

THE TIGER TRAIL

by Edison Marshall Illustrations by PAUL FREHM

CHAPTER I

Tampa is always quiet in mid-afternoon. It is always a tranquil time of day, and the best way to spend it is to sit and drink many cold drinks of lime and lemon.

I used to spend it that way except when out on canis. Jefferson Davis Lincoln, who watches over me and answers my bells and sweeps my office and with inimitable bows guides my patients to their chairs, can make as refreshing a concoction out of a little limejuice and mint and seltzer-water as can be imagined.

Perhaps the story of Southley Downs should begin with that August afternoon beside Useppa island. Alexander Pierce and I were tarpon fishing.

When I think of Alexander Pierce it is always with a fishing rod in his hand. He was at his best then. To see him on the street one could easily guess that he was a fisherman, but never a detective. There is no practice in the world that leaves its mark upon a man's face more clearly than fishing. Pierce had that mark. He had singularly quiet eyes—eyes that looked farther than most telescopes, but yet not seemingly keen or alert. He had a lean, weather-beaten face, scribed and rescribed with lines. His hair was curiously thin—and people rather expected it to be gray. But when he removed his hat it was seen to be rather light brown and fine.

"So you go back to your work tomorrow," I said. "I'm sorry you can't stay longer."

"Not as sorry as I am, doc," he replied. "If it's between fish and thieves, I choose fish every time. They are more gentlemanly, and require a finer art. One's daily bread, you know! But why don't you stay and fish without me?"

"Fishing for tarpon with anybody except Alexander the Great would give me no thrill at all," I told him. "I'd sooner go to my house party."

"Dancing around in a ballroom when you could be dancing around on the sea with a tarpon! By the way, where did you say you were going for this riotous week?"

"To a big old manor house in the interior—Southley Downs."

"Southley," he muttered. "His name doesn't happen to be Peter Southley, does it?"

"That happens to be his name."

"An old man—seventy-five years of age—white-haired, heavily built, about as tall as you, with a peculiar nervous twitch to his eyes?"

"That's Peter Southley. I don't know him well. I met him at my club in Tampa, when he was visiting the Martins. And I can't understand what made him ask me. I got the letter just a couple of days ago, and he promises fishing and shooting and golf of the best. Asked me for a full week, and even seemed a trifle hectic about it—as if he wanted me very badly. I'll stay a day or two, at least."

"Queer thing," he muttered. "Such a queer thing. But there doesn't seem to be any further doubt."

I was scorched by curiosity; but I knew enough not to ask questions. "You're a sort of a trustworthy quack, Long," he remarked at last. I began to be hopeful; but I knew my cue.

"Very blundering, I'm afraid, Alex."

"Of course your years are against you—only thirty-three. Yet they say that you have a cool hand with a scalpel. Steady hand means steady nerves, and steady nerves means you're to be trusted in a pinch. You handled that Wildmash problem pretty well, too. Tell me—have you any deep, personal regard for this man Southley?"

"Not really." I'd barely met the man. "I did think he was a kindly old chap; very agreeable, and with a fine taste for vintage."

"I rather thought that might describe him. Long, I want you to keep your eyes open when you are at his house. I want you to watch—all the time."

"Alexander, you are the last man in the world to ask me to do anything that is the slightest breach in loyalty between a guest and his host."

"I rather hope I am, Long—yet a detective gets remorseless. I must guard against it. In this case—well, in this case, I should say it was quite otherwise. Maybe you don't know what I mean. I'm not sure that I know myself. I have rather vague ideas—instincts, I guess you'd call them. I can't tell you what prompts them. I don't know myself. Anyway, you can be sure that I don't want you to take any position unbecoming a guest."

"Then tell me—what am I to do?"

He went on as if I hadn't questioned him. "Perhaps I'm playing a blind lead; but my instincts tell me otherwise. It is simply this. Less than a year ago, the detective agency with which I have unofficial connections would have paid me the biggest fee of my lifetime to find this same Peter H. Southley. Only his name isn't that, or anything like it. It is, in reality, Andrew Lasson."

"You mean—that the old man is going under an alias?"

"I'll correct that a little. I don't know that his real name is Andrew Lasson. I don't know that it isn't Southley. Names don't much matter, you know. At sundry times I've been known through the West as Amos Schmidt. His real name may be Southley, and it may be Lasson, and it may be something else. All I know is for a long period of time the man who calls himself Southley was known as Andrew Lasson. I know that he landed in America forty years ago as Andrew Lasson. What his name was before that, I don't know. I know that about a year ago inquiries came from a certain man in England to find at all costs Andrew Lasson. The fee was to be tremendous, most of which was to be paid a year after we found him. The man's name was Roderick—at least, that's what he told us. His signature was that of an old man. After a while his son—a big, dark, goodlooking man of about thirty-five—came to see us personally. Well, we started to work. We traced just long enough to discover that Andrew Lasson had moved South from New York as Peter H. Southley—when Roderick called us off. He said he'd found his party himself."

