ings in the Legislature show that the hator, Mr. Chase, was elected by a ueratic and Free soil votes, not Whig as first reported. From this fact, we his political sympathies run.

At the Meeting held in this City on Saturday last, relative to the great Central Rail Road project, many most interesting and astonishing statistical facts were developed by the Speakers, illustrative of the immense pecuniary advantages, in savings alone, afforded to those who are favored with Rail Road facilities. We will refer to only one of the cases cited, with reference to the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road, even in its present dilapidated and wretched condition. To the County of Granville alone, it was established from authenticated data, that in the exportation of Tobacco-one single article-from the Depot at Henderson, some 12 or $15,000 per annum, we think, was saved to the producer, in comparison with the old plan of getting it to market in wagons, &c.; and perhaps as much, or more, was shown to be saved in the price paid for the importation of the articles of Salt, Iron, Lime, &c. The same advantages were shown to exist, with regard to the articles produced in, and brought on the Road to this County. We do hope to see these facts and statistics, drawn from the most authentic sources, spread before the people, in order that they may be aroused to see the vast necessity for public improvements, to our prosperity and advancement in Commercial importance and wealth. We join our neighbor of the "Standard," in regard to his views about " working out subscriptions," and quote from that paper the following article from the last "Salisbury Watchman," which furnishes an idea of the best way to do the work:

working men are spirited and bold."

"This is the way to po it.-We have undoubted authority for saying that if under the Charter of the North Carolina Rail Road an arrangement can be made by which subscribers for stock will be able to work out their subscriptions in the manner suggested in the newspapers, the whole amount necessary to execute the work in Rowan. (22 miles) will be taken by her citizens readily! We know of two gentlemen that have declared they will take 9 miles claim of which upon universal at- of it, and two others and (have heard of) one lady, who have determined on taking one or two miles each, and several who say they will go into the business to some extent. We will vouch for Rowan. Her capitalists, we admit, appear to be timid; but her

> As the "Standard" observes, of course nothing is said in the Charter for the Central Rail Road, about working out subscriptions; but that will make no difference. When the stock shall have been taken, and the required amount paid in, it will be for the State and the Stockholders combined to say in what mode and upon what terms the work shall be done; and we can have no doubt, therefore, that subscriptions may, to a considerable extent, be worked outand furthermore, that in all contracts to be let, the Stockholders will be, as they ought to be, preferred. Say, for instance, an individual subscribes $3,000, and takes a contract for that amount. He does $3,-000 worth of work-receives $2,000 in cash, and throwing in $1,000 worth of labor, he gets an evidence of interest in the Road to the amount of $3,-000. There it is, in plain English; and this is the way, mainly, in which the Road is to be constructed. A similar plan, we believe, was adopted in Georgia, and with the best results.

"It is of the first importance to the people of Raleigh and of Wake County, that they should arouse themselves fully on this subject, and get ready to put their shoulders to the wheel. All we ask of them is to go to the figures, and let self-interest, if nothing this ground that his partisans claimed for him the else, decide. But beyond this, what has not the State done for this community? It placed the seat of government among us, and in doing so expended nearly a million of dollars in our midst. As the result of this, there is also disbursed here not less than $40,000 per annum; and recently we have had located among us the Lunatic Asylum and the School for the Deaf and Dumb. Is all this nothing? Does it not bind us, even in common gratitude, to the people of the East and West-now so nobly struggling to unite their interests and their destines, and in doing so, to benefit us, as well as the State generally -to make an effort to forward and consummate the work? We hope our fellow-citizens of all parties will ponder upon these things-bring the proposed measures to the test of utility and self-interest, (to say nothing of State pride,) and then determine wisely for themselves and their posterity. This is, perhaps, the last opportunity we shall have, for years, for improving our condition. The sands in the hourglass are fast ebbing away; and if this occasion be allowed to pass unimproved, a "long farewell" to prosperity and enterprise in this community."

Closing Scenes in Congsess.

