THE "STANDARD" POLEMICAL. Our columns are not open to religious controersy. And if they were, we have not the folly to enter the list of polemical disputants-not even, though we could command the willing services of a pious Sub to our suppport! We therefore took no notice of the Pamphlet lately circulated in this community, as a reply to Bishop Ives' Pastoral letter; nor do we now intend to express any opinion upon the merits or defects, the doctrine declared or controverted, or the powers 7 Pamphlet. Ne sutor ultra crepidam. But the malignant article in the last "Standard"-for its malignant purpose is evident and palpable-requires that we should do what justice is in our power, to the author of the "Examination," be he whom he may, by publishing the following opinions from papers, conducted by learned and pious divines of the Protestant Epicopal Church. who are presumed to know, better than we, or the "Standard." what are the doctrines of that Church, and what are the rights of the Laity under its form of Government.

From the Episcopal Recorder (Philadelphia.) A VOICE FROM NORTH CAROLINA.

"We ought to give more credit to one private Layman than to the whole Council and to the Pope, if he bring better authority and more reaon."-Panormitanus, quoted with approbation by JEWELL.

We hail with gladness the triumphant reply to the Pastoral letter of Bishop Ives, although we deeply regret the existence of the anti-protestant opinions and practices which it exposes to view. We see it announced in different quarters that the Hon. Mr. Badger is the author of this reply .-Judging from its argumentative style, its close reasoning, and logical deductions, we are disposed to think the announcement correct. Although Mr. Badger is a laic, he has not been an indifferent observer of the great religious questions and controversies of the day. The Bishop of North Carolina published some time ago, his own opinion of the distinguished theological attainments of Mr. Badger. They are described of the highest order. If we can lay our hands upon it, we will re-publish it for the benefit of those why may read the theological discussion in the pamphlet before us. As the publisher has protected this production by a copy-right, we are restrained within reasonable limits in the extracts which we make, and therefore confine ourselves to two. The one refers to the course of Bishop Ives, as justifying the alarm he has occasioned in his Diocese; the other, to the spirit of manly, lawful, Christian, resistance, wich pervades the body of clergy and laity of N. Carolina, &c. &c.

From the Protestant Churchman. (New-York.) The admission of the laity to a share in the government and councils of the Protestant Episcopa Church in these States, was first advocated by the father of the American church, Bishop White, opposed by Bishop Seabury, and ultimately consented to with reluctance by him and his clergy, when they acceded to our ecclesiastical union in 1789. Bishop White maiotained its lawfulness, because agreeable to Scripture and primitive usage: and its great expediency, and even necessity, in the circumstances of the American church. Every day is furnishing fresh proof of the wisdom of William White. "It is evident," said Jewel, "that God hath not excluded the lay people that believed in Him from the understanding of his Holy secrets," and in the present crisis, we are rejoiced to perceive that they know their rights. and have found for them an advocate in the full maturity of his powers, and possessing such eminent qualifications for the work which he has undertaken. The pamphlet with the above title, is understood to be from the pen of the Hon. Mr. Badger, a senator of the United States, and one of the most distinguished and influential laymen of North Carolina. Its readers, therefore, have reason to expect " an examination ' of the position and doctrines held by Bishop Ives, marked by the sound theological views and masterly ability of the writer, and conducted with perfect fairness and Christian temper. They have, in this pammebeen heretofore, on abstract propo- phlet, a thorough exposure of what is but a diswhen it comes to voting, we have guised form of Romanism, and a merited rebuke of claims unsupported by the teachings or practice of our church; and they must thank God for raising up such defenders of the Truth, when his flock is assailed by faithless shepherds, and destructive

> Out upon the hollow heart, which, beneath the cloak of a hypocritical religious bias, would carry a weapon to wound a political adversary! The 'Standard," we will add, seems to keep up its consistency in this :- it goes for the ONE MAN POWER, in Church as in State! If we were not aware of the bitter and rancorous feelings of that print for the reputed author of this Pamphlet, we should suppose that its ire had been aroused by to which it is true of other men under the hunsuch expressions as these: "We are men-freemen-free Protestant Episcopalians;"-" we must and can do what we will to assert and defend our endangered rights, and maintain our threatened liberty;"-" in Church, as in State, we are lawabiding men; we submit to all lawful authority, but we submit to no other. An undefined and unlimited power we know not, in Church or State; and knowing none such, we must, in justice to ourselves, and in duty to the Church, discredit and repel every claim to it," &c., &c.