"Perhaps it was just some legal mix-up—hair to an estate, or something?" Southley is tremendously wealthy."

"Possibly. But I did get interested. I never saw such a tireless pair of hunters as these Rodericks were. And when you're down for this week-end party I want you to keep ears and eyes wide open—and, of course, lips closed."

The journey to Southley Downs is distinguished by some of the most beautiful scenery in Florida, but I didn't look at it.

The porter showed me my seat at the seaboard station, and it is unbelievably true that ten minutes had passed before I ever noticed the dainty little hat on a girl almost the length of the car ahead. And it is a queer thing that my first thought after noticing it was that ten minutes had been wasted: There is no accounting for the vagaries of the human mind. It wasn't that I'm the kind of man that can stand before a shop window and spend an enjoyable ten minutes gazing at creations of millinery.

There was a feeling from the first that if it should only be lifted off it would reveal a great, lovely heap of shimmering brown hair, arching a face as pretty and piquant as the eyes of man could wish to see. It was just that kind of a hat.

The train stopped at a station, and a man in the opposite row of seats from mine left the train. His chair was considerably nearer the front of the car than mine, so I slipped into it. The girl's profile was plainly visible to me now.

She wore a little tailored suit of blue, and her silken bag indicated a week-end visit with a girl friend on the shore. It was one of those pretty conceits that girls love, cut up into a hundred delectable pockets for toilet articles. I could not watch her so intently now. I pretended to gaze out of the window, but the panorama slipped by me without leaving a single impression in my memory. Then, turning once more, our eyes met.

All at once I saw that her color was gone. I watched her more intently. The fatigue of the journey, combined with some nervous strain that I could not understand, were having an actual, tangible effect on her physical being. I began to feel glad that I was a doctor. Her position had changed, too. I had to look twice to see what she was doing.

She no longer stared at the back of the seat. She was sitting upright, almost rigid in her chair, and her eyes were on the landscape outside the window. I followed their line of sight, and saw at once that we were passing through some great country estate. An enormous house, a great white palatial structure of style of long ago, perched upon a near-by hill. It looked as big as the castles of Europe, and on the hillside were clustered such outbuildings as stables and garages. There were wide sweeps of meadow, a curving driveway, and in the most astounding contract the deep fastness of tropical jungle. For we were in the interior of southern Florida, as verdant a place as is to be found in all of North America.

Human senses are not entirely reliable. On the witness stand I could not swear exactly what I saw. As if caught in the frozen fascination with which the girl watched the passing panorama, I was still following the line of her vision. It seemed to me that I caught a glimpse of something yellow in the thicket—a curious, brilliant yellow in great splashes of color. It was just a glimpse, and yet I had dim reasons for thinking that the yellow form was living.

It might have been just a gayly colored plant, or a flash of bird wings, or even a tawny dog. I should say that its size might correspond to that of an enormous hound. It might have been a yellow calf, or perhaps only the sunlight against dark water. It didn't matter, anyway. The only thing that did matter, or that I remembered for hours afterward, was that the girl suddenly slipped down to the floor in a dead faint.

In an instant she was in my arms. I don't remember how she came there. I have no remembrance of exertion in leaping to her chair or picking her up. She was simply there when I again looked into her face, her slender body against my breast, her head resting on the muscle of my left arm, her white face uplifted, and unconsciousness upon her.

If I had a single impression as I carried her to the women's room, it was certainly not of her weight. She seemed to have no weight at all. But I did see the lovely shadow her eyelashes made against the whiteness of her face.

The woman picked up the silken week-end bag that the unconscious girl had carried and drew the curtain for me. She was a large, cherry-faced matron, capable and determined, and under ordinary circumstances I would have felt perfectly safe in leaving my patient in her hands. But in this case, I went to work to effect the recovery myself. It was the most simple form of ordinary faint; so I sent the woman for smelling salts.

"Maybe she's got some in her bag," she suggested.

I peered into the pretty conceit that the woman had brought, but I found no perfumed salts. It was a far different thing that met my eyes. I like to think that my face gave no sign, that the woman had no inkling of the little shiver of wonderment that went through every nerve.

What I saw would not have been unusual under different circumstances. In the bottom of a trunk, or pushed into the cushions of an automobile seat, or even in a suit case, perhaps I would not have glanced twice at it. But in this bag, with the most intimate articles for daily use, it seemed incongruous to a horrible degree.

It was a dark, ugly automatic pistol, brand-new, and with a full magazine of cartridges.

Revolving the unconscious girl was the work of a moment. But it almost made me miss my station.

