OUR UNIVERSITY.

We had not the gratification of being present at the recent Commencement of our University, but we learn from all quarters, that never, in its whole history, has one occurred of so brilliant and interesting a character. Availing ourself of all the sources of information, to which we have had access, we proceed to give as connected an account as we can of the incidents of the occasion. And, in the first place, we remark, if there be any thing of which, above all others, North Carolinians may be justly proud, it is their UNIVERSITY. We do not assert this in a spirit of vain boasting. If every other salutary injunction of the framers of our State Constitution were carried out in the same spirit with which that, requiring "all useful learning to be duly encouraged and promoted in one or more Universities," has been, there would be no cause of apprehension for the prosperity and honor of our good old Commonwealth. Though at one time serious fears were entertained, lest this rich legacy, which has been bequeathed us by the sages and pahe reception given them in our honest triots of the Revolution, would be permitted to go to decay, yet they were not of long duration, and our University was scon enabled to resume her stand amongst the brightest and most prosperous Institutions of learning in our country. The character which she now has, is indeed a source of pride to TES had, probably, since his entering all her sons, however humble or exalted their staof North Carolina, shaken hands with tion in life-however far abroad over our vast country, fortune may have scattered them. She can boast, too, of a numerous offspring, and though, like most matrons, she has been destined to see some of them content to move in the humbler sphere of lifesome faint by the way-side in the heated race for honors-others, perhaps, depart ignobly from the precepts which she inculcated, and the admonitions he gave them-yet, what lasting and heart-stirring cause of gratulation is there, that so many of them have reached the goal of life with honor to themselves and benefit to their fellow-men? How many of them now does she behold, filling with distinction the high places in the Republic, or dispensing in more humble vocations the blessings of liberal education, and the charms of classic learning? In contemplating the clevated character she now maintains. many a grateful heart throbs with delight-

"She wears the marks of many years well spent, Of virtue, truth well tried, and wise experience."

The gratifying fact, that the PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES Would take this opportunity of revisiting the theatre of his youthful joys and aspirations, had naturally induced all to believe that a very large assemblage would be there to greet him. and indulge in the pleasing interchange of civilities on the occasion; and every anticipation was fully realized. An array of talent, worth and beauty, such as is very rarely seen congregated at such a time and place, was present, and lent an interest and charm to the various exercises, which amply repaid the most distant visiter. The Public Exercises commenced on Monday night, and were continued until Thursday evening. The PRESIDENT and Suite arrived at Chapel Hill on Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock, and being escorted to GERARD HALL by a Procession, was welcomed to the University by Gov. Swain, in an Address distinguished throughout by eminent courtesy of sentiment and chasteness of diction. Mr. Polk responded most felicitously, returning his heartfelt thanks for the cordial reception given him, and alluding most feelingly to the death of the venerable and lamented President CALDWELL, under whose tutelage he had derived most of those lessons of useful instruction which he had endeavored to turn to profit in after years. He rejoiced that a moment of leisure from the incessant routine of his official functions had been afforded him, wherein to pay an affectionate visit to this sanctuary of learning, and return his grateful acknowledgements to his Alma Mater for the advantages she had extended to him. Judge Mason also returned his warm thanks in a few neat and appropriate remarks, for the welcome which had been offered him by the President of the University. Altogether, the ceremony of reception was most pleasing and interesting, especially to every one whose bosom throbs with pride at the reputation and condition of our Institution. Indeed, the literary annals of this or any other country may be ransacked, and there will be found no parallel inciamlliar to our country men, the party dent, where the Chief Magistrate of the land, one lered you as thinking with them, placeof the highest Officers in his Cabinet, and an Exe at their head; the other, for the same Governor of one of the States of the Union, were present on such an occasion at an University, where they had graduated respectively 30, 31 and 32

> Monday night was set apart for the delivery of the Valedictory Sermon before the Senior Class, by the Right Rev. Bishop Ives. All with whom we have conversed, express but one opinion in regard to this most excellent and learned Prelate's Discourse, and that is, that it was most touching and years previous.

On Tuesday night, there were exercises in Declamation by Speakers selected from the Sophomore and Freshman Classes; and, on Wednesday morning, at 11 o'clock, the Annual Address before the two Literary Societies was delivered by JAMES W. OSBORNE, Esq. of Charlotte. This gentleman's well known reputation as an accomplished Scholar and Orator was fully sustained in the present instance .-For about an hour and a half, he enchained the attention of his large audience with one of the most chaste and eloquent addresses ever delivered at the University. There was no tinsel about it. No literary flounces were brought to decorate the skeletons of thought, but there was seen throughout. that rich embroidery which can be found only in the store-house of a well-cultivated mind. His tribute of respect to Judge Gaston is said to have been most beautiful, and it appeared to thrill throughout the whole audience. There was not a heart in that vast concourse, we are sure, that did not give a responsive Amen to the touching sentiments of the speaker. It is, however, unnecessary to enlarge upon the topics of Mr. O.'s Address, as we learn it is to be printed.

