RALEIGH. N. C.

SATURDAY MORNING, SEPT. 23, 1854.

WHERE ARE THE "NATURAL ALLIES?" No one who has attentively read our columns, of late, will accuse us of having manifested any disposition to rejoice over the recent over whelming defeats which the present Administration has experienced in those States in which elections have been held. We have no such disposition. The circumstances attending these elections prove, too conclusively, that the spirit of strife is abroad, -that the turbid waters of agitation are again stirred to their profoundest depths, -and that sectionalism, like a siroc, is sweeping every thing before it.

No one need suppose, however, by the above, that we are disposed to give the Administration credit for anything like nationalism. Weak and trembling, it was driven into a heartless and insincere recognition of the rights of the States and of the South, as embodied in the Nebrasks Bill, in the hope of conciliating Southern confidence, -relying with ill-founded hope for comfort and sustenance, at the North, upon the devotion of the "Natural Allies" of the South -the "sturdy and gallant Democracy," of whom Mr. Dobbin spoke in the Baltimore Convention, who had so often dispelled the united forces of Whiggery and Abolitionism ! Those "Natural Allies"-where are they now? Alas I for the too trustful faith of Southern Democracy-alas for the too blind reliance of their own "gallant" son of New Hampshire! they too have spurned the fraternal embrace, and have bowed them selves at the feet of Baal! Where are the "Natural Allies!" Scattered like the leaves of the forest. And who shall gather them together

It is unfortunate that the elections should come on in the Northern States just at this juncture. Otherwise, the Southern Democracy could continue to preach elequently of the unbounded confidence and reliance to be placed in the soundness of their Northern brethren. As ! matters stand, however, it is a source of melancholy mirth to watch the contortions and twistings, the tried tempers and vexed spirits of those who are thus deprived of so formidable a supply of party ammunition. Blown up with their own powder,-kicked over by their own musket,-" hoist with their own petard !"

Our neighbor of the "Standard," who has rested his head upon the bosom of Northern locofocoism, and, to all appearances, slept as tranquilly as a babe, has waked up a little. He is about to visit us again. 68Y8:

"That there is defection-that many are falling away-that the ranks are being thinned here and there by desertion by those who are too selfish, or ambitious, or fanatical to hold on and held out as good soldiers of the national army of Democracy, cannot be denied."

Poor fellow! The anguish of that admis.

Seriously, the existing state of things at the North is alarming. It cannot be disguised that the worst kind of feelings is driving the people of that section to the worst kind of extremes. Our simple object, in this brief paragraph, has been to expose the meanness and duplicity of those at the South, who, for purposes of party capital, are representing the Whigs of the North as one mass of Abolition and corruption, and concealing the iniquities that disgrace their own political household in that quarter. Let them unlearn their ways in this respect,-let them renounce their disreputable and dishonorable habit, and let them strive, with us, to unite Southern men together by one common impulse and one common feeling, and they will do well for themselves and well for their section !

THE SENATORSHIP .- The "Petersburg (Va.) Democrat" steps in to the assistance of Mr Dorbin, and plasters him over as followeth:

"It is certainly neither our wish or intention to write one word which may, even by implication, savor of interference with a choice belonging solely to the State of North Carolina ; but without wishing to overlook or disparage the claims of others, we must be permitted to express our gratification at the growing prefer ence already manifested for the Hon, James C Dobbin. His career has been, like the tone of his own loved North Carolina, modest and un assuming, but in his retirement, the people have sought him out and done justice to his virtues. As a representative in Congress, he was marked for his steadfast devotion to principle—earnest and uncompromising, and although he spoke but seldom he showed in those efforts that he possessed a logical and convincing intellect, fully able to expound the doc-trines and views of the State rights party. He was but for a brief period in Congress when he declined further service. We next hear of him in the Baltimore Convention pouring oil upon the angry waves of contending elements, and thrilling the hearts of his auditors by his warm and impetuous eloquence to harmony and to victory. Appreciating his services and taleuts, the democracy of his State next sustained him for the post of United States Senator, and would probably have succeeded in electing him but for the defection of one or two ambitiou and selfish men. This only served, however, w endear him yet more to the democracy of Nortl. Carolina and the Union, and when a year or two since he was selected by President Pierce as one of his cabinet advisers, the choice was universally approved."

Washington Union" is the most amusing of papers. It is. Punch is no match for it in the department of "selemn fun." In its issue of last Friday, it heads its leader thus-" Complete Disappearance of the Northern Whig Party," and in a column of mingled rejoicing and af fected lamentation performed the rites of sep. ulture for the ancient foe of political Democracy. We read the article with some satisfaction, supposing that the Union, having finally disposed of Northern Whiggery, might find time to direct its attention to Northern Democracy, and enlighten us upon the cause of the defeat of its party in every Northern State that has lately seld an election, and the already well ascertained fact that these defeats are only prepara tory to the greater overthrows that are to follow a New York, Pennsylvania and other States. We wished especially to know how the Whigs were to be held answerable for adverse results lated by Dutch and Irish. Mr. Collins proin States which have always been Democratic, and whether there had not been considerable fusion of the Democracy with Know Nothingism and Abolitionism, in order to run up Anti-Administration majorities which were certainly beyond the reach of Whig achievement .-Our expectations have been grievously disappointed. The selemn services with which, on Friday, Northern Whiggery was interred, seem to have been insufficient to keep the corpse under ground, and on Saturday it is back again rain. Our rule is, that every individual feel for to trouble the Union, who endeavors to exorcise | themselves, and drive away such feelings as it with a "word to our countrymen." and another column of declamation on "the Treasonsble and Monarchical Purposes of Northern Whiggery." The "Baltimore American" says that the | OUR NEW YORK CORRESPONDENCE.