Her eyes opened and rested upon me. I do not know with what white magic that glance was instilled. But it went deep into me, and left a curious warmth and elation. I know what no other eyes had ever looked at me in quite that way, or had the same effect upon me. Perhaps it was their curious darkness, or even the haunting sorrow that could not possibly be denied.

(Continued Next Week)

How often in the stilly night, I've barked my shins on every flight And cursed the irony of it— That I, and not the light was lit.

FOR SALE

1,000 acres of land for sale near Moncure, Chatham county, N. C., 30 miles west of both Raleigh and Durham. It is divided into tracts at 18 to 357 acres. Some clay land and some sandy land. It's well wooded and some cleared. Several with houses and improvements. Average price from $10 to $15 per acre. 30 years in which to pay. If you live in central North Carolina come to see rather than write. If you have land for sale confer with me.

W. W. Stedman
Moncure, N. C.

Political Advertising

NOTICE

I hereby announce my candidacy for Register of Deeds of Chatham county, North Carolina, subject to the will of the Democratic party to be expressed in the June primary. This March 20th 1928.

D. E. MURCHISON,
Gulf, N. C.

FOR SHERIFF

To the Democratic Party of Chatham County:

I hereby announce that I am a candidate for nomination for Sheriff of Chatham county, subject to the action of the democratic primary. Yours with best wishes,

G. WALKER BLAIR.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I announce myself as a candidate for Sheriff, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, June 2nd. I shall very much appreciate your support, and if elected will serve you

DR. J. C. MANN

the well-known
EYESIGHT SPECIALIST

will be at Dr. Farrell's office, Pittsboro, Tuesday May 22, and at Dr. Thomas' Office, Siler City Thursday, May 24, from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m.

to the best of my ability.

Respectfully,
W. T. JOHNSON.

FOR REGISTERS OF DEEDS

To the People of Chatham County: I hereby announce myself a candidate for the Register of Deeds office of Chatham county, subject to your approval in the Democratic primary in June 1928. If I am renominated and elected to succeed myself in office, I shall endeavor to render the best service possible. Thanking you for the past support given me, and soliciting a continuance of the same in the coming primary,

I am yours truly,
C. C. POE,

ANNOUNCEMENT

I do hereby announce my candidacy for nomination of Commissioner of Chatham County, to be determined in the Democratic primary to be held in June.

W. T. BROOKS.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I do hereby announce my candidacy for nomination of Commissioner of Chatham County, to be determined in the Democratic primary to be held in June.

R. J. JOHNSON.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I do hereby announce my candidacy for nomination of Commissioner of Chatham County to be determined in the Democratic primary to be held in June.

C. D. MOORE.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for county commissioner, subject to the action of the Democratic primary June 2nd. I shall be appreciated.

EUGENE E. WALDEN.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I hereby announce myself a candidate for county commissioner, subject to the action of the Democratic primary of June 2nd. Your support will be appreciated.

Respectfully,
ROBERT T. FARRELL.

ANNOUNCEMENT

At the solicitation of many friends I hereby announce myself as a candidate for county commissioner, subject to the action of the Democratic primary of June 2. Your support will be appreciated.

Respectfully,
J. B. MILLS.

LEGALS

NOTICE

Having qualified as the administrator of the estate of the late G. S. Williams, deceased, this is to notify all persons having claims against said estate to present them to the undersigned on or before the 10th day of May 1929, or this notice will be pleaded in bar of their recovery, and all persons indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate settlement of the same.

This the 8th day of May, 1928.

J. R. LASSITER, Administrator.
A. C. Ray, Atty.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE

Having qualified as administrator of the estate of B. F. Tyson, deceased, I hereby warn all persons having claims against the estate to present them duly proven on or before April 23, 1929, or this notice will be pleaded in bar of their recovery. All persons owing the estate will please make early payment.

This 23rd day of April, 1928.

L. A. TYSON, Administrator.
May 31-6tp

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a decree made and entered in that certain special proceeding now pending in the Superior Court of Chatham County, North Carolina, entitled "J. H. Norwood, administrator of Jennette Tripp, deceased -vs- E. W. Tripp, et al.," the undersigned Commissioner will, on Saturday the 2nd day of June, 1928, at 12:00 o'clock noon, in front of the Courthouse door in Pittsboro, Chatham county, North Carolina, offer for sale to the highest bidder for cash all that certain tract or parcel of land lying and being in Baldwin Township, Chatham County, North Carolina, adjoining the lands of C. A. Tripp, J. R. Mann, Annie Burns, et als, and bounded and described as follows, viz:

Bounded on the north by C. A. Tripp; on the east by Annie Burns; on the south by M. B. Cole and A. W. Norwood land; on the west by J. R. Mann, near the Mt. Pleasant road, about eight miles from Chapel Hill, known as the Emeline Tripp land, and deeded to Evender Tripp for the purpose above stated, estimated to contain 106 acres, more or less. SAVE AND EXCEPT FOURTEEN (14) acres heretofore sold off to E. T. Tripp.

