"SAM" IN CONGRESS.

Mr. WHITE, of Pennsylvania, a few days since, introduced a preamble and a series of resolutions into the House, to the effect that a secret political organization exists in this country-that all political organizations of a secret. oath bound character are antagonistic to the cherished institutions of liberty, and declaring that the proscribing of any sect, on account of its religion, is dangerous to the liberties and prosperity of the nation. A suspension of the rules was necessary to introduce the matter, and, under the rules of the House, two-thirds were necessary for that purpose. The vote on suspending the rules for the purpose indicated stood: ayes 104, nays 78; as follows:

RE-ELECTION OF SEWARD. NEW YORK, Feb. 6 .- Wm, H. Seward was reelected United States Senator by the Legisla-ture of this State to-day. His majority on joint ballot was 22. In the Senate 6; and in the House 16.

We make the above announcement with the most painful regret. We had hoped, for the sake of the peace and quiet of the country, and Poreign, by way of an example to all future fanatics, that the arch-sgitator would have been defeated. But we have been disappointed; and the only question that remains is: by whom was he elec-

From a letter, published in the "New York Herald," and dated " Albany, Feb. 1st," we make the following extract :

"The Democratic members of both houses will hold a caucus in a day or two. They will decide not to present a candidate for United States Sen-ator, but that each Senator and member of the House will exercise his own discretion as to his preference of a candidate."

We subjoin some comments of the "American Organ" upon this extract, which clearly show how the election of Seward was consumma-

"So the Forneyites in the Assembly, alias the administration party, are to make no nominaallegiance to Democracy, and, under the orders of their masters at Washington, they are to exercise their own discretion, or, in other words, ercise their own discretion, or, in other words, join the Seward forces to "crush out" the Know-Nothings!

We do not object to this by any means, but we rejoice rather that the whole country will now have "demonstration strong as proofs from Holy Writ," that the professions of this administration in regard to the peace and quiet of the country are all morphine. the country are all moonshine.
Well, let the Forney and Pierce party go on tion-let the Forney and Pierce party; we say, proceed to carry out their schemes to the bitter end. The country is not asleep-there are watchful sentinels at the outposts and upon the watch-towers, and ere long the people will sweep away these combined elements of fraud, iniquity and corruption, and "they shall be known no more forever!" Perhaps there are some who will be incredulous on the subject of this coalition-some who cannot believe that this administration would play into the hands of Seward—some who yet have faith in the honesty of the professions daily published by the Forney and Pierce presses. But, the men who would squander the public money in reviving defunct German abolition papers on the sole condition that they should abuse the American party-the men who would submit to the demands of this gentleman, except to mention, that, so income this gentleman, except to mention, that, so income my knowledge is concerned, he has not been within the State for the last 10 months, until within the State for the meeting of this sens out of office to make room for the scum of foreign nations, are men of "easy virtue."

Such men are not too scrupulous to carry out have been worthless. their purposes by the violation either of con-sistency or of obligations. Another extract from the Albany letter above referred to may throw light upon this subject :

"The city is !ecoming filled with politicians from every portion of the State; almost every assembly district represented by a Whig Know Nothing has its delegates at the capital. The allabsorbing question is, shall Seward be Senator, or shall the election go over to another Legislature. when both Houses with be new? Never befor was such a pressure known to elect a single individual, or nobody. No labor, no time, no money. "No labor, no time, no money, no means

The corrupt influences growing out of causl contracts, jobs, and offices under the State government, are applied. Official patronage, official station, and all the appliances within the whole range of executive control at Washington, are thrown in the market to buy votes for William

H. Seward! Such is the plain English of the ast two sentences in the above extract. Now, these things are either true, or they are false. The result of next Tuesday's (last) proceedings at Albany will decide this question. The votes given in the New York Assembly are given vive voce, and the political complexion of he members are well known, so far at least as the late divisions between the administration men and the Whigs exist. The only doubt as to the political position in the Assembly has reference to a few members who profess to be Americans,' but who, it is believed, are of the bogus stamp. If, under the "discretion" posed to be given to the Forney and Pierce men in the Assembly, they vote for Seward, who then will doubt the existence of the scalition ? Nobody."

The "Memphis Eagle," speaking of the present financial pressure in the country, says :

REMARKS OF MR. CALDWELL, OF ROWAN.

MR. SPRAKER :- I reside in the midet of the sary to say a few words on this bill. There has been no law passed by our Legislature for many years, which will render as much benefit to that great interest as the one introduced by the gentleman from Rutherford at the session of 1850 '51, for which he deserves great credit.

That bill provided that our State should be examined by a competent and skilful person, to ascertain not only its mineral but its agricultural resources. However I may be in favor of the object of that bill, as well as the one now under consideration, I must be permitted to say, (in deference, however, to my friend from Rutherford,) that the purposes intended by the friends of this bill cannot be accomplished as long as Mr. Emmons has charge of this important work. I need not say snything against body. So far as my own section of North Caroline is concerned, I can say, sir, that his labors

Assurance Court Scraus.—At the first Circuit Court in Washington county, held by Judge John Reynolds, the Sheriff, on opening the Court, went out into the court yard and said to the people, "Boys, come in, our John is going to hold Court."

This reminds us of a good one we heard on Judge Huntington, now U. S. District Judge, when he was presiding Judge of this Circuit. The Judge, as many of our readers are aware, is a very affable gentleman off the bench, but on the bench he is a great stickler for the dignity of the Court. While holding Court at Bowling Green, in the county of Clay, some years ago, in a log cubin, the Judge, Attorney, and others in the room, were startled by a succession of sharp cracks, not unlike musket shots, It will be further seen, that the two Houses have resolved to adjourn on Wednesday next. NEW YORK, Feb. 5, 1855.

