THE RUBICON PASSED. The recent glorious result of the Maryland ction, shows that the Rubicon is fairly passed -that the victorious cohorts of the great Whig army are again in the field, duly armed for the contest -- that the Whig hunner is again unfurled, under the broad and ample folds of which, with the ever glorious battle-ary of "Principles, not men," a triumphagt victory again awaits us, as in

MASSACHUSETTS.

Governor Bargos, in his recent Inaugural, states the increase of population in Massachusetts, from 1830 to 1840, to be equal to that of all the other New England States together. She has also, at this time, more people to the square mile than any other State in the Union. She has $42,000,000 invested in manufactures, and the annual value of goods manufactured is $80,000,000. The State pays annually, $1,000,000 for education .-The State debt is a trifle over $6,000,000, which she in both able and willing to pay. She owns $1,000,000 of Stock. She mvests $12,-000,000 in the Eastern fisheries.

COUNTERFEITS.

We learn that notes of the "Planter's and Mechanic's Bank of S. C."-10 dollar counterfeits -are in circulation, the general appearance of which, at first glance, is very good. The paper in the counterfeit is of a much whiter appearance than in the genuine-numbering and filling up in a stiff, bad, hand-writing-Cashier's name, S. T. Robinson, in a stiff, tremulous hand-President's name, DANIEL RAVENEL, in the countefeits is DANIEL RAVENES. The Counterfeits, we have seen, are dated 28th May, 1842.

We learn, by the St. Louis Democrat of the 12th inst., the painful intelligence of the suicide of Gov. Reynolds. We have not learned the full particulars, but give the intelligence as

THE NORTH CAROLINA UNIVERSITY MAGAZINE.

The subject of our national and State literature s one of peculiar importance to every enlightened citizen. In whatever light he views it, whether as a source of innocent amusement, or one of the firmest pillars of our Republic, be still regards it with increasing interest. Upon our literary achievements, as well as those of our civil and military institutions, our reputation abroad, and, in some measure, our security depend. For, if the truth of the maxim be admitted, that "knowledge is power," it is reasonable to conclude, that wherever we are known as a literary, we shall be accredited as comparatively a wise and strong na-

We have been led into this train of though from a perusal of the first number of a new Periodical, issued for the present in this City, and bearing the title which heads this paragraph. The contributors to the work, are the Senior Class attached to the University of North Caroline. The publisher is Mr. THOMAS LORING, who offers this really elegantly executed work at the moderate price of $3 per annum.

We have looked over the number in question with much interest, and perceive that its contents are almost entirely original. This would be, perhaps, no very strong recommendation, were they merely original in the ordinary acceptance of the term; but the articles, numerous and diversified, are really good, each in their way. Twenty called to order, and the meeting opened by a feryears ago, such a publication in North-Carolina, would have been looked upon as a literary phenomenon, and it conclusively proves two things That there is a much higher cultivation of the mind, generally, among the rising generation And, that an enterprising and intelligent publisher can put it successfully into requisition.

BURNS, the murderer, in custody of the Marshal, arrived in Augusta, Ga. on the 19th nst. and was committed to prison to await his trial at the June term of the Superior Court.

SKILFUL SURGERY.

A very delicate and interesting surgical operation was performed at the Baltimore Infirmary on the 16th uit. The patient was a beautiful and interesting little boy, aged twenty months, who had, some two months ago, got a water-melon seed in his windpipe, from the effects of which he had suffered much, and in time must inevitably have died. The operation of "Tracheotomy," as it is technically termed, was performed in the short space of ten minutes. The patient was placed on a table in the centre of the hall, his head held steadily and an incision made by the operator, about three-fourths of an inch in length, through the integuments of the throat. This being accomplished, by means of other instruments the orifice was distended, and in a moment subsequent, the professor's most intricate operation forced out of the windpipe.