On Wednesday night, an immense auditory was assembled, to witness the meeting of the " Alumni Association," and hear the Address of Judge Mason, I the public.

(Secretary of the Navy) on the occasion. A very large number of the Alumni were present, and Gov. MOREHEAD having introduced the Speaker to the assembly, he rose with his known urbanity of manners, and delivered a most beautiful-yes, beautiful Address. Every foot of the path which the Orator travelled, appeared to be strewed with the beauties of rhetoric and the charms of fancy. Trope and simile flashed in quick succession upon the minds of his audience, electrifying at times even the dullest intellect, and relieving throughout the natural roughness of those massy reflections, which fell from the lips of the Orator, with all the earnestness of affection and pride for those whom he addressed. He made a very appropriate allusion to the visit of the President of the United States, who sat near him; and his eulogy upon the character of that Father of the University, President CALDWELL, was remarkable for its beauty and pathos. After delineating his many virtues, he concluded this part of his Address with the celebrated lines which Shakspeare puts in the mouth of Antony, while gazing upon the dead body of the noble Bruters-

"His life was gentle, and the elements So mixed in him, that nature might stand up And say to all the world-This was a Man!"

And well did the life of that venerable Father of Science, deserve such a tribute! And appropriate ndeed did it come from one, who in the pursuits of nigh ambition-amidst the vexing cares of Statecan turn aside to cast an evergreen upon the grave of him who was, in times past, his doubly honored

We are truly proud to learn, that the Alumni manimously determined to erect, by subscription from their body, another Monument to Dr. Calb-WELL more worthy of his high fame, and more creditable to the State, than the one which now stands n the University Grove.

The Orations delivered by the Graduating Class, were all remarkably fine-displaying a fund of intellectual research and valuable information, which reflected great credit both upon themselves and the Institution. The names of the Graduates, upon each of whom the Degree of Bachelor of Arts was conferred, are as follows :- Alfred Alston, Joel D. Battle, Joseph Benjamin, Gco. Word Berry, A. J. Cansler, man, Thomas W. Dewey, S. J. Erwin, John O. Guion, Eli W. Hall, F. C. Hall, J. W. Hicks, Elias C. Hines, David Hinton, William M. Howerton, J. J. Kindred, Menalcus Lankford, L. I. Levy, Wm. On each day during the week a Procession was formed in the Campus, under the direction of T. J. PERSON, Chief Marshal. Signor George's delightful brass Band, from Richmond, contributed much to the enjoyment of the occasion.

The honorary degree of Master of Arts was conferred, among others whose names we have not obtained, on Lt. MAURY, of the United States Navy, and one of the President's Suite, during his late visit. The degree of L. L. D. was conferred upon BENJA-NIN PIERCE, Professor of Mathematics in Harvard

Before concluding this imperfect account, we must be allowed to give expression to our feelings of pride, at the present condition of our University. There is no Institution in the Country, now existing under more favorable auspices, nor more deservedly so --May she continue to progress in fame and usefulness, and annually usher from her hallowed walls, those who shall prove honorable to themselves and State, and ornaments to our common Union!

A gentleman, who was present, says that he will not forgive us, if we omit to compliment the Hostess of the Eagle-Hotel. How, upon earth, he says, Miss Nancy Hilliard succeeded in entertaining such an immense crowd as she did on that occasion, with comfort, and plenty of the good things of life to eat, and all this, too, apparently with ease to herself, and without a murmur or whisper of complaint from her guests, was, and will ever be, the wonder of all who witnessed it. May she long live to enjoy that patronage, which she so richly deserves at the hands of

THE Subscriber would respectfully inform the public, that the first Session of this Institution will terminate on the 11th of June instant, and be resumed on the first Monday in July-at which time the buildings now in course of erection will be completed. Persons, however, who may desire to place their Daughters with us at an earlier day, can do so. Having procured the services of accomplished Teachers in sufficient numbers to do ample justice to those who may be committed to his care, he can with the most perfect confidence promise, that all the advantages of a thorough and accomplished education will be secured to them. The plan of the School will be that of a well ordered family, where all the pupils will receive tender and affectionate care, and every endeavor made to render them comfortable and happy. To inculcate a love of truth, and detestation of deception in every form, will be the great purpose in the plan of education, and every effort made to give direction and permanence to correct moral feeling. Above all, will we endeavor to inculcate the truths of the Christian religion, and subject our pupils to its holy influence. But beyond this, no attempt will be made to influence their religious opinions; and whatever Church their parents and guardians may prefer, they will be permitted to attend, accompanied by some member of The course of instruction will embrace all the or-
