IN A HEAVENLY MOOD. -

There is something exquisitely touching n the pious resignation with which Ridgeway, of the Richmond Whig, submits to his political reverses. He goes on the principle

"May cuss and swar, Rip, and tar thar ler but he will comfort himself with the reflection that the most pious (like himself, for instance.) have always been in a minority, and that majorities have taken for their leader the "fallen son of the Morn." But before we begin to rejoice, let us see who are to join in the joy. And first, we state emphatically this is no American victory. Rollins is an American, but he distinctly disavowed running on the American platform. He ran as an Independent to represent the entire clarses and interests of this great State, and he called on Bonton mon, foreigners, Whigs, Americans, Emancipationists, in fact, all parties, to vote for him. And be a majority of about twenty-five.

These are the parties then that are to rejoice together if Rollins is elected-Whigs, Benton Democrats, naturalized citizens, and Americans. It is a victory of the "best men of all parties."

The Louisville Journal says: "We have no doubt that if it were possible to purge the poll books in the Democratic precincts in the Ashland district of the Democratic votes llegally given there, Roger W. Hanson would be Mr. Fillmore in that district. The number of new Democratic voters manufactured for the occasion out of the new foreign material by the county courts in the district was more than twice the najority obtained by Jas. B. Clay.

We ask the attention of candid, conservative men of all parties to this fact and the result. A few foreigners who have not felt sufficient interest in the country or its institutions are hired by Democratic demagogues to obtain their naturalization papers and are driven like unthinking cattle to the polls to cast their votes as they are told to cast them by their employers. And by these votes the thousands of intelligent native-born freeman of that district are virtually disfranchised. Is it not shameful?
