loss here. In fact, it is hard to see how a show of that size can be run at 10 and 20 cents admission.

The Brooks reunion last week is reported as very enjoyable. About a hundred were present.

Notice the advertisement of the auction sale of Horace Q. Jones' farm 3 miles west of Siler City on Sept. 11. This is a good farm, well located, and near enough to the thriving town of Siler City to make it a desirable location for farmers who wish a local market for truck and the opportunity to send their children to a good school. Mr. G. D. Gurley, a former resident of Siler City, has charge of the sale.

Mrs. A. B. Campen, of Mechanic, fifth-grade teacher for the Pittsboro school, arrived Monday. She will make her home with her sister, Mrs. E. A. Farrell.

Little Miss Cara White has suffered considerably this week from the effects of two nails stuck in one of her feet last week.

The Record would like to have the help of two or three active boys from six o'clock to nine on Wednesday evenings. With school open and the days getting shorter, the press work and mailing will apparently have to be done at night.

Drivers Should Be Licensed

(From the Chapel Hill Weekly) Mark Twain said that people were always talking about the weather but nobody ever did automobile accidents. Nothing else, unless it be prohibition, is the subject of so many aimless lamentations, so much vain talk. Every day the newspapers chronicle automobile fatalities on their front pages; and the editorial pages repeat the solemn declaration that drivers ought to be more careful. Too much speed is usually the cause of the trouble. Yet let some zealous constable begin to arrest speeders on a state highway, and at once there arises a wail of distress that can be heard from Currituck to Cherokee. And usually, before there has been time to learn the merits of the case, many of the very same newspapers which have been deploping the death roll publish stories that are plainly colored with sympathy for the drivers and hostility to the officer of the law.

Of course it is impossible to end accidents entirely, just as it is impossible to devise a system of taxation that will please everybody, to make all politicians honest, to eradicate kissing among flappers and drug-store cowboys, or to attain absolute perfection in anything. Yet it does seem that a civilization that pretends to any concern for human life might venture to take some move to discourage reckless driving.

The very first essential, if there is to be any improvement at all, is responsibility on the part of drivers. And yet the state of North Carolina allows anybody who will, to drive an automobile; and a few scattered policemen are expected to see that due caution is observed!

Indian Chief Gives Last Public Dance

Webster, S. D.—Sioux Indians, resplendent in feathers and paint and the native garb in which they roamed the plains before the coming of the white men, danced before a crowd of thousands from all over north-eastern South Dakota at the north end of Pickerel lake on Adam's beach. The dance lasted all one night recently and brought to an end a two-day celebration and barbecue for which the Indians assembled.

A feature of the program was the last public dance of Chief Williams, aged and widely known Sioux leader, who declared he had known and loved the white man since first becoming acquainted with him at Montreal when the whites were moving into the northwest. Chief Williams had four sons in the American army in the World war. Donning feathers and paint, the aged warrior danced about thirty seconds and then made a speech to the assembled crowd. He said this would be the last time he would ever dance in his native costume.

Intermarriage Blots

Out Hawaiian Races Honolulu.—If interracial marriages in Hawaii continue at the present rate, it will be a wise child, after a few generations, who even knows to what race his ancestors belonged, in the belief of Dr. Romanson Adams, head of the department of sociology at the University of Hawaii.

Thirty-five per cent of the marriages of white men in the islands are with women of other races, Doctor Adams said. More white men than women contract interracial marriage, because there are more white men here, owing to the presence of large numbers of soldiers.

The pure-blooded Hawaiians and Portuguese are disappearing, he said, while the part-Hawaiian and part-Portuguese groups are growing.
