

The Weekly Raleigh Register.

VOLUME LIV

CITY OF RALEIGH, WEDNESDAY MORNING, JULY 20, 1853.

NO. 40.

THE RALEIGH REGISTER.

PUBLISHED BY SEATON GALES, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR, AT $2.50 IN ADVANCE; OR $3 AT THE END OF THE YEAR.

RALEIGH, N. C.

SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 16, 1853.

FOR CONGRESS, SIMON H. ROGERS, OF WAKE.

ELECTION—AUGUST 4th.

OUR CANDIDATE—THE ISSUES!

Simon H. Rogers, Esq., the Whig Candidate for Congress in this District, left this City, on Wednesday last, for the purpose of meeting Messrs. Venable and Lewis at their appointment in Orange, for Thursday. He also announced himself a Candidate, and addressed an assembly of the people of Wake, at Grady's, on Friday. We feel every confidence that Mr. Rogers will uphold the Whig standard in a manner creditable to himself and to the party. He certainly has nothing to fear in a collision with his competitors, and we predict that, whether elected or defeated, he will come out of this campaign under the most flattering circumstances.

We take it for granted, of course, that Mr. Rogers will receive the cordial, hearty and unanimous support of the Whig voters of the District. Surely, no Whig—no man, unless he be blinded to the indications of the times by a superannuated party prejudice,—who witnesses the daily spoliation to which the old States of the Union are subjected, in having their share of the Public Lands appropriated for the exclusive benefit of others, or who sees the manner in which the President is showing favors and the emoluments of office into the laps of Free Soilers and Secessionists, can think for a moment of aiding in sending Mr. Rogers to the Senate. He is a man who is bound to the indications of the times by a superannuated party prejudice, who witnesses the daily spoliation to which the old States of the Union are subjected, in having their share of the Public Lands appropriated for the exclusive benefit of others, or who sees the manner in which the President is showing favors and the emoluments of office into the laps of Free Soilers and Secessionists, can think for a moment of aiding in sending Mr. Rogers to the Senate.

It is too late in the day to argue either the propriety or the necessity of a Distribution of the Public Lands, for they both stare us in the face! In a few years, the West will have attained such a vast preponderance of political influence, in the councils of the Nation, that the whole Public Domain will be in its greedy and voracious grasp. Now, or never, then, is the time for a decisive, bold, and unqualified demand for the rights of North Carolina!

It is not too late, however, to direct the attention of our People to the shameful manner in which the Administration is falsifying its laudable professions. But a few short months have transpired, since those professions were made in Washington, and the lightning wires have not borne them as far as the Mississippi before they were revoked in practice! The whole Government is now literally in the hands of fanatics and extremists,—they fill its offices from the Cabinet to the Kitchen,—they are denouncing the spoils! It is useless for the basest press to deny these facts. Every man who reads at all, knows them to exist,—and every man, who reflects at all, who remembers the assaults of these men upon the Union, at the period of its greatest danger, and who sees Union Democrats and Whigs everywhere treated with contumely or neglect, must feel that the authors of such outrages should be visited with heavy indignation!

We have no disposition to say anything harsh of either of the loquacious candidates for Congress in this District, although Mr. Venable has, on more than one occasion, singled himself as a Disunionist and a Disorganizer, and although Mr. Lewis entertains the most extreme and obnoxious views with regard to almost every question of public policy. We do not discuss either of the issues involved! By view, let us stand or fall!

THE EIGHTH DISTRICT.