This the 1st day of May, 1928.

W. P. HORTON, Commissioner

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in that certain special proceeding now pending in the Superior court of Chatham county, North Carolina, No. 365, entitled "Annie Crump, administratrix of Oliver Crump, deceased, vs. William Crump, Elijah Crump, et als," the undersigned commissioners will, on Saturday the 26th day of May, 1928, at 12 o'clock noon, in front of the courthouse door in Pittsboro, Chatham County, North Carolina, offer for sale to the highest bidder for cash all that certain tract or parcel of land lying and being in Haw river township, Chatham county, North Carolina, and being more fully described and defined as follows, viz:

Lying and being in or near Haywood, Haw River township, Chatham county, N. C., and lying on the south side of the State Highway, and on the east side of the road that runs off from the State Highway to Haywood, said lot being bounded on the North by said state highway, on the west by Haywood road; on the south by Seaboard Airline Railway right of way, containing about one-half acre, more or less, and being known as the "Oliver Crump Homeplace."

This 2nd day of May, 1928.

Time of sale—May 26th, 1928, 12 o'clock.

Place of sale—Courthouse door of Pittsboro, N. C.

Terms of sale—Cash.

A. C. RAY,
WADE BARBER, Com'rs

Beginning at an ash on the west side of branch, and running N 82 1-2 degrees west 1951 feet to a stone; thence N 7 1-2 degrees E 336 feet to a stone and pointers; thence S 62 1-2 degrees E 1924 feet to a W 338.2 feet to an ash on the west side of the branch, the point of beginning, containing 15 acres, more or less.

This April 25th, 1928.

W. P. HORTON, Com. May 3, 6tc

special proceeding docket of said court, the undersigned Commissioner will, on Saturday the 26th day of May, 1928, at 12 o'clock, noon, in front of the courthouse door in Pittsboro, Chatham county, North Carolina, offer for sale, to the highest bidder for cash, at public auction, that certain tract or parcel of land lying and being in Chatham county, North Carolina, and being more fully described and defined as follows, viz:

Beginning at an ash on the west side of branch, and running N 82 1-2 degrees west 1951 feet to a stone; thence N 7 1-2 degrees E 336 feet to a stone and pointers; thence S 62 1-2 degrees E 1924 feet to a W 338.2 feet to an ash on the west side of the branch, the point of beginning, containing 15 acres, more or less.

This April 25th, 1928.

W. P. HORTON, Com. May 3, 6tc

EXECUTOR'S NOTICE

Having qualified as executor of the last will and testament of Mrs. Clara Calvert, late of Chatham county, I hereby warn all persons having claims against the estate to present them duly proven on or before the 15th day of April, 1929, or this notice will be pleaded in bar of their recovery. All persons owing the estate are asked to make early settlement.

This 15th day of April 1928.

ANNIE L. BYNUM, Executor.
Siler and Barber, Atty.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain order of the Superior court of Chatham county, North Carolina, in a special proceeding entitled "H. T. Branson, administrator, of the estate of John Branson, deceased, vs. Roland Branson, et als," the same being numbered No. 378 upon the

Kill Germ Laden Flies

—and keep them away. Bee Brand Insect Powder or Liquid kills Flies, Ants, Roaches, Poultry Lice, Mosquitoes, Fleas, Bed Bugs, and other insects. Won't spot or stain. Use powder on plants and pets. Write us for FREE insect booklet. If dealer can't supply, we will ship by parcel post at prices named. McCORMICK & CO., Baltimore, Md.

BEE BRAND
Powder	Liquid
10c & 25c	50c & 75c
50c & $1.00	$1.25
30c (Spray Gun)	35c

Bee Brand INSECT POWDER OR LIQUID

CEDRAR ODOR

Appearance Gives Pride Protection Gives Profits

YOU want more than "looks" when you paint. A cheap, inferior house paint may temporarily improve appearances, but it fails to protect.

Lucas Tinted Gloss Paint

furnishes a durable protection against weather and decay. It is the result of 75 years of improvement and experience in manufacturing high grade paints. It is lowest in cost per square foot per year.

The Hardware Store, Inc.
SILER CITY, N. C.

Play Safe

Do you depend upon your car to help you in your daily work? If so, bring it to us for regular attention.

Our skilled mechanics will keep your car in A-1 condition; and then you can KNOW it will always be READY.

Our Service is QUICK
Our prices are LOW

Let US care for YOUR car.

Weeks Motor Co.
"Trade With Us"
Pittsboro, North Carolina