Wake Forest, Feb. 23d, '44. Mr. Gales: I was present, yesterday, at the celebration of Washington's birth-day, and the dedication of the Log Cabin at Forestville, and a most enthusiastic meeting it was, I assure you. Such, as I have not witnessed since the days of 1840. Every Whig seemed buoyed up at the opportunity of re-enlisting as a soldier of the same cause, in which he had gallantly and victoriously fought in bygone days. The Club was vent Prayer to the Throne of Grace by Elder THOMAS CHOCKER, after which the Secretary read Washington's Farewell Address. At its close, Gen. D. S. CRENSHAW delivered an Address which was received with enthusiastic cheering. I will not dwell on its merits, but give the following extract from it : " In the name of WASHexcron, on Columbia's free soil, I dedicate this Cabin to the best interests of the country, and the advancement of HENRY CLAY, and earnestly solicit the co-operation of every friend of freedom, who desires to aid in preserving free from contamination those principles which he has bequeathed to us."

The Secretary's book was then opened, and proclamation made that all who wished to join the Club should register their names; whereupon, 40 came forward for that purpose,

Calls being made for Mr. SULT, he rose and delivered a short and spiri.ed Speech, which gave great galisfaction, P. H. Winston was then called out, and we have seldom heard so able a defence of Whig principles He dwelt at some length on the position our party at present occupies, showing it to be more in accordance with Democracy as entertained by WASHINGTON and JEFFERSON than that professed by modern Demoof Hamilton. His Speech gave great satisfaction, and we were proud to hear one so young contending so ably for Whig principles.

There were between 80 and 100 persons present, and the meeting broke up in perfect good feeling and harmony, determined to attend the next assembling of the Club on the second Saturday of March, at 2 o'clock. We should be was successfully crowned by the seed being pleased, at that time, to see our Whig brethren of Wake County, and particularly, those of the A COON. Press in Raleigh.

FOR THE REGISTER.

Mr Gales: Not since the election of Gen HARRISON, have I been more gratified, politicaly, than I was to see in the Register of the 9th, the name of Gov. Morenead brought forward by a correspondent, as the Candidate of the Whig party, for the office of Vice President of the United States.

Gov. Morement is eminently qualified in every respect to fill that office, or the office of President, should there again be a vacancy by the act of Providence. I am surprised that his name has not been sooner brought forward by his friends in this State, to fill that high and responsible office. I have known Gov. Morehead ever since he was a Collegian, and as your correspondent very justly remarks, he is a great and a good man; and I can say with all sincerity, that I have never known his superior. Take him altogether, he is one of Nature's noblest sons; no man has a greater reputation among his acquaintances for native intellect. I have conversed with many Whigs during the last week, and they all seem perfectly delighted at the idea of getting up a Ticket for CLAY and MOREBEAD. What a tremendous vote such a Ticket would receive in this State! And I may say in other States too, when the Governor's character is known and understond. His character, in many respects, is more like Gen. HARRISON's than any one with whom I am acquainted.

I expect honest John Davis will have many warm friends in the National Convention. He is gentleman of inestimable worth, for whom the Whigs entertain the kindest feelings, and will support has should be be the nominee of the Convention; but, notwithstanding all the regard we have for him, we would much rather see Gov. Morehead on the Whig Ticket for the office of Vice President. Mareachusetts would have no right to complain, if Gov. Morehead should receive the nomination. She has already had her share of Federal offices, and North Carolina on the other hand, has repeatedly been overlooked in that particular, when she has always been able to bring forward as many gentlemen of real talents as any other State in the Union. If Mr. BADGER, and the Hon. A. H. SHEPPERD, and the other gentlemen composing the Delegation from this State to the National Convention, will take A LOWLANDER.

ESCAPE FROM A TIGER -Wallace, the musician, is a remarkable man in more ways than one. A prodigy of musical genius, he has also been a wanderer in almost every part of the world, and has encountered adventures of the wildest and most perilous character. A writer in the Boston Mercantile Journal gives the following instance:

A few years since, while in India, a friend reated to me a miraculous escape of one of his friends, in a tiger hunt. As the hero of the adventure is now in Boston, where he has gained great celebrity as a musical artiste, as well as for his quiet demeanour and gentlemanly deportment, it may not be uninteresting to relate it.

