

The Weekly Register

CITY OF RALEIGH, WEDNESDAY MORNING, MAY 4, 1853.

NO. 29.

VOLUME LIV

THE RALEIGH REGISTER.

PUBLISHED BY SEATON GALE, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR, AT $2.50 IN ADVANCE; OR $3 AT THE END OF THE YEAR.

"Ours are the plans of fair, delightful peace; Unwarped by party rage, to live like brothers."

RALEIGH, N. C.

SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 30, 1853.

DUTY OF THE WHIGS.

The Philadelphia Daily News gives some advice to the Whigs of Pennsylvania, which the Register says is equally applicable to the Whigs of Virginia, and which may also be equally applicable to the Whigs of North Carolina—and to the latter we desire to commend the spirited and excellent observations of our contemporaries.

"Ours," says the "Mail," "in the face of 20,000 majority, the Whigs of Pennsylvania are determined, not only to stand by their party banner, but to contend with brave and believing hearts for victory, why should the Whigs of North Carolina dream of succumbing for a moment? The vote upon Scott's election was no test of the comparative strength of parties, as all candid men upon both sides will admit."

It is even more unmanly and absurd to despair of the success of the Whig cause in the country at large. Our defeat under Van Buren was by no means as decisive and disheartening as that of the locofoccos under Van Buren. —Here, foot and dragons, Old Tippecanoe drove the dominant party out of power. It is true, Van Buren obtained three more States than Scott—seven in all; but then it must be remembered that Van Buren had the advantage of holding the reins of power, with an army of office holders at his back, and the most perfect office and despotic energy among his own party. Scott had no official cohorts, and the Whigs supported him with a faint and divided heart. If the locofoccos could rally and triumph after such a defeat as that of Van Buren, why should not the Whigs rally and triumph after the less decisive and less disastrous defeat of Gen. Scott? And, after all, although thousands upon thousands of the whigs in all the States of the Union stood at home at the last election, and would not vote at all, while other thousands voted the locofoco ticket, a larger number of votes was cast, for Gen. Scott than any Whig candidate ever received before.

The Whig party polled more than a million and a half of votes in the last Presidential election, notwithstanding such numbers of them every where did not vote. And can there be those who would dissent from this immense army, and trail its glorious banner in the dust? If such there are, they would render the Whig cause a service by joining its open enemies, and ceasing to paralyze strong arms and courageous hearts, by their timid and gloomy forebodings.

"The question for all true Whigs to consider, is—can you surrender Whig principles? Do you no longer believe that they are essential to the dignity and prosperity of the country? If you have yielded this ancient conviction, then you cannot dissent soon. If not, then you must retain your organization as the only mode of giving vitality and efficiency to your principles. For ourselves, we are thoroughly satisfied that the conservative influence of the Whig party was never more needed than it will be within the next four years. It saved the country in Mr. Polk's time from a senseless and ruinous war with Britain about Oregon. It saved the Union afterwards from the effects of the sectional quarrel produced by the Mexican war. Judging from the rampant spirit displayed by Young America now, and from the countenance which its aggressive tendencies receive in high places, Whig services may again be needed, ere the administration of Gen. Pierce be ended, to secure the peace and to maintain the Union of the country. Let every Whig, then, stand at his post, prepared and determined to prefer intact the integrity and strength of the Whig party, so that, even though he may not wield the sword of victory, he may hold up a shield, which will protect the country and its institutions from domestic and foreign enemies."

NOTICES OF BOOKS, &c.—We are indebted, through Mr. POMEROY, their Agent, to the Publishers, for "The Old Man's Bride," by T. S. ARBURN, and "Summer Travels in the Mediterranean," by N. PARKER WILLIS. Both of these volumes are very handsomely bound. As to the nature of their contents, it need only be observed that they are from two of the most gifted pens of the day,—gifted, it is true, in different styles and different spheres,—but yet almost equally distinguished.

We are also indebted to Mr. POMEROY for the May numbers of HARPER'S and PUTNAM'S Monthly Magazines. They have, as usual, an interesting table of contents and a pleasing variety of articles.