The editor of the "Asheville Spectator," writing from the Warm Springs, in Madison county, gives a highly encouraging account of Colonel Gaither's prospects for election. He says: "Col. Gaither's prospects are very bright and still brightening. Contrary to my expectations, his gain will be very considerable in this (Madison) county. The Whigs of the county are wakening up; they are satisfied that Clingman is a renegade and a traitor to their cause, and they are determined to record their utter condemnation of his course, by voting for a man who is a sound conservative Whig, a high toned gentleman, who would scorn to resort to the low, petty devices that characterize the conduct of his enemies. The greatest and the only obstacle in the way of Colonel Gaither's being elected by an overwhelming majority, is the impression that has been superinduced upon the minds of many, that it is impossible to overcome Clingman's majority two years ago. This is the only argument the friends of Colonel Gaither are met with in the canvass. Let the friends of Col. G. remember that these rumors of Mr. Clingman's invincibility are gotten up by himself to keep up the courage of his own supporters, and to intimidate the friends of the Whig party. More than enough changes have already taken place to elect Col. Gaither, by a handsome majority, and if his friends throughout the district will only go to work and exert themselves in his behalf from now till the election, the Clingman party in North Carolina will be so effectually demolished, that the trump of the Resurrection will hardly arouse them." Read the capital letter—No. xviii, of "Men and their Doings,"—in another column.

MEN AND THEIR DOINGS.

NO. XVIII.

NEW YORK, JULY 11, 1853.

"The work goes bravely on." Every Whig falls under the axe of proscription and are hunted out by Pierce and his troops as the Scotch covenanter were hunted out, persecuted and slaughtered by the bloody Claverhouse and his savage associates. Gen. Pierce came to Washington in February, bowed down, and all appearances, under the afflictive stroke of Providence which had in a moment taken from him his only son and child. It was supposed by many that this severe affliction must soften his heart and render him less capable of bringing affliction upon others,—of causing wives, mothers and children to suffer through his instrumentality; but those who thus reasoned knew not the man; knew not that politics, more party politics, had indured his heart, seared his affections as with a red hot iron, and rendered him callous to every appeal save that of some brawling politician for the "spoils," for which he had so zealously advocated the election of a man, of whom he had scarce heard of before in his whole life. Before his arrival at Washington, and even for some time after, his most trusted friends professed to believe that Gen. Pierce's administration would be characterized by great liberality towards his political opponents, or at least a portion of them. In 1841 he had denounced with much warmth the alleged proscription of democrats by Gen. Harrison's administration—a more drop in the bucket compared with that of Gen. Jackson and Gen. Pierce's,—and he had taken occasion in a public letter to speak of having been voted for by Whigs. What inference was to be drawn from these circumstances? Surely not that he himself was about to establish the reign of terror and become the most inappreciable of all political persecutors; and yet such he has proved himself to be. The patriotic name which it was the pride of his father to bear, and which he nobly sustained by his patriotic services as a soldier of the revolution, has become to him an object of vindictive hatred; and in every one who bears it he sees an enemy whose head he will have, if it be within the reach of his official arm. To enumerate those who have fallen victims at Washington, New York, Boston and other places, within a week or two past, would require more space than I care to occupy and would not perhaps add to the interest of your paper; suffice it to say, they have been turned out by companies, and almost by battalions, to seek more permanent, and, I hope, to find more profitable, employment among their old friends and neighbors.

These changes in office would be more tolerable if the places made vacant had been filled by sound Union democrats; but, as Gen. Cass has lately remarked, "I do not see the wisdom of that policy which removes Union Whigs to make room for free soil democrats." It is announced officially now, however, that all the appointees who do not adopt the Baltimore creed, confess and repent their sins, and hereafter profess the true faith, shall be removed. This declaration is intended to pacify the South, and silence the clamors raised against the appointments everywhere. Meantime the free-soilers are enjoying the honors and rewards of the victory which the compromise democrats were very willing to coalesce with them to gain. Gen. Scott was denounced and opposed on the ground, that, if elected, he would be influenced by Seward and other free-soilers; but it is admitted now, by Union democrats, that Pierce has shown more favor to the Northern fanatics than Scott would have dared to do, had he been so inclined, as he was not. Well, let Pierce court them; the more he does so, the more we shall be rid of them, and the more purely national will be the Whig party. But the Whigs at the North are rather disposed at this time, to let things take their own course,—to let the two sections of the democratic party do all the fighting, as they are very much like man and wife,—how much soever they may fight, quarrel, call each other all sorts of hard names, and accuse each other of all kinds of villainy, meanness, perversion, tergiversation and dissimulation, no sooner does a third party step in, than they both kiss, embrace, and are as loving as a bride in the honeymoon! Fortunately for the Whigs, business of all kinds is brisk and inviting, and affords a far more profitable, if not honorable field of exertion than politics, which is more uncertain, and yields less result in the end than shearing pigs for their wool.—As to the honor, how much can attach to a calling in which so little character or integrity are considered essential to success, and great manners are considered as aristocratic? It is almost known that but few men of high character and true self-respect are willing to embark in political life, and the consequence is that our public affairs are falling, if they have not already fallen, into the hands of inferior men. If any man doubts this, let him spend a winter in Washington; let him look daily upon the House of Representatives,—which Mr. Venable has declared to be the most corrupt body in existence,—and upon the Senate, once so dignified and respected, numbering among its members the most distinguished and respected men in the nation; and here they are now, and who are to conduct the nation's affairs? Let me not do injustice to the latter body; it contains many very able and distinguished men, but no one will venture that, as a body, it will favorably compare with the same body, as it was fifteen, twenty, thirty, or fifty years ago. Where is the remedy?—There is none. So long as mere politicians have the management of all public affairs, the thing cannot be better. Let us have honest men, like our ancestors, for President, Senators, Representatives, &c., so long will things go on as they are now going. But let us turn from this picture to one that presents a more cheering aspect.

