Now we ask is the use of these imputations

upon the Whig party? Does the Administration bring forward the Nebraska Bill as a party measure? Then the country should so understand it. Does the Administration desire the bill to succeed ? Then why not acknowledge without qualification the services of all who voted for it. But if the Administration wishes insult of insinuation. Thus whilst it claimed at the South the merit of having encouraged the bill, it may escape at the North the responsibility of having officially confirmed it.