As the institutions of government become simplified, the course of legislation is more complicated. The progress of society sends to both of these results, and this constitutes an essential point of difference between ancient and modern laws. Moreover, under a free g. vetnment like ment like ours, every man and every interest must be represented, and we must conform to the theory at least of equal rights and untrammelled discussion. It is this prescriptive right which, renders legislation so tentative, and which crowds our statute books with such a multitude of enactments. There is danger, too, that the Dracos, Solone, and Lycurgusses, of one part of the Union, may undertake to provide laws for all other parts, and to cram their morsels of wiedom down other people's throats. This always looks suspicious, and if the world generally is full of boblogical intermeddlers, we know well enough that there is no searcity of nent like ours, every man and every interest know well enough that there is no searcity of them in our country. Even so the temperance question, there may be a great deal of intem-perate seal and a fair opportunity for busy-bo-dies to make themselves busy and to intermed-

dle. The public sentiment on temperance is clear enough and right enough; but there are so many issues mixed up in such a question, wherein public and private rights are involved, that it becomes extremely difficult to avoid all the dangers and difficulties attending it. The decisive action of our energetic Mayor, (whom the Boston Post calls "the Napoleon of May-ors,") in closing up the Sunday groggeries, has had the effect of bringing over many minds here in favor of a Maine law. "If," say they, the drunkards can be restrained so easily on one day in the week, why not restrain them every day?" But this by no means follows.—

For it may be expedient in a certain class of persons to surrender a little in small things only to hold on to greater ones. It certainly is a great point gained to have the Sabbath ob-served with more propriety than it usually has been heretofore in New York, which sets an example to the whole country. This is as far, perhaps, as the reformation will proceed for this year. In the State legislature now in ses-On the Bill introduced by Gen. The same condition of things exists in New Jersey, whose State Legislature is now in session at Trenton. It not unfrequently happens that contiguous States are influenced by the force of each other's example, and that the little it, after the usual remedies have failed boat follows in the wake of a bigger one. There mend it with confidence to the public. is no allusion to North Carolina's big neighbor on the northern border. In a commercial community like this, the vicissitudes of fortune are remarkable, and are frequently sudden and overwhelming. Six months ago, Mr. E. K. Collins, of this city, occupied an enviable position, and was considered one of the happiest and most fortunate men in one of the happiest and most fortunate men in the country. By his individual energy, he had succeeded in establishing a national line of steamers, and giving his name to it. Wealth had crowned his exertions, and bestowed upon him all the multiplied recovered of markets are the most eminent physicians in this place, Drs. Richardson and Wregg; and when I consulted the tatter, as to the propriety of trying it on him so low, he said I might, to satisfy myself that I had left nothing untried, but he did not think that med-im all the multiplied resources of worldly enoyment. In his country seat at Mamoroneek, Westchester, he had secured a lovely retreat, adorned with every embellishment of art and nature, His mansion looked out upon those bring waters of the deep, which had invited his enterprise, and rewarded it with such brilliant success. The partner of his happiness was eminently attractive in person, intelligent in mind, and dignified in her manners. His home was more than usually cheerful and happy, and every thing appeared fair and promising for the fu ture. He looked like a strong man rejoicing in his strangth and secure in his position. But what a change has taken place, and so sudden-ly and overpoweringly, that it is difficult to be convinced of its reality. To him who has been the chief sufferer, it still seems like a dream or vision of the night, which has spread such a gloomy pall and lengthened sorrow over all that heart cherished or hope wished for.

Mr. K. K. Collins is a large and portly man, till active and in the prime of life. His main characteristic is his rough and burly energy of character, adequate to the mastery of any diffi-culty. He still maintains this aspect and demeanor, but concealed beneath it is that heavy load of sorrow which is accumulated in proportion to his strength to hear it. To his other woes is now added the annoyance created by the special opposition of Commodore Vanderbilt, who is ambitious of breaking up the Colline line line of steamers, and substituting one of his own in its place, and he is likely to succeed in accomplishing it.

A fine portrait of Miss Collins, who was lost in the Arctic, may be seen at the rooms of an artist at the corner of Broadway and 13th street. It is copied from a daguerreotype likeness. She was the only daughter of her father and a great favorite with all who knew her.

should be taken under the counser of an attending Physician, and as he could not properly judge of a genedy without knowing its composition. I have supplied the accurate Formulæ by which both my Pectoral and Pills are made to the whole body of Principleoners in the United States and British American Provinces. If however there should be any one; who has not received them, they will be promptly forwarded by mail to his address.

Of all the Patent Medicines that are offered, how he would be taken if their composition was known!

Their life consists in their mystery. I have no misteries.

The composition of my preparations is laid open to all men, and all who are competent to judge on the subject freely acknowledge their convictions of their intrinsic merits. The Cherry Pectoral was pronounced by scientific men to be a wonderful medicine before its effects were known. Many eminent Physicians have declared the same thing of my Pills, and even more confidently, and are willing to certify that their anticipations were more than realized by their effects upon trial.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscers to purify the blood and atimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they axist, such decangements as are the first origin of disease.

Being sugar wrapped they are pleasant to take, and being purely vegetable, no harm can arrise from their use in any quantity.

For minute directions, see wrapper on the Box.