From the learned manner in which our politicopolemico neighbor discourses, we are led to agree with him who thus spoke of a different indi-

From our Washington Correspondent.

Washington, Dec. 2, 1849. Washington presents an unusually animated appearance at present. During the recess of Congress, the place is dull enough for all practical purposes. The wide, dusty Avenues, the " magnificent distances," and the absence of Commerce, present a tout ensemble peculiar'y heart-sickening to the care-worn office-hunters and claimants, who constitute the "floating pop- was a sufficient balance due the Professor to ulation." But for weal or wo, the present aspect take up his note. This circumstance is said of things is cheering. The hotels appear to be to have greatly incensed Prof. W., who on blood for thee on my account. I pleaded for thee, crowded, and the sunny side of Pennsylvania Friday morning of last week called at Dr. I hoped for thee, even in the dark moment when on thy brow was written the withering word on the property of the propert cians, not to mention the ladies, who promenade in the afternoon between the President's House and the Capitol.

Before entering into political speculation, I will mention that the event of to-day has been the arimore, where he made a capital speech to an immense assemblage of the people. You will, of course, publish it, and I feel assured it will meet a hearty response in every patriotic bosom in North Carolina. He goes for the Union always, and under all circumstances, as essential to the preservation of liberty and peace. His great name and influence will be arrayed against the promoters of Disunion from whatever quarter they may come, and already I can perceive their magical effects. With Mr. Clay in the Senate, the Union cannot be dissolved. But his arrival. Mr. Clay came in the cars to day at 11 o'clock, and was met at the Depot by a large concourse of citizens and strangers, who accompanied him to the National Hotel. Before entering, he turned about and addressed the people in a few words, thanking them for their kindness, and adverting to his long acquaintance with the City, in which he had spent a large portion of his life. He was greeted by enthusiastic cheers, both at the Depot and at the Hotel. I walked near him (for he also was on foot) and was glad to observe his hale healthy appearance. He is perfectly erect, and his gait is that of a man of sixty.

It is astonishing to witness the enthusiasm which the name of Clay every where produces. The people appear to be spell bound by him .-Mr. Webster or Mr. Calhoun may come to Washington, or may visit any City in the Union and ake up lodgings as quietly as a private individual But let it be whispered that Mr. Clay is coming! and every street and alley will pour forth its hundreds and thousands to greet and cheer him! It must require more than the ordinary share of under such trials. If Mr. Clay is not insensible to the applause of his fellow-citizens, generally bestowed as it is, without the hope of reward. will any generous mind be censorious? Who, among those disposed to sneer at what they consider exhibitions of vanity on his part, could resist the seductive influences of such flattery?-But I by no means intend to admit the justice of the charge. A Faithful Portrait.

The "Richmond Whig" thus "does up" BURKE, of the " Washington Union":

The public know well enough how to estimate ascended even thus high. As a journalist, he has been guilty of a succession of blunders so ludicrous, as even to put his enemies in pain for his feelings. He has attempted to conceal a feebleness of argument which would disgrace a school boy, under a coarseness of language which would be disrethe nation. He has no conception whatever, of citement, which is prevalent, in consequent what constitutes a strong and vigorous style. He of the mysterious facts already developed. believes point and force to consist in the employment of a certain number of stereotyped epithets, with which he spices his discourse on all occasions. In one single article, not a half column long, the words 'Jesuitical,' 'false,' 'degrading,' 'corrupt-ting,' hypocritical,' 'hollowhearted,' 'disgrace-ful,' 'discreditable,' 'cowardly,' 'craven,' and ignomininious,' are employed to designate his opponents. Nor is that article a solitary example of this kind of style. Nearly every issue presents a parallel. Now if there is either wit, or sarcasm, or any other characteristic of strong or polished writing, in such an indiscriminate use of the Billingsgate vocabulary, the world has hitherto been wrong in ascribing to Swift, Voltaire, the author of the letters of Junius, or Sydney Smith, the perfect mastery of all the weapons belonging to political warfare. Nay the very acme of the two qualities first named, is attainable by the by enough memory to retain the epithets.

TERRIBLE MYSTERY IN BOSTON. | Alabama over twenty, and Misson GREAT EXCITEMENT.