Another Great Man-The Knowledge of Unwitch ing-Suitable Subjects for it-The offal contract and refuse animal matter-Grisi, Mario, Councilmon Wild, and Mrs. Coutts - Health:

NEW YORK, Sept. 18th. Some epochs, it has often been observed, are much more prolific of great men than others. Mr. Great Jones was a great man, and all the Joneses here, both men and women, are great people, although now somewhat in their apheion, agreeably to that law which ordains that stars must set, flowers fade, and pomp and glory pass away. But there never was a time in the nistory of our country when so many men, es specially young ones, were so infatuated with a sense of their importance. For this reason we would introduce to the notice of the reader another distinguished character of New York, by the name of Mr. Hugh Collins, who has pened a small office in Houston street, near Allen street, in a neighborhood densely popufesses to be skilful in "the knowledge of unwitching," and not only exercises people, but has published a tract pointing out "the way to learn how to unwitch ourselves." He adopts the old theory that witches travel crookedly or by some indirection. "It is magnetizing across lots," says he, " that disquiets the community."
"One of the points to learn," he affirms, "is to know when we are touched by the witch, when there is not any one nigh us." Another point to learn, "is to know whether ailments are caused by somebody's witching. The same as we know that cold comes from air, or wet from they do not want. Opposition to witching, and the knowledge to prevent the witching, necessarily make the name of the knowledge to be firmed. unwitched." As to the process of cure, the only revelation he makes is the following: The way to get off the magnetizing witchery is, or may be, by rubbing the head, or where it nant with "treasonable and monarchical pur- may want it, with water, and act resolute until we know the difference." Nothing could be essier or more luminous, for witches and scolds always have a dread of being put under the

> The occult sciences fortunately are never al lowed to fell entirely into neglect, and when we come to reflect upon it, nearly everybody is himself. Some Achitophel of the press asserts. 'Ours' is the party in which effort is commended, talent appreciated, and devotion to princi ple rewarded." He knows that he is holding bewitched with an extravaga estimation of their consequence. The soundest maxims of wisdom must be falsified. Those who have grown old in the service of the State must be thrust aside as old fogies, and hairbrained coxcombs substituted in their place.

" Athirst for fame and panting to be great," these conceited foplings are stimulated in their presumption by these talse and designing guides who have yet to know, · How nations sink by daring schemes oppress'd, When vengeance listens to a fool's request!"

Preferment can confer no honor on those who do not deserve it, but it may expose them to ridicule. The Massachusetts school master said to his scholars, after Mr. Polk's election. None of you can be Websters, but all of you can be Polks, (pokes.) It is long and patient study, a life of virtue devoted to toil and pub io service, which will render the political aspi rant renowned, and not by shouting the watchwords of party, or frequenting the hustings or the bar room. Locofocuism has immulated its thousands, and many of them the brightest promise of the land, by its grog shop propensi-ties. Tammany Hall in this city enjoys a celebrity co extensive with the party. It is loated in view of the Park, at the corner of Frankfort street, in a part of the city reeking with the fumes of brandy. In the recessine of that establishment, (if the cove-like portico of the Tammany may be so called,) may be seen at any hour on a bright, warm day, a compact row of bloated old covies propped up in arm-chairs, who have long since graduated with the highest honors of democracy. The Achitophele sang out to them as they do to others now, that they were born to be great men, ministers, statesmen, and senators, but there was no one to unwitch them, by rubbing their heads with cold water, or where it may be wanted, and telling them, according to Mr. these deluded pensioners now, and all that old guished German Philosophers of the present Tammany can do for them is to supply them century, died in Switzerland on the 20th of Au-with cheap board and cheap grog. When downward track, the liquor trade was in a better condition in the country than it is now. Abominable as it now is, the knight errants of the party, who are running a tilt against political wind mills, will soon be brought to a stand still. There is no bonor worth having, or really honorable, except that which centres in one's self. As to those of party, "many are called, but few chosen." Such though are the delusions to which most people are willing victims, that the knowledge of unwitching is universally necessary. It is only after people have been unwitched, and the veil of delusion has been removed from their eyes, that they begin to regard things in their true light,-when truth has taken the place of error, and sober reason quelled all re hellious hopes. To turn now to other subjects. Few persons have any ilea of the vast amount of refuse ani- resolutions condemning his course on the Ne mal matter which collects in a large city. According to the returns of the offal contractor, this refuse matter amounted in New York, for the month of August, to 1,799 tons. There were 187 tons of animal matter, 112 tons of bones, and 1500 dead dogs and cats, besides a large amount of swill. Grisi and Mario, when they arrived here, took apartments at the St. Nicholas Hotel, but represented three times in succession, and to large audiences each time. Grisi's stage acting elicits unqualified commendation. It far bat after death they return as white men. One Mr. Councilman Wild, who purchased the f them, hanged at Melbourne, said-" Never two seats on either side of Mrs. Coutts, as she tached to some clock work, which it turned is styled, is a confectioner in Broadway, below Grand street. He is a good, popular speaker, at political dinner parties, acquits himself well as Councilman of the 17th Ward, and is a cle ver, agreeable man. Although a Whig, he is on good terms with all parties.