The reports of the proceedings in both Houses of Congress during the session of Saturday night, exhibit scenes of the most discreditable characterscenes of personal violence and outrage humiliating to the country, and well calculated to bring its National Legislature into disrepute. We regret that any member of Congress should have so far forgotten the dignity of his station and his own self respect, as to have been guilty of the acts imputed to some gentlemen. There can be no apology offered for them; for, whatever differences may have occured, or however improper the language which may | it has invoked shall be happily dissipated, and the have been used in the excitement of debate, neither the Senate nor the House were the proper places to settle accounts between members by resort to personal combats. We unequivocally condemn such proceedings, and think that they will not be approved by a single individual of respectability in the Union.

The Swords voted by Congress to Major Generals Butler, Twiggs, Quitman, Worth, Heudersen, and the heirs of the late Gen. Hamer, have just been finished, and forwarded from the celebrated manufactory of Ames, of Springfield. They are really magnificent; cost $9,000. On Friday, General Towson, in the presence of a numerous assemblage of officers, received from the President of the United States the Sword intended for Gen. Worth, (as desired by that officer, he being now stationed in New Mexico.) The others will be sent, as early as practicable, by private conveyance, to their respective owners

The New Department.

Among the last acts of the late U. S. Senate, was the passage of the House Bill, establishing, in accordance with the recommendation of the late Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. WALKER, a new Department in our Government, called-" The Home Department." The Bill was reported from the Committee on Ways and Means, of the House, and provides for a Secretary, with the same salary and the same power of appointment and removal, as other Heads of Departments, and for referring to him the superintendence of the Patent Office, of the 1st Comptroller's Office, of the Marshals and Clerks of the United States Courts, of the Indian Bureau, Land Office. &c.

The "National Intelligencer" says, that the passage of this Bill may be fairly ascribed to the weight of character and just influence of the Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means, (Mr. VINTON,) who has succeeded in carrying through a measure heretofore frequently presented in vain to the consideration of both Houses by some of the wisest and most experienced of our Statesmen, and, among them, more than thirty years ago, by President Madison.

There has been for a long time needed a subdivision of labor in the Executive offices, which would secure promptness and responsibility in the despatch of public business. The recent act will serve to lighten the arduous labors of the other Secretaries. The labors of the Treasury, particularly, in several of its departments, as well as of the Secretary himself, are almost beyond human endurance-and, of course, the business of the Department has suffered from delay and neglect.

Thus, by the passage of this bill, Gen. TAYLOR has a seventh Cabinet Minister; and such is the character of the duties he will have to perform, that an intelligent writer has expressed the belief that he will be the "Premier, in regard to influence and importance, in this great Empire."

THE OUTGOING OF THE OLD AND INCOMING OF THE NEW.

The subjoined article, found in the "Lynchburg Patriot," is so much better than any thing we could offer, on the same subject, and expresses our sentiments so much better, than we could do it ourself. we commend the whole of it, to the dispassionate judgment of all unbiassed renders.

THE ADMINISTRATION. This week brings to a close the eventful Oylmpiad of James K. Polk, and consigns the sceptre of his power to the unlineal hand of his Whig successor .-Unlike his "illustrious predecessor," Mr. Van Buren. Mr. Polk had the good sense and discretion to waive his claims to a re-election to the Presidency, thereby averting a direct expression of public opinion on the merits of his administration of the Government. He did not wait to be elected by the voice of the people, from his high station, but gracefully yielded to a fate which his sagacity told him was inevitable.

Whatever of comfort or of consolation this circum. stance may afford him in his retirement, it cannot blind him to the fact, that he has been virtually repudiated by the American people, and, that sentence of condemnation has been pronounced, in the most emphatic manner, on the policy of his administration. The defeated candidate of the Democratic party, in the late Presidential election, was thoroughly identified with all the prominent measures of the present Administration. It was to his bold and unshrinking advocacy of those measures, that he owed his nomination as Mr. Polk's successor, and it was chiefly upon support of the people. In the rejection of Gen. Cass, Mr. Polk cannot but read a signal rebuke of his own conduct and public policy, and he retires from the service of his country, without its parting benediction of "well done, thou good and faithful servant."

Under the circumstances that attend his exit from the public stage, Mr. Polk will naturally turn from the present to the future, and console himself with the pleasing anticipation of a more favorable verdict on his public conduct, hereafter, than his countrymen are at present willing to award; but as long as the true principles of the Constitution shall be revered -as long as the President of the United States shall be regarded as the servant of the people and not their master; the popular decision of November last, on the merits of the present Administration, will stand confirmed by the sober judgment of the American people.

