RALEIGH, N. C.

SATURDAY MORNING, NOV. 25, 1854.

THE LEGISLATURE.

It will be seen, by reference to the report of proceedings, in another column, that Will LIAN HILL, Sr, the present venerable Secretary of State, has been re-elected by an unani mous vote ; and that ROBERT STRANGE, Esq. Las been elected Solicitor for the Fifth Judi cial Circuit,-an office which he at present holds, under appointment by Judge SAUNDERS.

Two important bills have been introduced in the House, by Mr. STRELE, of Richmond, - one relating to partnerships in business, and the other proposing an increase in the salaries of the Governor, and other State officers.

Mr. BOWER of Ashe, with that public liberality and ardent devotion to the cause of literature, which so pre-eminently distinguish him, has presented a bill, it will be perceived, to abolish the office of Superintendant of Common Schools Several unsuccessful ballotings have been had for an Engrossing Clerk. The report of the proceedings will show what action has been had in relation to the Senator-ships. We have neither time, space nor dispotion to comment upon it, to day, but shall await the final result. Messrs. Reid and Biggs. (oh ! ve Gods and little fishes !) the nominees of the le cofoco caucus, will, we presume, be elected ; into an election, other than an uncontrollable that these thread-bare maxims and generalities greediness to clutch the spoils of victory.

THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE. We lay this important document before our readers to day. That an apparently liberal and patriotic cast of sentiment prevails in it apon the subject of Internal Improvements, Education, and domestic policy, generally, is not to be denied ; but there are puerilities and truisms in it that divest it of any merit as a State paper. For instance, the Governor thinks: "The amount of crime committed will compare FAVORABLY with that of any other State." "In a government like ours, where the will of the people to a great extent controls public measures, Education is not only a subject in walk off. which every good citizen feels a deep interest, but it becomes one of great public importance, WEDNESLAY, Nov. 22nd, 1854. The Senate met according to adjournment. After the reading of the Journal, Jno. W.

Thomas, of Davidson, and Chas. McCleese, of Hyde and Tyrrell, appeared, and, after having been duly qualified, took their seats. Mr. Boyd introduced a bill to amend the Constitution, (Free Suffrage.)

Mr. Biggs offered a resolution in favor of O. H. Perry. Passed first reading. The Senate then proceeded to the election of

Secretary of State, when Wm. Hill, Sr., Esq., received a unanimous vote. The Senate then proceeded to ballot for Soli-vitor of the 5th Judicial Circuit ; when Mr. Mc-Dowell nominated Robert Strange, Esq., and Mr. Cherry nominated Ralph P. Burton, Esq. The vote was as follows:

A message was received from the Senate announcing the same gentlemen as the nominees on the part of that body. The House proceeded to ballot, when Mr

Strange received 69 votes and Mr. Buxton 46. Mr. Singeliary moved that the Governor's communication be taken up and transmitted to the Senate to be printed.

After some debating, Mr. Singeltary moved that the communication be read, before its transmission to the Senate ; which was accord-

Mr. Singeltary then moved that ten copies be printed for each member of the House and Senate, with the accompanying documents .--An amendment was offered by Mr Amis, of Granville, proposing five copies, instead of ten. Mr. Dargan, of Anson, thought it very indecent haste that the motion to go into un election was the first intimation had in the promises, and considered the matter a trick. He proceeded with great earnestness and ability, usking, in the course of his speech, "Why extinguish so soon that brilliant luminary that has so long shed its lustre on the Union and particularly on the South and etick in its place a penny candle ? Can it be said that the interests of the State are likely to be injured now while in the hands of the present incombent, when for years the responsibility has rested solely on him ? He knew this was a progressive age, physically and mentally progressive, but he did not expect to see the time when men should be ridden down by steam-power, and trampled or in this disgraceful manner Mr. Shepherd, of Cumberland, had listened with close attention to the gentleman from Anson The gentleman's speech was very ingenious. He had held up to admiration the distinguished public services of Mr. Badger, for whom no one keit a profounder regard than he (Mr. S.) He saw no indecent haste in the matter, and he thought the gentleman wandered from the question at issue. That question was, whether the House should proceed to elect a Senator new or on the first Monday of December. Mr. Caldwell followed in a very able manner and appealed to the democrats, that since the motion to postpone came from a democrat, and since there is a democrat amongst the absentees, the motion ought to be adopted. Mr. Phillips, of Orange, said that the question was pressed on the House as a matter of business He did not consider it a mere matter of business they were in search of business, why not take up the matters which have been left undone. Or they must elect a Senator now, why not elect the one who is to take his seat on next Monday week reported ; and the report was received, "read Why is the election aimed against the present inumbent ? There are two Senators to be elected, one to take his seat in ten days, and the other in ome months, but it is insisted that the latter be elected to-day. If any be elected to-day, let the choice be the gentleman who is to take his seat in ten days. Moreover, this haste to fill the post, not yet vacated by Mr. Badger, will be a slur upon that listinguished gentleman, and it will appear as it the legislature disapproved of Mr. Badger's career.