The English lady, Mrs. Francis, who has acmired the soubriquet of Mrs. Coutts, is a con stant attendant at all the operas. She is said to be bewitched by or with Mario, and needs this vital matter. We suppose that the presses unwitching in many respects. She is enor of the unterrified democracy, and some of the woman, but not beautiful, and whitens her face with some powder which gives her a ghost-like and cadavarous expression

The health of the city is good, and the weather salubrious. The Mott Street Cholera Hospital s open yet, but none are admitted there except the pauper classes. The Yellow Fever at Charleston and Savan out has sent a good many travellers here. Dr Wildman, of Savannah, died a few days since of the Yellow Fever in that city. He had per-suaded himself that he had discovered an in fallible specific for the fever, in the use of the Muriated Tincture of Iron. He took his own remedy and died. To be unwitched in such a way is rather a serious business, but many are only unwitched in the last resort, by " the great unwitcher," who mocks at the anxieties. conflicts and aspirations of this world.

We shall call on Mr. Collins again to receive further insight into "the knowledge of un witching," and how to disenchant some of those great men who, as soon as the wand is reversed, are likely to be met by very disagreeable surprises. In the meantime, let them follow Mr. Collins' excellent advice, " to rub the head or where it is wanted, with cold water, and to act resolute until they know the difference."

Mr. James G. Hendrickson, of Freehold, Monmouth county, New Jersey, "has gone and done it." After 40 years of patient "whittling," he has made a machine that will not only "go itself," but will compel divers other bodies to which he is attached to go likewise; in short, it has POWER! The success is in the direction which so many have long labored in vain, viz: by the use of arms and balls attached to a cylinder so as to keep the extra weight al ways on one side, and therefore to give the cylinder a constant inclination to turn round. The machine requires no starting; take away the blocks, and it goes off "like a thing of life." The model was in our office yesterday, and at without once stopping to breathe. We see reason why it should not go until worn out. Journal.

Mr. EDITOR-In the "Standard" of the 13th nstant, the editor of that paper has an article headed "unfounded charges answered," in which he disclaims being a Catholic, and makes a grand display of his patriotism, love for his party, and, above all, his devotion to that good old instrument, "the Constitution of these United States." We presume it is hardly secessary for him to throw up his hat and whistle Yankee Doodle; and his devotion to party. no one doubts, no more than they do his lean ng to foreigners. It is an unfortunate thing for him, that he chould have used the following language in the article to which I refer : " We are not for for eigners, or for adopted citizens, or for Catholies. against natives and Protestants." Unfortunate? Yes, verily, when it is well known that the editor used his whole influence, (now about twelve months ago,) in connection with other gentlemen of the democratic party, living in the city of Raleigh, to place Mr. Patrick McGowan, an Irishman and a Catholic, in the position which he now occupies as Mail Agent, when native born citizens were applicants, and, according to lemocratic usage, were entitled to their reward. If he deny this, the proof is at hand.

Does this prove that he is not for foreigners Does this shew that he had rather see a native get office than a foreigner? If it does, then verily is he the friend of his own people! But, sir, on the contrary, it proves that he, at least, had rather see an Irish Catholic hold office, a place of trust and emolument, under our own American Government, than his own native born brother democrat, who for twenty years had labored with his might and main with that party. Can the people—can the democratic party—the men of North Carolina, who have a right to expect to see their sons share in the honors and emoluments of their country,—can they look upon such conduct, and pronounce it "very good?" Are they prepared for this dis-claimer, from the editor of the "North Carolina Standard:" "We are not for foreigners, or for adopted citizens, or for Catholics, against natives and Protestants," when the history of one-brief year tells a different tale? These facts I submit to the people, without reference to party, and ask them, if, under the circumstances, they are surprised at any organization having for its object the correction of such evils. Sir, I have sons, and they are above government pap. I know something of its history, and it is time that the Protestant people of this country should set their seal upon the further progress of that party, whose policy it is to secure the Catholic influence, to promote their own sinister plans. The unprejudiced mind can and does see the danger to our country, which must result from the Catholic and foreign influence, if not checked, upon our government. As for his clerk, if he prefers an Irishman and a Catholic as his aid and companion, I presume hative Americans need not envy his taste. It is his private matter, and I care noth-A NATIVE. ing for it.