Mr. Poik may point to his triumphant and succeasful career in the path of war and conquest. He may point to the brilliant and unbroken series of military triumphs, which marked the progress of our ladies. Can't do better than to set it down-prearmies from the Rio Grande to the capital of the paration for matrimony." Aztecs, and which have shed an imperishable lustre on the American arms. He may boast of the plentiful harvest of glory which the country has reaped, and contemplate, with the feelings of gratified vanity, the dazzling achievements which have illustrated the annals of his own Administration; but the American people will not soon forget, that all these splendid results had their origin in a gross and flagrant violation of the Constitution ; and, if they are true to the faith of the republican liberty which they profess, they will continue to regard the preservation of that ever won on the battle-field. The policy of Mr. Polk has brought to the Union benefits which it promises be realised, the end, however much it may redound to the wealth and grandeur of our country, can never justify the means by which it was attained; and enlightened public sentiment will, in all future time, reprobate as unconstidefenceless nation was despoiled of its possessions by a more powerful neighbor.

It is unnecessary for us to refer to his part; labors for many years, for every body knows that he was always ready and willing to give his best efforts in aid of the Whig cause, to which he is indissolubly attached. That his influence and speeches have been effective of great good none can deny, and there is many a man among us who owes his illumination on political matters to the plain truths presented to him by Mr. Wales. WM. E. HILL,

A new Species of Cotton.

Gen. G. D. MITCHELL, an intelligent and experienced planter of Warren county, Miss.; has recently introduced the culture of a new kind of Cotton, which he calls the Prolific Pomegranate, and which is said to surpass any other species of the gossypium family yet produced in this country. The stalk does not attain a height usually more than four or five feet, but every portion of the plant is literally covered with bolls, which are sustained in an upright position by the strength and vigor of the stem and branches. The chief peculiarity of this plant is that the stem and branches have no joints as in other kinds-and although the bolls are so numerous, there can be no inconvenience in picking. In fact, an expert picker might at one grasp gather half a dozen at a time. The staple is beautiful and far more sile. ky than the best Petit gulf.

From one-third of an acre, measured, General MITCHELL gathered and weighed the past season 2142 lbs. of superior cotton. One hundred pounds of the seed cotton yielded 321 lbs. lint, and by an accurate test he found that sixty-five bolls made one pound of lint.

City papers please copy. At Milton, on Saturday the 17th ult, in the 51st year of his age, the Rev. N. H. Harding, D. D. for many years minister of the Presbyterian congregation in that place. Dr. Harding was a native of Brunswick, Maine. The early part of his life was spent at sea, and before he was twenty-one years old, he was promoted to the command of a vessel. While at sea he obtained a hope of an interest in the Lord Jesus Christ, and soon after connected himself with the Presbyterian Church in Newbern, in this State. He subsequently engaged in the mercantile business in Raleigh, and during his residence there his attention was turned to the Christian ministry. He had, early in life, a fondness for books, and was well acquainted with English literature. He spent some time at the University of North Carolina, and after going through a partial college course there, he went the full work of the ministry about 1828. His piety to those who purchase of us. and zeal in the service of the Saviour were eminent. and his labors were greatly blessed in the Church .-He was untiring in his efforts to do good, and seldom let an opportunity escape of attemping to benefit those with whom he had intercourse. He was a diligent student while health permitted, and all his studies, as became a christian minister, were directed to one point-the honor of the Saviour. His preaching was always in the highest degree instrucive, and though he preached much, generally three times on the Sabbath, he carefully studied all his sermons, as was apparent to those who heard him.-His great earnestness and boldness for what he believed to be the truth, sometimes led him to say things which appeared harsh to those of opposite sentiments; but no one had a more benevolent heart, or regretted it more when he gave offence. His health had been declining for three or four years, not withstanding all that the best medical skill could do. His desire to promote the interests of the Redeemer's kingdom led him to continue his labors when he should have rested; even until the disease had reached a point beyond remedy. He was only a few weeks confined to the sick chamber, during which not a murmur escaped his lips. He talked little; his disease prevented him. His end, as was to be expected, was peace.
