It would indeed be amusing to witness the absurdities into which the advocacy of secession drives the "Standard," were it not for the serious character of the consequences which must flow from the establishment of that doctrine. COMMUNICATIONS. Mr. GALES :- I stumbled to day, unexpectedly, among my papers, upon a printed Circular, addressed on the 28th Feb. 1833, by the Hon. Jesse Speight, "to the freemen of the Counties of John> son, Wayne, Greene, Lenoir, Jones, Craven and Carteret," giving them an account of his stewardship as their Representative in Congress, and offering himself for re-election. It will be recollected that that Congressional District delighted to honor Gen. Speight and endorsed his political views as sound and patriotic. This Circular, like every thing that emanated from Gen. Speight, bears marks of superior intellect and lofty patriotism. I herewith send it to you, and am sure you will gree with me, that a re-publication of that part of it which relates to the attempted Nullification by South Carolina of a Law of Congress, and her threat to SECEDE from the Union, if resisted by the Federal Government, will be most ppropriate at this moment, when the madmen of those same Counties, and elsewhere, are moving Heaven and Earth to commit the good old North State in favor of Secession, and thereby give aid and countenance to South Carolina in her present attempt to destroy the Union, kindle up the fires of civil war in our beloved Country, and drive the plow-share of ruin over the fairest land under Heaven. Pray republish it, and let their favorite Statesman speak, as from the grave, and rebuke and recall to their senses the Disunionists of that District.
