Brick Haven News

Mr. David Thomas of Raleigh was a visitor here yesterday.
 Mr. W. O. Mills, Mr. Edwin Mills and two children of Raleigh spent Sunday here with Mrs. W. O. Mills.
 Mr. Dewey Garrett of Durham visited friends in Brickhaven Sunday.
 Mr. and Mrs. Grady Leach spent a few hours Friday afternoon visiting Mr. Clinton Seawell and Miss Cecil Seawell. They were en route home from their bridal trip, which included the Sesqui-Centennial and other points of interest.
 The Red Cross workers in this section turned in forty members in the Annual Roll Call. The territory canvassed included that from Columbia to Monrovia.
 Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Kennedy were called to Durham Sunday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Kennedy's uncle, Mr. M. K. Allen.
 The Brickhaven Community Club will hold its regular monthly meeting on Monday evening at 7:15.
 The annual bazaar of the club given Saturday evening was a most successful one.
 The bazaar articles were measured and packed according to his or her weight. A lunch consisting of bismark cheese and chicken salad sandwiches, with cocoa or coffee, was served free of charge to all measured (which included everyone).
 The candy booth was exceptionally pretty with its lattice work of pink tinsel with trailing cedar and hanked with pine. The delicious home-made candy found ready sale.
 The bazaar articles were numerous and beautiful and under the skillful engineering of Mr. F. M. Nash brought excellent prices. The net profit amounted to about $45, which sum will be added to the Club funds.

The Expression Class of Pittsboro High School is now working on Elizabeth McFadden's Christmas play, entitled "Why the Chimes Rang" to be given December 21. The class will be assisted by a chorus choir from the music department of the Woman's Club.

Two Women

(From the Chapel Hill Weekly)
 Within the last few months America has been visited by two distinguished women of Europe. Queen Marie of Rumania and Lady Nancy Astor of England. And as we look back upon their coming and going, and what they said and did while on these shores, we are moved to draw a comparison.
 When she arrived in New York Lady Astor was interviewed, as was inevitable, by the newspaper reporters. There was not a trace of offishness about her. She answered questions affably, and she gave the camera men free play with herself and her children. But she went through it all without the least sacrifice of dignity. Reading about her in the newspapers, you knew, instinctively, that here was a thoroughbred.
 Queen Marie came. Before she landed a newspaper had begun to print her signed articles about how dearly she loved America. And, as she traveled back and forth through the country, her outgivings were hopelessly maudlin. Wherever she went the denizens of this democratic land outdid themselves in fawning and flattery, and she repaid them in kind. Her companions on the tour, vying with one another for the royal favor, got to clawing each other like Kilkenny cats. Before she embarked for home all discerning persons were pretty well disgusted with her.

This monarch did much to dispel the notion that royalty and good breeding go together. She made a sad show of herself compared with the transplanted Virginian who is a member of Parliament.

Watching It Grow.

It is interesting to see how often the DESIRE to make a savings-bank fund grow gives to its owner the POWER to make it grow.

Every officer in a savings bank has observed this. Persons who have never been able to save a cent in their lives frequently find it easy to do so, once they have opened a savings bank account.

Start the saving habit now. One dollar opens an account here.