The Boston papers are full of the mysterious disappearance of the wealthy and eccentric Dr. Parkman. Search for nearly a week had been made everywhere for him, the river was dragged, and every corner searched where it was possible to get any information

The Transcript of Saturday last contains the following particulars:

Since last evening, our whole population has been in a state of the greatest possible excitement, in consequence of the astounding rumor that the body of Dr. Parkman has been discovered, and that Dr. John W. Webster, Professor of Chemistry in the Medical School of Harvard College, and a gentleman connected by marriage with some of our most distinguished families, has been arrested and imprisoned, on suspicion of being the mur-

Never in the annals of crime in Massachusetts has such a sensation been produced.— In the streets, in the market-place, at every turn, men greet each other with pale, eager looks, and the cours, "Can it be true?"—And then as the terrible teply, "the circumstances begin to gather weight against him," is wrung forth, the agitated listener can only vent his sickening sense of horror, in some such expression as that of Hamlet,-

"O, horrible! O, horrible! most horrible!"

A thunderbolt at clear noonday falling with a loud report and shattering the most conspicuous dome in the city, could not have produced a greater shock to the external senses, than that which the falling of suspicion on Dr Webster, in this case, has occasioned to the moral sense of this community.

Dr. Parkman held a note for $450 against Prof. Webster, which had long been overdue, and upon which, although it was secured by a mortgage of some real estate in East Cambridge, the Doctor had several times importuned for the money, and been from time to time put off. At length he applied to the officer who disposed of the tickets for Prof Webster' scourse of lectures, to know if there left word "if he (Dr. P.) wanted his money on that mortgage, to call at the Medical College about 1 o'clock that afternoon.'

The Doctor is know to have proceeded to ival of Mr. Clay. He spent some days in Bal the College at the time specified-was seen to enter, by several persons in the vicinity, but was never seen to come out. It is said Prof. Webster admits that Dr. Parkman was at the College about the time mentioned, and that, although he asserts he paid him the $450, he cannot show a receipt for it-when it is well known that Dr. P. was very methodical in his business matters.

It is also stated that during the whole of the past week, Prof. Webster has kept himself very secluded that his rooms at the College have been kept constantly lockedcircumstances quite unusual with him.

From these and other alleged facts, such suspicions were aroused, that, in the Professor's absence last evening, Mr. Ephraim Littlefield, who has the care of the College building and grounds, was induced to break the partition wall to the vault, under the private laboratory of Prof. Webster, in the basement of the building, and there discovered one leg and a portion of the trunk of a human corpse !- in a condition which made it apparent that the remains had not long been there deposited.

This discovery, with the fact that Prof. Webster is not an anatomist or surgeon, but simply a chemist, and having nothing professionally to do with the dissection of bodies, foully and diabolically murdered.

Prof. Webster was accordingly arrested at his residence in Cambridge, by officers Clapp and Rice, and lodged in Leverett st. jail last night, to await further developments.

We learn that a further and thorough investigation was made in the Professor's laboratory this morning, when in the ashes of his furnace were found pieces of bone from the skull and other parts of a man's head, together with several false teeth, some coat A word about the Speakership. The subject buttons, and some grains of gold, apparently room above, were found spots made by a strong acid capable of destroying marks of blood which might have been there spilled,

It is known that Dr. Parkman carried a gold watch and wore some artificial teeth, but as yet we do not learn that any real identification has been made concerning these articles, or of the portion of the body found.

It is stated as a suspicious fact in connecnim, for he has been many years before it. As a tion with the recent unusual closeness of Prof. Representative in Congress, he never soared above Webster's laboratory, that from its chimney the dead level of a decided mediocrity, if he ever an uncommonly dense and constant smoke has been observed to issue for several days past, and that a great amount of pitch pine kindlings has been used there.

The most thorough investigations are now being made upon all the matters to which we putable to a denizen of Newgate. In this respect have alluded. The Medical College is unhe is as far before the New York Herald, as that dergoing the strictest search throughout, and of thy valleys. Democrat.

In connection with this election, the Journal nohas brought to the journalism of this country a metion will seem relieve the all-absorbing exmation will soon relieve the all-absorbing extever, of citement, which is prevalent, in consequence

THE SOUTH.

The South, we see, is taking a remarkable bou d forward in manufacturing and other enterprises. Delaware has already a greater number of manufacturing establishments, in proportion to her population, than any other State of the Union. Maryland has invested over $45,000,000 in manufactures, canals, and railroads, and is still enlarging her interests. Virginia has over forty cotton factories, and about $60,000,000 invested in railroads, canals, and manufactures. South Carolina has about forty-five cotton factories in course of construction, or in successful operation. Florida has invested over $4,000,shallowest capacity, provided it be accompanied 000 in railroads and manufactures. Georinvested in mines, factories, &c. Kentuck Tennessee, and other Southern States, which we have not enumerated, are likewise proceeding with spirit in the great work of internal improvement. The increase of domestic competition in all the departments of industry has produced a radical change in the interests of manufacturers. N. Y. Express.