Mr. H. D. TRENER will accept our acknowledgments for a Pamphlet of some 84 pages, entitled "The Church of Rome, or the Babylon of the Apocalypse,"—three lectures by Chas. Woodworth, D. D., with an introduction by Rev. JAMES BURNETT, of the Diocese of N. C." The gist and object of these Lectures are embraced in the opinion expressed of them by the late Bishop HENSHAW. He pronounces them "the most convincing and eloquent and scriptural exhibition of the true character and fatal overthrow of the Roman Church, that I have anywhere seen. Thousands of them should be circulated in every part of the Church."

GRAND LODGE OF ODD FELLOWS.

The annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of this State will take place in Wilmington, on Monday, 9th of May next.

THE EXCURSION, AGAIN.

When 'can we forget it? Our pen runs riot, "whenever we name it." Old ANACRON'S Harp strings were not more unmovable.—They would no longer sing of ATREIDES nor CADMUS; heroes and kings were their abomination, —and, when attuned by the Bard to warlike themes, their only utterance was, "Love, still love." Our goose-quill has made various efforts to be truer than our return from salt-water scenes. Some matters of State require a "sharp stick"—some wrong things round about the City ought to be looked after,—the decapitation going on at Washington requires an indignant rebuke,—the Congressional canvass demands attention! We have made repeated efforts to do our duty in these matters,—to wake up the patriots to a sense of their rights, to scold the arch-sinners at the Federal City &c., &c.; but it won't do. Do we set down to anathematize the doctrine and practice of Rotation in Office?—we can't do it; our pen incontinentally runs into a description of sundry eccentric rotations and gyrations enacted in Oxford and Ashland Halls. A day or two since, meditating something awfully severe on this subject, we commenced an indignant paragraph with, "Off with his head—so much!"—but, for the life of us, we could no further go. The ghosts of those Rock-heads came trooping around, even as the fair hands of "the twin-sisters" spread them before us; and our heart became soft as a beam of sunshine, in April, after a shower!

"War to the knife!" Why we would not stab an oyster, now,—except very tenderly and gingerly!

In serious earnest, those who were along can never forget that Excursion and the broad, open handed, universal and unanimous hospitality which they experienced. We confess ourselves conquered, soul and body. Bye-and-bye, we will do our duty in all the particulars aforesaid indicated,—at present, we are simply an Excursionist.

As Stephen said when leaving,
"The odor of roses will hang round it still!"

SOULS.—PURCHASE OF CUBA.—The Philadelphia Bulletin says it is generally believed, that before accepting his mission, Minister Soule obtained an assurance from the Executive that he should have unlimited powers for the purchase of Cuba. No such belief can have obtained credit in any intelligent quarter, simply because Mr. Soule has declared very explicitly that he is opposed to the purchase of that island. In his speech in the Senate on that subject, on the 25th of January last, he spoke upon that point in the following very emphatic language:

"Sir, I am against purchasing Cuba. Whoever knows anything of Castilian pride must be aware that Spaniards can never be brought to sell Cuba to us. And it seems to me strange that we should persist in seeking to purchase Cuba when Spain says she is unwilling to sell it—when her own Ministers have declared in the most solemn manner that they would never see that beautiful possession sunk into the bottom of the ocean than to see it go to any other power. Your tender of purchase therefore can effect nothing."

No, sir. I have still another objection against purchasing Cuba. There is something there that speaks aloud for those suffering Cubanos, who call upon us for assistance. They are proud and would not consent to this purchase. I am unwilling to move their susceptibilities; and thus, as far as a seignior sine cuius can have any bearing upon any policy which might now or hereafter be pursued, the idea of purchasing Cuba has become an obsolete one and must be abandoned. It is useless to attempt it. It is more than useless to speak of it. Spain is unwilling to sell and from the surrounding political atmosphere I do not know that we would incur less danger in purchasing than in conquering the island. I am against purchasing it."

After such declarations as these, it is idle to suppose that the idea of purchasing Cuba has had anything to do with the selection of Mr. Soule for this special mission. The fact is not disputed, we believe, however, that Mr. Soule is in favor of acquiring Cuba. As he is opposed to purchasing it, by fair and honorable contract, only one inference can be reasonably drawn from his position—which is, that he would obtain the island by violence, through flibustering agencies, or in any other way, than by purchase.

The Spanish Court will doubtless refuse to receive Mr. S. as Minister. He cannot, certainly, be very agreeable to the Government either as Minister or man.

