RALEIGH, N. C.

Tuesday, January 28, 1845.

The Editor of this paper has contracted to mblish the Journals of the last Legislature, and the rinting of the next. Persons wanting extra copies of the Journal, will please send their orders forthwith.

IT We are requested to state that the Installation of Rev. J. J. Fincer, will take place in the Baptist Church, on next Sabbath at 14 o'clock, A. M. Sermon by Rev. T. MEREDITH.

MR. CLINGMAN'S SPEECH.

We commence in to-day's paper, and shall finish on Friday, the Speech delivered in the House of Representatives, by Mr. CLINGMAN, of this State .-Apart from its really interesting and instructive character, it is magnified in public estimation by the circumstance of its having led to the duel with Mr. YANCY. The fraud, misrepresentation and concealment, by which Mr. CLAY was defeated, is most clearly and ably exposed, as we believe without exdown in malice.

We learn from Washington, that Mr. CLINGMAN occupies there a high position, and that-this Speech has been more sought after and complimented than any effort of the kind for years. We learn also, that the members of the famous " Empire Club" are highly indignant at the glaring colours, in which he showed up their characters. It is stated that he (Mr. C.) is now in the daily receipt of letters, threatening him with all kinds of castigution. One of the last he received was written with blood. He received one, a day or two since, from a man who states that he is a member of that Club, and that he is now in Baltimore, waiting for Mr. CLINGMAN, if he a man of "courage," to meet him and give satisfaction for the "gross and waunting insult" conveyed in his speech. Not one of the facts, however, has been denied, which Mr. CLINGMAN charged upon them.

SUPREME COURT.

The Court has commenced delivering its Opinions. The following were delivered last week:

INFANTICIDE.

A Coroner's Inquest was held on Sunday last, on the dead body of a new born colored infant, found half-buried in a ditch, in a frequented part of the City. The verdict of the Jury was, that the child was born alive, and inhamanly killed by its unnatural mother, free woman of color, named Martine Dickinson.

17 We are requested to call the attention of our teaders generally, to the Advertisement of Mr. G. C. ALLEN, of New York.

The "Wilmington Chronicle" does us but justice in supposing that the paragraph, in which Road are spoken of as "old and rotten," obtained Our feelings towards that Road, and all concerned 1836, which imparted vitality to that Road by subworth of Stock, and no one more cheerfully recorded his vote in favor of the appropriation, than ourself.

DECIDEDLY COOL !

A remarkable document, being a " recommends tion of a day of prayer, fasting, and hamiliation, in reference to the proposed annexation of Texas," ap-pears in the New York papers. It is signed by Ar-thur Tappan, William Jay, and twelve others, memers of a committee of the "American Foreign and Anti-Slavery Society;" and they recommend their ellow-citizens to observe the 7th day of February next in the manner proposed. The object is, to trart, by supplication and fasting, the threatened incasure of nonexation. These men now have the cas to call spon Heaven to evert a calamity aber at the polls. They expect to undo by pray-and fasts the mischief which they perversely ellot-box! Alss for human consistency!

An amusing exposure has been made, in the Baltimore Patriot, of Judge Bibb's plagiarisms. It appears from this expose, that the Judge in his late Report as Secretary of the Treasury, stole the best portion of it from Alexander Hamilton, and an English writer, named Robert Hamilton, who published a book, some thirty years ago, on the National debt of England. Our readers may probably recollect the scene in

The Critic" Beef-eater-Perdition eateh my soul, but I do love

Sneer-Haven't I heard that line before Puff-No. I fancy not-where pray! Succr-Yes, I think there is something like it in Othello.

Paff—Gad! now you put me in mind of it, I believe there is-but that's no consequence-all that can be said is, that two people happened to hit on the same thought, and Shakspeare made use of it first,

IT The papers from England seem to regard the result of the recent Presidential election as fraught with evil as well as with good, so far as that country is concerned. While they are satisfied with Mr. Polk's election, because they suppose that it will eventuate in the repeal of the Tariff, and the removal of " restrictions upon commerce," as they are pleased to term our laws for the protection of the industry of our people against their pauper half-starved labor, and in the advancement of free trade, they fear its aggeration. Nothing is extenuated, or aught set, effect upon the monetary affairs of this country will not be favorable to the holders of American Bonds. Wilmer and Smith's Liverpool Times says of American Securities

> "The arrival of the Hibernia, bringing full confimation of the election of Mr. Polk to the Presidential Chair, has caused an entire absence of demand for United States Securities. Scarcely a transaction has since taken place; and though we do not after the quotation, they must be considered as quite nominal neir rise or full depends a together upon the future policy of the new Government."