Early in the year of 1836, a large party was ormed in Upper India, on the West bank of the Ganges, about seventeen hundred miles above Calcutta, to hunt togers which abounded in that

The party consisted of about three hundred persons, Europeans and natives, some mounted-on elephants and some mounted on horses. Among the latter was a young man who had acquired great celebrity throughout ladin as a pistol shot, as well as for coolness, courage and presence of mind in the bour of danger, to which Europeans who regide in those remote settlements are 'con-

The party had passed most of the morning in shooting small game, without any indication being given of the proximity of the ferocious beasts they were in search of. Suddenly, as they approached a jungle, one of the elephants shewed signs of alarm, and gave notice of the vicinity of a tiger. The party who were on the elephant observing the bushes to move, fired among them, in hopes of wounding the animal. The young pero of the adventure was at the time within few yards of the jungle, advancing to quiet his restive horse, which was much frightened. This gun hung carelessly on the pomme! of his saddle, when the jungle opened at his side and an enormous tiger sprang upon his horse, lacerating his shoulder, and tearing out some of the horse's ribs and entrails; as they rolled to the ground, the gun was thrown to the distance of several feet, and the gentleman was for a moment stunned by

Recovering his consciousness and presence of mind in a moment, he drew a pietol from his boit. and observing the tiger, which had been carried by impetuous bounds, some yards beyond him, preparing to renew his spring, he raised himself on one knee, and taking deliberate aim, fired just as the tigor bounded forward. The ball entered the head between the eyes, penetrated and lodged in the brain, and the tiger fell dead upon his vanquisher, crushing him, with his enormous weight, to the earth, and seriously bruising and

The whole event passed in much less time than it takes to relate it. The rest of the party who week not far from the scene of action, hurried to the assistance of their friend, raising him from the ground in a state of insensibility. He was conveyed to the nearest bungalow, days he so far recovered as to be able to leave his bed, although for months he continued to raise blood from the shock which he had received.

No one would suppose for one moment that the same hand that directed the pistol with such unerring aim, was the one that has so often delighted a vast audience with its exquisite touch of the violin and piane, or that the adventurous tiger hunter of India was the modest, unassuming gentlemanly artiste WILLIAM V. WALLACE.

On Friday morning last, about 5 o'clock, our citizens were aroused by the alarm of fire, which was soon ascertained to be on the wharf of John Myers, Esq. Commission merchant. Before the flame could be extinguished, about 1,600 bar rels of turpentine, 50 bales of cotton, several bales of hay and rags, together with the sheds under which they were placed, were consumed By the timely aid of the Fire Companies, and the liscussion between Messrs Rhett, Droomgoole, citizens generally, (for every one exerted him-Adams, and others, Mr. Sidell was permated to self to the utmost.) together with a favorable wind, further damage was prevented. I LOVE THEE STILL! Remembrance, faithful to her trust, Calls thee in beauty from the dust; Thou comest in the morning light-Thou'rt with me through the gioomy night; In dreams I megt thee as of old, Then thy soft arms my neck enfold, And thy sweet voice is in my ent; In every scene to memory dear I SEE THEE STILL!

I LOVE THEE STILL! In every hallowed taken round; This little ring thy finger bound-This lock of hair thy forehead shaded, This silken chain by thee was braided, These flowers, all withered now like thee. Beloved, thou didst call for me : This book was thine ! here didst thou read-This picture—ha! yes, here indeed I SEE THEE STILL!

I LOVE THEE STILL! Here was the summer noon's retreat, This was thy favourite fire-side seat, This was the chamber where each day I sat and watched thy sad decay; Here on this bed thou last didst lie. Here on this pillow thou didst die! Dark hour ! once more its wees unfold As then I saw thee pale and cold, I SEE THEZ STILL!

Thou art not in the tomb confined Death cannot chain the immortal mind. Let earth close o'er the sacred trust, Yet goodness dies not in the dust. Thee, oh beloved! 'tis not thee, Beneath the coffin's lid I see ; Thou to a fairer land art gone-There let me hope, my journey done, TO SEE THEE STILL!
