

CONGRESSMAN POU UNDER REGIME OF THE DEMOCRATS

T. B. Ward, of Wilson, Sets Fourth Record of E. W. Pou, Congressman From Fourth District

The people of the Fourth district, of course, know that Representative Edward W. Pou took a prominent part in putting through Congress the program of legislation recommended by President Wilson, but they may not fully realize the power and influence wielded by Mr. Pou during the Democratic regime.

While Mr. Pou filled that position he was often sent for by the President, and received many letters concerning the best way to expedite the passage of the legislation recommended to Congress.

To show the position occupied by Mr. Pou, I reproduce below two paragraphs from a letter addressed by President Wilson to Mr. Pou concerning the Passport Bill which was promptly put through the House upon the request of the President.

"THE WHITE HOUSE
Washington
1 May, 1918.

My dear Mr. Pou:
I am afraid you will think I am always running to you, but I beg you to believe, and I feel sure you will believe, that I do so only when the matter seems of critical importance.

My plea now is that it is of vital importance that the Passport Bill (H. R. 10264), which has been favorably reported to the House by the Committee on Foreign Affairs, should be acted upon as quickly as possible, in order that we may control exits and entrances across the Mexican border.

Cordially and sincerely yours,
(Signed) WOODROW WILSON.

I also recall another very interesting incident. President Wilson recommended to Congress the passing of a measure which would provide for the leasing of the water power controlled by the Federal Government.

There had been efforts to put through Congress such a bill for many years, but these efforts were not attended with success until Mr. Wilson became President.

He appointed a corps of experts with instructions to draft a water power bill along certain lines indicated. After months of study, these experts prepared the bill. A meeting of about fifty Members and Senators was held at the White House, as I recall, during the last days of August, 1918. Mr. Wilson addressed the meeting explaining the general features of the water power bill.

which would take from the table in the Foreign Affairs Committee the McLemore Resolution and bring the same before the House in order that a vote might be speedily taken and that the world might know just what the attitude of America was with respect to this resolution.

I remember how Mr. Pou led the fight. He made a speech about fifteen minutes long which was telegraphed around the world. I remember how he brought the House to its feet denying an alleged statement of the President with respect to war with Germany.

It had been reported that the President had said that war with Germany might not be so undesirable in the situation presented at that time.

After a conference with Mr. Wilson, Mr. Pou made the speech mentioned. Referring to the rumor that the President might not be opposed to America becoming involved in war with Germany, Mr. Pou said "that all the imps of hell never concocted a bigger lie."

While I worked with Mr. Pou for eight years and naturally may be accused of being prejudiced in his favor, I cannot help believing that it would be unwise to retire a man who knows the running of the House so well and who has been so faithful to his people for almost a generation.

(Signed) T. B. WARD,