KOSSUTH'S ADDRESS TO HIS COUN-TRY.

The following is the farewell address of Kossuth to his country, written at Orsova:-Farewell, my beloved country! Farewell, land of the Magyar! Farewell, thou land of sorrow! I shall never more behold the summit of thy mountains. I shall never again give the name of my country to that cherished soil where I drank from my mother's bosom the milk of justice and liber-ty. Pardon, oh! pardon him. who is henceforth condemned to wander far from thee, because he combated for thy happiness. Pardon one who can only call free that spot of thy soil where he now kneels with a few of the faithful children of conquered Hungary. My last looks are fixed on my country, and I see thee overwhelmed with anguish.

I look into the future, but that future is overshad owed. Thy plains are covered with blood, the redness of which pitiless destruction will change to black, the emblem of mourning for the victories thy sons have gained over the sacrilegious enemies of thy sacred soil. How many grateful hearts have sent their prayers to the throne of the Almighty! How many tears have gushed from their very depth to implore pity! How much blood has been shed to testify that the Magyar idolises his country, and that he knows how to die for it. And yet, land of my love, thou art in slavery! From thy very bosom will be forged the chain to bind all that is sacred, and to aid all that is sacrilegious. O Almighty Creator, if thou lovest thy people to whom thou didst give victory under our heroic ancestor, Arpad, I implore thee not to sink them into degradation. I speak to thee, my country, thus from the abyss of my despair, and whilst yet lingering on the threshold of thy soil. Pardon me that a great number of thy sons have shed their "Despair." I lifted my voice in their behalf when men said, "Be thou a slave." I girt the sword about my loins, and I grasped the bloody plume, even when they said, "Thou art no longer a na-

CIRCULAR OF THE

FORESTVILLE FEMALE ACADEMY

THE Academic year is divided into two Sessions of five months; the Spring Session commencing the 1st Monday in January, and the Fall Session 1st Monday in July. The months of June and December will be vacations. The above are perrades! countrymen! May the thought of God, maneut arrangements, and those who propose patand may the angels of liberty for ever be with you! ronizing the School, will please bear them in mind. Do not curse me. You may well be proud; for The Academy is built expressly for teaching, and CREASHAW, Principal, aided by a Lady of experience and competency. Prof. Wm. H. Owen has consented to instruct a class in French or Latin. Board. Tuition, &c., can be had on as reasonable terms as in any Village in the middle or eastern Counties of the State. Pupils charged from the time of entering and no deduction, except in case of protracted illness. Af er a Pupil has entered, she will be bound for the Session, and no deductions only in particular cases, and by express consent of the Principal It is very important that the student enter at the commencement of the Session and be entirely punctual in attendance through the term. Tuition to be paid promptly at the close of each Session.

Forestville is situated directly on the Rail Road, 15 miles North of Raleigh, and is proverbial for its healthiness, morality, and the intelligence of the inhabitants in and circumjacent to it. Six or eight girls can obtain board including Washing, Fuel and Lights with the Teachers, at $7,50 per month. Should farther particulars be desired, address JAMES S. PURIFY, Sec'y.

The next Session will open on Tuesday, the 5th January, and continue till November 2018. This will constitute the School year; the first term of which will end June 14th. By this arrangement the vacation will take place at a period when it is most agreeable to families to meet together under the paternal roof, and the terms of the School will be made to correspond with those of our University and of the principal Schools for boys in the State.

This School is in a retired, healthful and besutiful situation; its buildings are ample and communicated ble, arranged expressly for the purpose; and it offers alvantages of a high order for intellectual, moral and religious culture. The terms payable half yearly in advance, are One Hundred and Fifty Dollars, per annum, for board and tuition in English, Lutin and Greek. For French an extra charge will be made.

Mr BABRIT being personally known to but few in N. C, offers for consideration the following testimonial and references:

"The undersigned having seen from gentlemen of the highest respectability in Charleston, S. C. and in other cities, testimonials to the eminent qualifica-tions of the Rev. Mr. Babbit, for the duties he is about to assume among us, take pleasure in cordially com-mending him and the institution under his care, to the confidence and support of their friends and of the community."