I have seen something of this part of the country since I left Washington, and have been gratified with the universal appearance of prosperity and progress I have every where witnessed in my peregrinations. I have no where observed idleness or want of thrift; on the contrary, every one seems to be busily engaged, and, as far as I can judge, profitably employed. Money and capital are rapidly increasing in these countries; both by the operation of successful business, the productions of the gold mines and the flow of capital to the United States for investment. This capital is now employed in building new rail roads, in developing and working our iron, gold, copper, coal, lead, zinc, and other mines, the value of which is just beginning to be known. The products of these will not only afford rich returns to capitalists, but will swell the amount of American wealth and capital; at the same time this operation serves to stimulate American industry in every department of labor, and especially of agricultural. Greatly to the credit of the American farmer, Minnesota is at this time attracting the attention of Northern emigrants—who are going from New England and New York by companies, and of those who are looking into the bowels of the earth for copper. Her climate, cold as it is in the winter, is said to be a specific for pulmonary complaints. But few States can vie with North Carolina in the solid advantages of soil, climate and mineral wealth, if she will but do as the North and West are now doing, penetrate her remotest parts with railways, thereby opening a cheap and rapid way for them to send their products to market. Let her also advocate that policy which shall open and improve her numerous harbors and rivers by national means, so as to encourage and increase her already important commerce.

It is not for us to state here, and now, the objections urged by the friends of Mr. Lewis against Mr. Venable, or those preferred by the friends of Mr. Venable against the former gentleman; but we may regard it as incumbent upon us to speak out before the day of election, in terms which no one can misinterpret or misunderstand.—Standard.

Yes, and there is no doubt but that when you do speak out, in terms which no one can misinterpret or misunderstand, you will speak out for Lewis and against Venable! It will remain to be seen, however, whether the latter will submit to the royal edict of the Grand organ grinder!

"If a Convention had been held at an early period, or even if the Convention, which was attempted to be assembled on the 20th of June, had succeeded, we should have avoided not only present irritations and heartburnings, but no Whig would have taken the field."

Come, Holden, we protest against any further lamentations with regard to that Convention. Your Warren "friends" may think that you were only joking when you disclaimed all aspirations for Congressional honors!

SENEGADE TO MR. SOULE.

A serenade, in which some 300 or 400 persons participated, was given to Mr. Soule, our new Minister to Spain, at his lodgings, in New York, on Monday night, 4th inst. On his appearance he was greeted with enthusiastic applause and cheers for "Soule and Cuba."

This is a very pretty passport for Mr. S. to go to the Court of Spain, with, as the "Baltimore Patriot" remarks, "Reverse the case—let a Spanish Minister come to this country with a like endorsement, how would he be received at Washington? The fact would appear to be, from this and similar demagogic proceedings towards him, that Mr. Soule goes to Spain as the Prime Minister of the filibusters, instead of this country. Why is it that he, above all our newly appointed foreign ministers, is thus treated and shouted over? Why don't they approach Mr. Buchanan in the same way? He is a diplomat and minister worth a thousand Soules."