THE MARKETS.

The N. Y. Correspondent of the "National Intel-

Stigar has also rather a more favorable aspect during the week, particularly for superior and for strictly prime-the latter having become rather scarce.-The injury by the hurricane to the crop in Cuba, the by the whole people ! continued and rapid decrease in the cultivation of the article in the British islands, and the greatly reduced stocks in Europe, are all circumstances us favor of it, and, joined with the opening of the spring trade, may warrant a belief in a considerable improvement with in the next two or three months. I have heard from various quarters of many cotton planters who intend to relinquish that staple, and turn their attention in future to sugar. will, however, take several years to get these new sugar plantations into full operation."

JEFFERSON AND ADAMS.

Perhaps there is not, among all the productions of Mr. JEFFERSON, a more graceful and delicate specimen of his style, than the following letter. It was addressed to John Adams, on the death of his accomplished wife, the mother of John Quincy Adams: MONTICELLO November 13, 1818.

The public papers, my dear friend, announce the fatal event of which your letter of October the 20th had given me ominous foreboding. Tried myself in the school of affliction, by the loss of every form of connexion which can rive the human heart, I know well, and feel what you have lost, what you are suffering, and have yet to endure. The same trials have taught me that for ills so immeasurable, time and si-lence are the only medicine. I will not, therefore, by useless condolence, open afresh the slaces of you grief, nor, mingling sincerely my tears with yours, will I say a word where words are vain; but that it is some comfort to us both, that the time is not very distant, at which we are to deposite in the same cer ement our sorrows and suffering bodies, and to ascend essence to an ecstatic meeting with the friends we have loved and lost, and whom we shall still love and never lose again.

God bless you and support you under your heavy fliction. THOMAS JEFFERSON.

The following "palpable hit," as Hamlet would say, is from the New York Commercial: LETTERS " OF COURSE."-About the most use less, unsatisfactory, unprofitable reading we know of, are the letters written by distinguished men the Steam Boats connected with the Wilmington in answer to invitations, no matter of what kind. It is obviously preposterous, for instance, to exadmission into our columns through inadvertence. pect that Mr. Van Buren should go from Lindenwald to New Orleans, for the sake of being prein it, are of the most friendly character, and we sent at a dinner on the 8th of January; or that have heretofore given substantial evidence of it. It poor old General Jackson should crawl from his was our lot to be a member of the Legislature of chamber of illness and decrepitude at the Hermitage, to show himself in Tammany Hall on a scribing, on the part of the State, for $600,000 like occasion. Yet the invitations are always gravely sent and as gravely answered, with a solemn expression of deep regret at the unavoidable necessity of staying away, or going somewhere else, or having some other pressing business to attend to-just as if it was really imagined for a moment that the invitation would be accepted.

What a relief it would be if somebody would for once write an answer of reality and truth-something like this, for instance:

HERMITAGE, Jan. 2, 1845.

Gentlemen:—I have received your letter inviting me to a Ball at New Orleans on the 8th. You know I can't come—you never expected me to come—then confound you, why do you bother me with your invitations? And I wouldn't come if I could.
Yours, &c. ANDREW JACKSON.

Jenges-Four years ago the Legislature of LLINOIS made an assault upon the Judiciary, and assed a law completely reorganizing the whole ystem, and confounding the Circuit and Supreme Courts. This was, at that time, opposed by the Whigs, but carried by the Locolocos. They now acknowledge the correctness of the course of the Whigs, are exceedingly tired of their experiment, and seem anxious to return to their old circuit system. It is probable that a law will pass for that purpose. The Locofocos have an ungovernable desire to intermeddle with the Judiciary, and to bring the Legislative and Judiciary departments into collision. They are always ready to sacrifice the independence of the Judiciary and make it dependent on the Executive or Legislature.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

The Raleigh Register, of the 17th, noticing the observations we made a few weeks ago touching the proposition of Mr. Boyden (a member of the Legislature,) to make it lawful to elect a Lieunecessary to call a Convention to provide Constitutionally for the effection of a Lieutenant Governor—as the second section, Article fourth, of the amended Constitution, invests the Legislation, as appears from the section and article re. journal. cited above, may be altered by reading a Bill the Constitution.