A NUMBER of Free Negroes,—nearly forty—left this city, on Wednesday, for Norfolk, with the purpose of embarking for Liberia.—THE BANANES,—the vessel which is to convey them,—is at present in Hampton Roads, and has on board already a number of passengers, who embarked from Baltimore. The emigrants, we learn from the papers of that city, all appeared to be in excellent condition, and there are among them several men of much promise, who, it is expected, will make decidedly useful members of society in the land of their adoption.

THE FIRST Freight Train from Portsmouth and Norfolk to this place came through on Wednesday last, between sun-rise and sun-set—bringing, we learn, a heavy load. Among the articles of freight were one hundred barrels of Lime,—fifty of which were consigned to Messrs. TUCKER, and the other fifty to some other of Merchants of this City.

MACAULAY is expected to issue two more volumes of his History of England in April. His health is said to be irrevocably shattered, and fears are entertained that he will never be able to complete the work which he has projected.

The Carpenters of Washington are moving for an increase of wages of 15 per cent.

Mr. and Mrs. Rives recently gave a brilliant ball at Paris. They expect to leave on the 15th of May, on their return to the United States.

ABOUT BIRDS.

None of our readers will suppose that we aspire to the character of an ARDUBON or a WILSON. Yet we claim some fondness for the feathered race, and now is the time when it is seen in its greatest variety. Our little favorite, the Lettuce bird, after cheering the air for many a day, seems to be on the eve of departure. Its frolicsome sojourns from one tree to another are abandoned, and its notes altogether altered—still cheerful, but speaking of a packing up, a clearing out to new quarters. We love these little birds, for they are the first harbingers of genial weather, and with their cheering chirps awaken emotions of innocence and early days in the most indifferent heart.

There is another little bird of about the same size, who succeeds them, whose name we do not know; but he is the very model of cheerfulness and industry. Long before the cock has sounded his morning clarion, this little fellow is wide awake in full musical vigor, which never intermits till the shades of night fall on him. Yet if you watch him, there is scarcely a moment that he is not picking up his repast from leaf or bough. This little fellow remains till Autumn.

We bespeak a good word for another charming but much abused bird. The Cat bird comes stealthily, solitary and alone. We see nothing of it in the air, or in the trees, and yet while in the shrubbery. As the warm weather advances, it is our constant companion in quiet secluded places. So harmless, so familiar, so musical, why should it be the especial detestation of school boys, and excite the prejudice of seniors? It is of the same species with the mocking bird, and though able to imitate pssy, can take its seat upon the bough of a lilac, and give forth notes as sweet as nature ever provided.—Strange, that a prejudice of name should consign this essentially domestic bird to so much obloquy!

The Whip-poorwill has begun its song, and with the bull frog give a nightly concert.—"Blood-and-ours," and the pitiful wailing of Poor Will, go together, and though so dissimilar in species, there is a singular congruity in sound.

"The Congressional Campaign," says the "Fayetteville Observer," "has commenced in earnest in Vanable's District where he and Mr. Lewis, both locos, are going the rounds making speeches.—In the Mecklenburg District, between Osborne, Whig, and Craige, Locos.—In the Mountain District, between Gaiter, Whig, and Clingman, Locos.

In the result in the Mecklenburg and Mountain Districts, particularly, we feel a deep interest. In both, the Whig candidates are true Whigs, whilst the Locofoco candidates are exceedingly objectionable. We suppose they would scarcely acknowledge it to themselves, much less to the public, but we regard them both, Clingman and Craige, as hostile to the Union. Craige was a Nullifier while that herey was in vogue; and if we are correctly informed was opposed to the measures by which the Slavery question was compromised, and the Union saved, in 1851—opposed to those measures until they became overwhelmingly popular, if not still. Clingman delivered a speech in Congress to show that it was the interest of the South to dissolve the Union. We shall be glad to see the people of North Carolina set their faces against such politicians. Let them go to South Carolina, where they rightfully belong.

We are too far off to know much about the prospect in the Mountains; but we feel assured that in the Pied Mountains, of which we have some right to form an opinion, the true Whigs and Union men will rally to the support of Osborne, who is well known as one of the purest men in the State, one of the best informed Statesmen, and one of the most accomplished Orators."

FROM CALIFORNIA.—DISTRESSING CALAMITY.