THE PRESIDENT'S JOURNEY.

We are informed by a telegraphic despatch from Baltimore that the President, accompanied by Secretaries Guthrie, Davis, and Campbell, arrived at Baltimore yesterday afternoon at half past 5 o'clock. They were met at the depot by an immense multitude of citizens and a very beautiful array of the military of that city, by whom they were escorted to Barrum's Hotel, the President riding upon a superb white horse. He was greeted with the most enthusiastic cheers and plaudits along the route. At Barrum's a stand had been erected and handbills were distributed, which the President accepted. He was introduced to the vast multitude by Mayor Hollins, and made a brief but exceedingly felicitous address, in which he thanked the people for the enthusiastic reception he had received in their beautiful and prosperous city.

Secretary Davis, Guthrie, and Attorney General Cushing responded eloquently to the calls of the people.

The President declined to receive the throngs who crowded his hotel during the evening to see and shake hands with him.—Republic, 12th.

Washington and New Orleans Telegraph Company.—Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of this company was held at Brown's Hotel in Washington on the 5th, 6th, and 7th days of this month. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: (Eliam Alexander, Esq., former President, having declined a re-election); viz: South Mayby, Jr., Esq., of Charleston, Pres.; Daniel F. Cook, Esq., of Macon, Secretary; Benj. B. French, Esq., of Washington, Treasurer.

IT'S ALL RIGHT, CAPTAIN.

As the fleet steamer R. was coming up the Mississippi, not long since, several way passengers came on board at Vicksburg, and among others a giant looking middle-aged Kentuckian, who very soon became the subject of curiosity, wonder and general remark. After travelling a short distance, the party, except "our hero," made their way to the 'Captain's Office,' and their next day the clerk made bold to call on the delinquent passenger, who had taken no birth, but had passed the greater part of his time in sleeping in his chair, and with his usual urbanity of manner, asked the Kentuckian to give him his place of destination, as it would help him in making up his book, intending his question also as a gentle hint for him to pay his fare.

The giant rose from his lethargy and replied: "I'm going up the river-piece—It's all right, Mr. Clerk." The clerk not being much the wiser from this answer, asked politely: "At what point do you intend to land, sir?" "Don't land at no point, Mr. Clerk. It's all right."

Here the clerk left our old hero and went to consult the Captain, who at once lost his wonted good humor, as the clerk related the result of his interview with the delinquent customer. The captain proceeded forthwith to bring the matter to a focus, and accosted the Kentuckian, saying: "Are you going to bear us company up the river, Uncle?" "Oh! I'm going a-piece up with ye—but it's all right, captain!" "But, sir," said the captain, "you have neither paid your fare nor given the clerk your place of destination, and you are old enough to know the custom of steamboat men; that when a man refuses to pay his fare, or to give a good reason for not paying, we put him ashore immediately."

"It's all right, captain," "The boat landed, and the plank put out, the giant was told to walk, to which he readily assented, saying: "It's all right."

After getting on terra firma, the captain gave him a short blessing for giving him the trouble to land, and threatened him a top dressing if he ever saw him again, &c. To which the old man responded again, with an air of triumph, pointing to a fine looking cottage just above him on the bank: "It's all right, captain, that's my house. It's all right!"

REMEMBER IT NEXT TIME.

We trust that those Whigs who allowed themselves to be frightened by the cry of "Seward! Seward!" during the last campaign, and would not support Scott because he was not sound on the Compromise, and who feared that if elected, he would appoint some Free Soilers to office; we repeat, we hope that these gentlemen will observe the tendency of things at Washington, and remember that President Pierce, the Southern candidate par excellence, is doing the very thing they apprehended Scott might do.—W. H. Herald.

BELLS.—Few persons have an idea of the extent to which the manufacture of bells is carried on in the United States. We are informed that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last year been cast and sold 500 bells; and the demand therefore is so much increased, that the amount of trade done therein must of necessity be very limited; but in this we were mistaken, as we have lately been credibly informed that in the foundry of A. Meneely's Sons, West Troy, N. Y., there have within the last