MR. STANEY. We copy to-day from the Register the closing scene in the House of Commons. The response of Mr. Stanly to the vote of thanks is excellentbeautiful.

It seems that the Resolution of thanks -introduced by Mr. Stanly's rival for the Speaker's loud plaudite and prolonged cheering.

To the friends of Mr. Stanly-those who knew his noble heartedness-this evidence that his charged. worth is appreciated and acknowledged by his so much apparent delight in assailing his good name, is peculiarly gratifying.

The precept of Polonius,

"This above all-to thine own self be true: Then it will follow, as the night the day, Thou canst not then be false to any man, has found in Mr. S. a true and tried follower .-No man, perhaps, has suffered more from party malice and political malignity than has Mr. S .. but he has ever been true to bimself and false to no man. And now he has the gratification of knowing that his former maligners acknowledge the wrong they have done him.

DEMOCRATIC LITTLENESS. We learn from the "Register," that on the adournment of the Senate no resolution of that: was offered to the able Speaker of that body. is customary for a political opponent to offer such esolution, and it is probable that the reason why I was not done in this instance was, that Locofocoism found Col. Gather made of sterner stuff than it Imagined when assisting to make him Speaker. What object the Locoforo members and in view in preferring Col. Galther over all others is known only to themselves, but if allowed a Yankee's privilege, we would guess they magined they could so far mould him to suit their views as to gain considerable political adrantage. When they found they had " reckneed thout their host," their chagrin and mortificaon would of course be greater than if they had expected nothing more than an honest Whig Speaker could consistently grant. They found nen true to his constituents, true to the honor and dignity of the body over which he presided. and true to the Whig party. "The head and front of his offending

Had this extent, no more," and to gratify their pique they had no-alternative but to try to insult him. In doing this some of them have betrayed a littleness of soul that we had thought they would have been ashamed to show so glaringly in the face of the world -Such a puny attempt at mulice can detract nothing from the deservedly high estimation in which Col. Gaither is held by his Whig brethren broughout the State, but willy if possible, add to it - Southern Citizen.

NUTS TO CRACK-At Dublin, on Tuesday vening December 3d, there was a dinner of the Orphan Charity Society, at which Mr. O'CONNELL presided. At this meeting, says the London Spectator, the Rev. Mr. Montanty, of Philadel his, (now in Ireland to collect funds for rebuild ing churches in that city.) boasted that Mr. Polk had been elected President "by the united spirit of Irishmen." "This was a subject perhaps of more conse mence to Irishmen than they imagined; for they ndsfor the last two years their monster meetings a America; at New York, at Georgia, and elsewhere, they had their meetings. The priests and laymen met and poured out their prayers for the weifere of this country. Forty thousand Irishmen in America—and they were still alive—were pledged, the moment that one drop of Repealer's blood was shed in triand, to rush into Canada and rescue it from British dominion. [Loud and prolonged cheering."]

Mr. Drongoole, opened the debate of this da in an arguigentative speech, in which he advocated the annexation of Texas on various grounds, and replied to the arguments which had been urged on the other sale.

He was succeeded by Mr. Barnard, in a close legal argument on the question of power.

Mr. Adams next took the floor in opposition the whole field of argument on the side of annexation, insisting that Texas never had formed any part of Louisana, quoting and expounding the Louisiana treaty, and going into many interesting historical disclosures relative to the diplomac before and during his own administration. general position was, that with Texas free layery, and the assent of Mexico obtained, he was ready to vote for annexation te-morrow.

Mr. Daniel made a constitution kargument favor of the power of Congress to annex.

On Saturday last, the proposition to annex Texas, in the form reported by the Committee on Foreign Affairs and amended by Mr. Brown, of Tennessee, passed the House of Representatives, by a vote of 120 to 98: When it gets to the Senate, " we shall see what we shall see."

Before taking the vote, Mr. RAYNER rose in his place for an explanation. He stated-and he called upon the Reporters to note it particularly-that no Southern Whig, who was in favor of the annexation at the table. Our conversation was resumed, of Texas, had been allowed to address the House during the debate.