Mr. Steele, of Richmond, proceeded to address the House, recapitulating the arguments in favor of adjourning the election to some later day. In the course of his remarks he said he would like o know what the nominee thought about Cuba. Mr. Shepherd, of Camberland, enquired whethsuch a question was in order ?

Mr. Steele resumed and addressed the House ith much -purit and force for some length of time Mr. Singeltary moved, that the election for the ong term take place on Monday next; for the short erm. to-day

Dr. Selby, of Hyde, proceeded to give his views on the subject. He objected to any postponement of the election, on the ground that it was the duty of the democratic party to stand up to its position :--that by yielding, it inflicted an injury on itself.

Mr. Caldwell moved that a message be sent to the Senate, proposing to go into the election of two U. S. Senators at 12 o'clock next Monday-but subequently withdrew his motion.

Mr. Vance remarked that there were seven abentees, and asked the House to adjourn the quesion till their arrival.

Mr. Turner, of Orange, said he seldom troubled the House, and asked to be listened to while he made some remarks on this much-vexed question. In the course of the debate he had noiced a great deal of ungenerous feeling, particuarly on the part of the gentleman from Bladen, (White.) He saw no objection to postponing the election to Monday next. He would like to know the man he was to vote for ; for his part, he never had the pleasure of even seeing Mr. Biggs. He would like to have time enough to walk into the Senate chamber to look at him for a little while. Perhaps he might have a choice among the Democrats, for it is said that a storm is at hand, and the whigs would like to know the man who is to brave that storm. He would not select a man because he was honest, or because he was wise, or because he was a statesman, but because he was a man possessed of all those qualities. Are the democrats afraid that their candidates cannot stand the test of an adjournment ? If they cannot stand the test of an adjournment, they are certainly not fit to be elected to the responsible post of Senators. But he hoped his democratic friends would adjourn this matter to Monday, Tuesday, 10 It was reserved, remarks the "New York Herald," for Mr. Pierce, to galvanize the old native feeling into new life by his desperate disregard of his duty to his countrymen, and his reckless appointment of incapable, worthless foreigners to office. He has done the work well. First disgusting democrats with the demecratic party to which he owed his elevation, and thus providing the new party with a splendid batch of available recruits, he has carried out the design to admiration by sending such men as Belmont, Soule and Owen to Europe, and providing the United States with representatives who neither represent the people, nor the spirit, nor the character of the nation.

MFETING OF CONGRESS .- The second session of the thirty-third Congress will assemble at Washington on next Monday week, the 4th day of December. A number of the members have slready arrived at the capital and others are daily moving in that direction to secure good quarters for the session. Whatever may be the motive, we lament that he has not from (what his friends call) his em inently practical mind, given us one distinct practical idea upon this great subject which he lauds so much in the abstract. The only recommendation he makes is to our mind a miserable one; and, connected, as it is, with an incident not creditable to the wisdom or purity of those concerned, we regret much o see it in this message. It is that "in all o'clock. cases where the State makes a subscription to a corporation, she ought to retain the right to be represented in proportion to her stock." This we hold to be wrong in principle and will be ruinous in all future schemes of internal improvement. Scaling has been the policy of this State in every charter heretofore granted. The facility with which large stockholders can the House temporarily. combine against even a superior amount of cap ital in the hands of dispersed individuals suggested the idea of giving to the small share ho. der some proportioned advantage in voting .-Besides this consideration, something is due to the poor fellows in the concern, besides the mere length of the purse. They have bodies, and souls, and limbs, and sinews, and if ever defend these interests from foreign aggression, they are the reliance, the chief reliance of the STATE. Corn, Wheat, and Bacon are to be made. They are the substratum of all capital (as the Governor has elsewhere said.) Who makes these? Who carries on commerce? Who teaches Schools?