A Telegraphic despatch informs us of the arrival at New Orleans of the steamer United States, which sailed from California papers to the 1st of April.

They bring the distressing intelligence of the loss of the steamer Independence, on her way from San Juan to San Francisco, together with a large number of her passengers. The event occurred on the 16th February, off Margareta Island.

If we interpret rightly our imperfect despatch, the steamer had taken fire from her furnace during a storm, and an unsuccessful attempt was made to run her ashore upon the island. The flames rapidly spread, forcing some of the passengers into the sea, (all the boats having been swamped,) and finally reached the powder magazine, which blew up, tearing away the stern of the boat, and destroying many lives. The whole number lost is stated at from one hundred and thirty to two hundred. Those who reached the island were subjected to much suffering during the brief period (about fifty-six hours) which intervened before they were taken off.

There were on board the ill-fated ship about five hundred persons whose names cannot yet be ascertained. The passengers who left New York in the Northern Light on the 20th January, and those who left New Orleans in the Danvers on the 22d of January, expected to connect with the Independence at San Juan, and so far as is known, they did so connect. All of them, however, numbering some eight hundred, could not have been accommodated on board the latter steamer.

No news is communicated relating to things in California, except that the town of Marysville has been again inundated; that Lieutenant RUSSELL has been killed by Indians; and that the steamer California left San Francisco on the 1st of April with two and a quarter millions of gold on board.

Vice President King, it is said, owned an estate of 2,000 acres of rich land in Dallas county, Ala., with 150 slaves. It is also stated that he has left the bulk of his property to the poorest of his relations, though all are comfortably provided for.

The Fond du Lac (Wis.) Herald says that during the week ending April 12th, the heavens were almost nightly lighted by the burning prairies in all directions. The winds were high, and it was feared that much damage had been done to the property of the farmers.

MR. MOORE'S EULOGY UPON HENRY CLAY.

We are indebted to B. F. MOORE, Esq., of this City, for a copy of an "Address upon the Life, Character and Public Services of Henry Clay," delivered by him in the town of Weldon, in the month of August 1852. We do not know when we have been more impressed with any production! For vigor of thought, purity of style, and eloquence of sentiment, it is characteristic of its author. We regard it, altogether, as a noble tribute to the memory of the deceased Statesman and Patriot.

We regret that our space will not permit us to publish the whole Address. We subjoin, however, a few extracts. Mr. Moore thus commences his eulogium:

"WESLEYAN MEN ascend in the great affairs of nations far beyond the level of his fellow-men, and for a long while maintain, by the force of their intellect, the high eminence, solitary and unapproachable, the idea insensibly steals into our minds, that Deity has withdrawn him from the lot of mankind and lent him a spark of his own eternity. When such a man dies, the first act of the soul is to think the reality, and the next, to acclaim, in the language of the eloquent Massillon, as he gazed on the lifeless corpse of Louis the Great:—"There is none greater but God."

More than eight years ago, by the honored invitation of a great party, I stood near this spot to welcome their head and leader to the hospitable arms of the State. Aye, I stand here by the honored invitation of both the great parties, to commemorate the life and character and public services of the same eminent man. He was then the living and formidable representative of a great and active political party; he is now the quiet sleeper of the grave, gathered to his fathers in the ripeness of age, leaving behind him a name of renown to which the united hearts of his countrymen bring their tribute of sorrow and affection, their garlands and their crowns. The type of his being is set for history, and mine is but the task to rehearse its page.

Forty years ago, Henry Clay bore a name of distinction which, even then, he twisted itself with the annals of his country. It was a name, not bestowed by position, nor conferred by birth, but gained by the labor of a toilsome ascent; for he was born at the very foot of the lofty eminence on which he stood at the close of his life. I know, my countrymen, it is not the name of a great man, but of a great citizen, and of a great patriot, and of a great statesman, and of a great orator, and of a great leader of his country, and of a great benefactor of his country, and of a great friend of his country, and of a great champion of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of a great savior of his country, and of a great redeemer of his country, and of a great deliverer of his country, and of a great liberator of his country, and of a great restorer of his country, and of a great preserver of his country, and of a great maintainer of his country, and of a great defender of his country, and of a great protector of his country, and of a great guardian of his country, and of a great avenger of his country, and of